MRS. CARMAN TO TAKE THE WITNESS STAND

Insists That Lawyer Give Her an Opportunity to Tell the People That She is Not the Sort of a Woman Who Would Kill Anybody—Trial Resumed Today

MINEOLA, L. I., Oct. 21.—Celia Coleman, negro maid in the Carman household and star witness for the state, testified today at the trial of Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman, accused of the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey, that Mrs. Carman had appeared to her, revolver in hand, a moment after Mrs. Bailey had been shot and that Mrs. Carman had said: "I shot him."

Celia thought Mrs. Carman referred to her husband, Dr. Carman.

TRIAL RESUMED

MINEOLA, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Unless she is overruled by her counsel, Mrs. Florence Carman, on trial for the murder on June 30 of Mrs. Louise Bailey, will take the witness stand in her own defense. This determination was made known by Mrs. Carman when District Attorney Smith announced that the state's case would be completed today.

and her leading attorney, John J. Graham, asked her if she thought it would be necessary for her to tell her story to the jury. Mrs. Carman's reply was emphatic:

"I insist," she said to Mr. Graham, "that you give me the opportunity to tell the people of this county that I'm not the sort of a woman who would kill anybody."

The district attorney's announcement that his case was about ended brought forth much speculation as to the nature of the defense for Mrs. Carman. That her counsel today will attack the testimony of Celia Coleman, the Carman negro maid, and Frank Farrell, the unemployed engineer, was certain. With the testimony of the maid and Farrell, the state was expected to rest its case.

It was believed today that the case would be in the hands of the jury by Friday night. Mr. Graham having informed the court that the defense would be completed by Thursday evening.

NAVAL BATTLE IN BALTIC SEA, NEAR RUGEN ISLAND

Capt. Johnson of British Steamer, Sunk by German Submarine Says Germans Ordered Him to Take Down Flag, Whereupon Officer Tore it Out of His Hands and Trampled it Under Foot

LONDON, Oct. 21.—An engagement between German torpedo boats and hostile submarines in the Baltic near Rugen Island off the Prussian coast is reported from Stockholm, according to a Central News despatch from Copenhagen. No details of the fight or its result given.

CAPT. JOHNSON TELLS OF SINKING OF BRITISH STEAMER BY GERMAN

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Captain Johnson and 16 men of the crew of the British steamer Glittera, sunk by a German submarine, have arrived in Stavanger, Norway, from Skindnes, according to a despatch to the Reuter Telegram company. In telling of his experience Captain Johnson said:

"The Glittera left Grangemouth, Scotland, Sunday noon with coal and coke for Stavanger. Monday afternoon the German submarine N 17 jumped out of the water to the starboard and stopped the ship. The place was about 10 miles southwest of Skindnes."

"The submarine sent a boat aboard with five men. With revolvers in hand they ordered the English flag taken down, threatening to shoot me if I did not obey. Furthermore, they notified me to make haste and they allowed me not more than ten minutes to let down the lifeboats and take off the crew."

"I took down the flag, whereupon the German officer tore it out of my hands and trampled it under foot. I was forced to take the ship's papers back when I attempted to take them off, and none of the crew was allowed to take any of their belongings."

"The crew went in two lifeboats which the submarine quickly towed five hundred yards from the Glittera. Three Germans remained aboard for a few minutes searching the ship thoroughly and rapidly and one of them evidently opened the bottom valves because the rear of the ship began to sink. Then in a short time the Glittera disappeared quietly beneath the waves."

"We in the lifeboats were ordered to row to the shore. When we reached Norwegian sea territory we met a small pilot boat which towed us until a Norwegian torpedo boat took us aboard."

SEIZE POLICE RECORDS

TWO TRANSFERS IN CHICAGO DETECTIVE BUREAU, TO AID INQUIRIES

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Capt. John J. Halpin, chief of the detective bureau, and Lieut. John H. Tobin, second in command, were removed from this branch of police work yesterday by Mayor Harrison and sent to outlying police stations.

The transfer, Mayor Harrison said, was temporary and in order to facilitate investigation into charges of illegal relations between members of the detective force and certain criminals.

The transfer followed shortly after Maclay Hoynes, state attorney, raided the office of the detective bureau and took away two trunk loads of records. Many of these records were secrets of the department. It was said.

Notes of prisoners who had not been booked, but released on police order, were expected to show collusion between thieves and certain detectives. Other notes were expected to show that influential citizens who reported robberies were given little encouragement by the department to press their claims.

Capt. William P. O'Brien, from an out-lying station, and Lieut. Charles Larkin, who has been detailed at the office of the state attorney, will take the places of Halpin and Tobin.

The deposed Heisterkamp was named in a warrant obtained Friday by C. T. (Barney) Bertsche as accessory in the plot to assault and kill him.

RUSSIAN REPORTS PROGRESS FOR AUSTRIANS—CAPTURE RUSSIAN GENERAL

LONDON, Oct. 21.—An official communication issued in Vienna at noon Tuesday is given in a despatch from Amsterdam to the Reuter Telegram Co. It says:

"The battle in Central Galicia has increased in force, especially north of the Striaz river, where our attacks are progressing."

"The attempts of the Russians to regain the Magiera heights have been repulsed. In the course of this fighting many Russians were captured, including one general. Several machine guns also were taken."

GREAT ANXIETY MANIFESTED IN GERMANY OVER WAR SITUATION

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 21.—The military correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt hints that there is a certain amount of anxiety about the situation manifesting itself in Germany. He explains, though, that a decision is likely to come "like a thief in the night" and that it will more probably be on the east front rather than in the west.

"While fresh masses of troops can be brought without hindrance over seas," he says, "they constitute an awkward adversary. Although the unity of their forces—if they invaded Germany—is to be doubted, Germany has still a somewhat hard task which must not be forgotten in waiting for the decision."

Chancellor Bethmann-Hollweg, according to the Tageblatt, is being attacked in certain influential circles as responsible for the war.

OFFICIAL GERMAN REPORT OF SINKING OF JAPANESE CRUISER

PEKING, Oct. 21.—An official German report on the blowing up of the Japanese cruiser Takachiho on the night of Oct. 17 sets forth that the German torpedo boat S-59 went to sea with the intention of attacking a larger cruiser. Falling in this, she had to content herself with the Takachiho.

As soon as this vessel had been disposed of the S-59 attempted to escape. It was found, however, that this movement could not be carried out successfully and she was run on the beach, after which the crew escaped ashore.

The Japanese legend here says that the work of mounting the siege guns before Tsing Tau has not yet been completed and that the bombardment of Tsing Tau probably will be delayed for several weeks.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 21.—Cardinal Mercier, archbishop of Malines, who took refuge in Holland several weeks ago, has now returned to his native city. He had advised all Catholic refugees to follow his example.

The Nieuwe Rotterdamse Courant declares that 20,000 Belgian refugees passed through Roosendaal on their way home during the past two days. It has been rumored that Namur has been reconquered by the allies, but this report is entirely without confirmation and is not believed here to be probable.

A despatch from Copenhagen says the last words of the late King Charles of Rumania were: "Save the fatherland, but do not shed blood."

"At all other points the situation is without any notable change."

GERMANS MET WITH REVERSE ON COAST AND ARE SAID TO BE RETREATING

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The correspondents of the London newspapers in the field have succeeded today in getting through some details of the fighting along the channel coast in Belgium. The reports agree that the Germans have met with reverse and it is said that the Germans are retreating.

In a despatch from Flushing, sent this morning, the correspondent of the Daily Mail declares that the Germans appear to have been driven back in an engagement at Middle Kerke, six miles southwest of Ostend. He says that cannon has now been placed near Ostend and adds that most of the German wounded had been removed from Bruges.

The Daily Mail's Rotterdam correspondent, under date of Tuesday night, says that according to a German mes-

TAX BILLBOARDS

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—At the hearing held in Boston yesterday by the commission to inquire into the subject of regulating and taxing signs, Secretary S. P. Sherman of the chamber of commerce, took the position that electrical signs and poster advertising had vested rights, being located on private property and were entitled to the protection of the law the same as any property rights, and by reason thereof should be subject to be taxed on the basis of their value, the same as other property, and if made to pay a tax, the enforced payment thereof might work to eliminate some of the worst features of this class of advertising.

That there was a demand for such advertising methods was evidenced by the large amount invested in the business, it being disclosed in a suit in the United States court that one company alone had expended over five million of dollars for advertising, most of it being for this class of work.

The commission will hold another hearing at a later date.

GOVERNOR WALSH OUT

FOR THE INITIATIVE
BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Governor Walsh, in his address at the democratic rallies held last night at Lexington, Arlington, Winchester and Needham, declared that the paramount issue in the present campaign is that of the initiative and referendum, otherwise known as "direct legislation."

They are the most sweeping measures for the destruction of corrupt rule and corporate domination—the supreme perils of the life of the government, according to the governor.

Asserting that the fatal failure of beneficent legislation is sufficient evidence that some powerful hand is behind the legislative curtains and manipulates the strings of government, Gov. Walsh declared that the initiative and referendum must be established if democracy is to mean anything.

Gov. Walsh's address was in part as follows:

"Do not believe that there is any question before the people of this Commonwealth which is more entitled to a paramount place than the establishment of the initiative and referendum, otherwise known as direct legislation."

"No government can be truly democratic or truly republican unless adapted to present day conditions. Although other parties have since declared emphatically and enthusiastically for this measure, the democratic party has declared for it as a principle in its platform in this state as far back as 1856."

"The initiative and referendum have been amply tested and they have proved thoroughly practical and effective. They are the most sweeping measures immediately obtainable."

"The initiative and referendum places the veto power in the hands of the people—the only place for it if democracy is to mean anything."

McCALL SAYS WALSH

ABROGATED STATE LAW
HARWICH, Oct. 21.—Samuel W. McCall, republican candidate for governor, attacked Gov. Walsh in his speech here last night. He said the governor had abrogated the statutory provision that members of the legislature may not be appointed to offices that they themselves have created.

George Walsh's Action
Mr. McCall said in part: "In Gov. Walsh's speech last Saturday night wherein he detailed the achievements of the party on Beacon Hill during the year, I observe that he refrains from offering an explanation for the suspension of the principle of the time-honored law in his reorganization of certain commissions this year."

"The abrogation of that wise provision which has been in our laws for over 50 years and which prevents the appointment of members of the general court during their term to offices which they themselves created in a feature of our state administration so pernicious that it will be difficult to find its parallel."

"If the precedent which was inaugurated this year is to be followed, we may expect in this state conditions of corruption which might easily equal anything New York has ever known."

"I am not at all criticising the character of the men thus appointed, but the principle involved. The separation of the administrative, legislative and judicial branches of our government has been guaranteed by the constitution. That principle has been violated in a way which threatens the independence of the house and senate and is subversive of the cause of good government."

"If elected I promise to resort to no such methods to secure legislation."

"The governor at Hyde Park Monday directed attention to a bill which he had signed amending our municipal ownership law by authorizing the gas and electric light commission to fix the price to be paid for a plant which a municipality should acquire instead of a commission appointed by the court under the previous law. But if the gas and electric light commission should be put upon a political basis as have some of the other commissions reorganized this year, then the cities and towns might well ask to be delivered from such jurisdiction."

CANDIDATE WALKER

DEFINES BOSSISM
BOSTON, Oct. 21.—What constitutes a true political "boss" and what the attributes are of a political "machine" were told at length last night by the Hon. Joseph Walker, the progressive candidate for governor, in an address at Concord.

Candidate Walker said in part: "The term 'boss' and 'machine' have been so much used and so much abused that they have lost their significance. Yet there is a vast difference between a true political party and a political 'machine'."

"A true political party is an organization with principles and policies designed for the public welfare. Its victory means, not simply the spoils of office, but an opportunity to carry out its policies, according to its principles, and always for the public good, as it conceives the public good."

"A political machine is a faction or group of men within a political party which has taken control of that party and diverts it from its public purpose to private ends—to the service of special interests by whom the 'machine' is supported, or to the plunder of the public treasury for the benefit of its members. It is the alliance between corrupt business and corrupt politics. A political party easily degenerates into a political 'machine,' but a 'machine' seldom rises to the true dignity of a political party."

"Now our great state leader, Chas. Sumner Eliot, and our great national leader, Theodore Roosevelt, are sometimes called 'bosses' by our opponents and our organization is called a 'machine.' Is this true? If the progressive leaders ever divert the progressive party from the true service of the public, if they ever are false to the great principles and policies of the progressive party, if they ever are subservient to private and special interests, then, and not till then, may they justly be termed 'bosses.'"

"A political party if it is to be effective must have organization, it must have leadership, it must have loyalty to its leaders. A political party is not dominated by a 'machine' merely because it is thoroughly organized. It is not the organization but the use to which an organization is put which constitutes the difference between a true political party and a political 'machine.'"

AMUSEMENT NOTES

OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT

If you enjoy a good laugh do not miss Jas. P. Lee in "Safety First" at the Opera House tonight. It contains the jolliest, heartiest humor conceivable, and is one of the biggest laughing hits of the season. The whole idea of "Safety First" is funny and the author has developed it with consummate skill, until the wonder is that so much fun could have been put in one play, fun and laughter that tumble over each other all the way through. To start with there is a clever play, not a mere hint of a plot with a lot of far fetched stuff thrown in to make laughs, but a really entertaining story with actual dramatic strength. There are real persons in "Safety First" and their tremendously funny adventures might reasonably happen, which makes it the more enjoyable.

As an extra and added feature "Country Store" is to be repeated tonight, and all those who feel at all lucky should not miss this chance to get a present, as nothing is given.

BRONCHIAL COUGHS

When the bronchial tubes are affected with that weakening, tickling cough, they need immediate and sensible treatment. The breath seems shorter because of mucous obstructions; usually fever is present and your chest aches with every cough. Your chest aches and the inflammation often spreads to the lungs.

The food- tonic that has proven its worth for forty years—is Scott's Emulsion. It drives out the cold, which is the root of the trouble, and checks the cough by aiding the healing process of the enfeebled membranes. If you are troubled with bronchitis or know an afflicted friend, always remember that Scott's Emulsion builds strength while relieving the trouble.

B. F. KETH'S THEATRE

Join the crowd and visit Keth's this week, for one of the classic hits of the season is being put forward there. Incidentally Madden & Fitzpatrick, with their inimitable little play, "The Turning of the Tide," are on view. About everybody remembers the pair—the man with the ideal manner and the tramp with the musical education. Their new play marks, under such comedy, a perfect gem of an idea, and this gem never fails to reappear in the minds of the audience. It is as human a play as vaudeville has seen in a long time. Mayd Muller and Ed. Stanley still purvey jesting of a very high grade. The little woman with the big voice is still capable of causing lovers of comedy to cut loose and laugh to their heart's content. Another splendid piece of entertainment is offered by Frankie Ray and the four Cox Sisters. It is all comedy and singing and dancing and excellent gawling. Chauncey Monroe & Co., in a farce, "A Business Proposal," is pleasing, and other acts on the bill are Marguerite & Hanley, Beatrice & Hunter, Mr. Quick and the Hearst-Selig News Pictorial. Seats may be obtained in advance at the box office. Phone 25.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Founded upon actual facts, told in a clear, convincing manner and superbly mounted is "Little Lost Sister," the present attraction in which the members of the stock company are being seen this week at the Merrimack Square Theatre. It is one of the most interesting of plays and so far has been endorsed by all who have witnessed this expose of the great white slave evil. It is being given afternoon and evening all this week and starting next Monday "The Blindness of Virtue" will be the offering. This is one of the best of Cosmo Hamilton's greatest successes, and will incidentally serve to introduce Miss Frances Shannon, the new leading lady. Seats are now on sale for all performances, box office phone 2053 and the subscription list remains open for the convenience of patrons wishing the same seat every week.

THEATRE VOYONS

For the first part of this week the Verons have secured all the favorites in comic plays, such as Arthur, John, Louis, Briscoe, Alice Joyce, Tom Moore and Mary Pickford in the following program: "An Affair of the Town," "The Informer," "The Spinderman Kate" and "Pathe Daily News" showing the havoc a fire works explosion wrought on several houses, and many others.

THE OWL THEATRE

for this week's program at the Owl is "The Brute," a great and vital drama, portraying the world-old conflict between the sexes. Malcolm Williams, one of America's greatest character actors is seen in the leading role of Donald Rogers "the brute," who finally conquers over his wife's willfulness and mercenary ways, by exerting his full physical strength. "The Brute" is a self-made man, wrapped up in his work, but loving his pretty and delicate wife and his little son, Robbie, with all the ardor of his great nature. He has no time to cultivate the niceties of life, and his rugged exterior and lack of social grace often annoys his wife, who loves him and secretly covets the wealth and position her hard-working husband is unable to give her. An old suitor, now a rich man, comes across their path. She half promises to elope with him, the suitor hurries west to sell his belongings and is stricken by death on his way back, leaving his entire fortune to her. The wife is crushed with remorse and realizes that her fear of her husband's discovery, is greater than the sorrow she feels for the dead man. She then realizes her love for her husband. Succeding events are highly dramatic, how she accepts the fortune bequeathed her, how the husband eventually discovers the truth, exerts his supremacy and conquers her are vividly portrayed and the finale is most exciting. The feature is in four acts, and five other regular plays have also been booked. "Her Mother's Necklace," in two parts, "A Mother's Trust," "The Blue Car and "High Spots on Broadway," a Keystone are especially worthy of mention on the regular program.

ABOUT HOUSEWORK

Perhaps there is no more beneficial exercise for the average woman than housework. Sweeping especially is as promotive towards beauty and health as a game of tennis. Every muscle of the body is brought out in play.

Perhaps there is no more beneficial exercise than sweeping which brings every muscle of the body into play. But sweeping is a strenuous and fatiguing exercise and until one is used to it a very little sweeping will tire one out.

Scrubbing keeps the figure supple and slender. Only a slip, active woman can scrub comfortably, and the woman who scrubs much usually keeps slim and active. But be sure, while scrubbing, to keep the back straight.

Dusting is an admirable exercise which every woman may take advantage of, but the chief benefits of dusting come from the reaching and bending over necessary to get at mantels, high book shelves and the legs of tables and chairs.

Dusting will not do you much good if you flick at the chair legs with the duster. Every chair should be turned about and dusted in every part, and if you have to stoop or even kneel down to dust the shelves under the table or the carved legs of the piano, so much the better—from the standpoint of exercise.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Frank Hannigan of the Northern Waste company, is thinking seriously of giving the stage another trial.

The girls in the Hoot mill clothroom are still talking about the enjoyable husking bee held recently.

Thomas Cunliffe of the Hamilton Manufacturing Co. has returned from a trip to Bangor, Me. He was gone two weeks.

Charles Ainscough of the Merrimack Manufacturing Co. gave the boys quite a lecture on their tax papers recently. They say it was quite instructive.

George Booth and Jack Motley of the Massachusetts mills have not decided yet as to the best manner in the city yet. Ask Tom Baxter, boys.

Robert Yates will manage and play end for the football team that will represent the Bigelow Carpet corporation on the gridiron this season.

Thomas Clark of the Ray State mills rendered "At the Ball, That's All" at the party last night. Thomas is coming to the front as a soloist.

Frank Morris, of the Mohair Push company, is highly elated over the coming return of the glaze dances in which he is remarkably proficient.

Miss Katherine Maher, formerly employed at the Merrimack Manufacturing Co. is now connected with the A. G. Pollard Co., where she would be pleased to meet her many friends.

Frank Tetrault of the A. G. Pollard Co. is very likely to be seen again on the stage this year. He is said to be Leo Wilcox, a popular employee of the Helon Electric Co., is said to be making preparation for the coming social event to be held under the auspices of the Paragon club.

The picture which represents the capture of Salonika by the victorious Greek army Oct. 25, 1912, which is shown in the window of the Merrimack Clothing company, is attracting considerable attention.

John Devine, head clerk at the A. & P. store in Merrimack street, came within an ace of winning the beautiful prize offered by the enterprising manager, Mr. Barslow. Better luck next time, John.

Now that baseball has been cast to the winds, we wonder what sport Ascent Walker of the Lawrence Manufacturing company will pick out for his boys. Some very good timber is available for a fast basketball team.

Ed. Looney, the athlete whom the Old Timer refers to quite frequently in his Quarter Century articles, is employed as a machinist at the Charles-town Navy Yard. He is the man who trained Wrenn in his endurance contest this summer and has handled many other athletes of note. He will have Wrenn and Motney under his wing next year.

Chester Hartigan, of the Federal Shoe company, by his playing in the basketball game between Mike Wrenn's team of giants, and a picked team of Y. M. C. A. athletes, deserves a place in the limelight one more. The game was regularly scheduled for last night but Chester had an engagement, hence the change. But, be that as it may, Chester scored 12 hard baskets from the floor, and the ball wasn't handed to him by the opposing players either. Far be it from such. Every player on the opposing side was mighty envious of Chester's athletic ability and went into the fray with the determination to keep him under surveillance at all times. But it couldn't be done and the Federal all around athlete belongs all the credit of the victory.

Woolsorters Union

A very largely attended and enthusiastic meeting was held last night by the Woolsorters union in the union headquarters in Odd Fellows building. Business of considerable importance was transacted and three propositions were received and favorably acted upon. Several of the members made interesting remarks on the good of the union which proved very instructive. The secretary's report showed the union to be in an excellent financial condition.

Carpenters Union

Carpenters union, local 49, held its regular meeting last night in Carpenters hall in the Funnels building. President E. J. Golden presided. A list of very important business was transacted and several committee reports were read and accepted. Two new members were admitted and five applications for membership received. These applications were referred to the investigating committee, and will be acted upon at the meeting to be held next Tuesday evening. President Golden, Business Agent Michael A. Lee, as well as many of the members, spoke on the good of the union, and their interesting remarks were listened to attentively. The secretary's report showed the financial and numerical condition of the union to be progressing. Although the present time is very slack in the building trades, the members of the union are well employed.

Unemployed in England

The textile trade unions in England, which of late have been dispensing large sums of money weekly to unemployed members, are seeking help from the government with regards to payment of such funds.

A deputation of textile operatives lately waited upon the president of the board of trade in order to lay the case of the operatives before him. Earlier in the day the question was put to the prime minister of the house of commons, asking whether the government was in a position to say what proposals, if any, they had to make for assisting the textile industry, to overcome the difficulties arising out of the war which has resulted in an increase in unemployment. It was announced that if the trade unions would increase their unemployment contributions, the government would supplement such payments in order to spread unemployment benefits over a longer period.

A deficit of $13,347 resulted this year after charges, against a balance of $27,588 in 1913. Net current assets are reported at $2,214,087, against $3,148,331 the year previous. The plant has been running very slack for some time, but it is thought that before the end of the winter conditions will be much better.

Comparative figures for this quarter in 1911, 1912 and 1913 are as follows:

	Net Earnings	Interest	Dividends	Slackings
1911	$150,027	$78,112	$59,265

The same quarter in 1912 showed a balance of $106,375; in 1913, $27,588, and the present year a deficit of $13,347.

Help Wanted!

Strange to relate, but nevertheless true, is the fact that a certain prominent young man, an employee of the A. G. Pollard company, is being set forth by his friends as the champion baby pacifier of New England. It seems that this big department store leaves "baby" in his department with the parting admonition of "now baby, be good while mamma's away; she'll be right back." But mamma generally stays too long and baby gets impatient with the result that bugle calls are heard from one end of the store to the other. The baby pacifier, always on the job, talks to him, gets him things to play with, and applies other methods to quiet him, and in the end the disguised laughter usually ceases. But it is a thankless job. Yesterday afternoon, a fond mother came into the store and entrusted her young one to the care of this young clerk, while she journeyed to some other department to make a purchase. In the meantime, a customer, came into the store and he proceeded to wait on her. He had just completed the sale, when baby, who must have got impatient at nobody noticing him, tried to get out of the carriage and fell out. Then, emitted cries and wails that startled nearly everybody in the store. The young man rushed over and picked baby up, cooed him and in a very short time baby was fast asleep. At this moment, the mother came over, and seeing the child in the clerk's arms, got quite excited and what she said to him put him in a very embarrassing situation, for there were many clerks and customers within hearing. The clerk tried to explain how the child fell out, etc., but to no avail and the parent tucked the child in the carriage and proceeded out through the door, without saying a word of thanks. Such is life.

Muddling the Cotton Problem

The Journal of Commerce of New York has the following to say, editorially, of the problem of handling the cotton situation:

No countenance whatever should be given to any of the schemes for financing the cotton crop or any other scheme with government funds, government currency or government credit. Congressman Henry has bought out a new plan for disposing "United States notes" to the amount of $250,000,000, or "so much thereof as may be necessary," by banks in states producing cotton or tobacco, at loans at a rate not exceeding four per cent, upon security of cotton or tobacco produced this year. It is not worth while to go into further details regarding any of the wild schemes, of which this is among the worst. We have already done that to a sufficient extent, and a quietus should be put upon them all at the first opportunity by decisive action. Mr. Henry has written a letter to Secretary McAdoo on this question of financing the cotton crop by such methods, which can hardly be characterized as otherwise then impertinent. It is certainly not calculated to help the cause of the cotton grower or benefit the party responsible for legislation so largely represented from the cotton states. The real lenders of that party cannot afford to countenance any unsound or dangerous position of the government or undermining the currency system. An attempt has been made to fix a time in the senate for a vote on the administration revenue bill, which has already passed the house, and it is said that a group of southern senators will attempt to have some measure for the relief of the cotton situation by government action appended to it as an amendment. As a time for taking a vote can be fixed only by unanimous consent, the best course for removing the threatened obstruction is to allow the amendment to be offered and vote it down overwhelmingly, and so clear the decks of congress once for all of such perilous stuff. It should be understood that all such efforts are useless as well as foolish, and the administration only needs to take an unequivocal stand to have it so understood. Nothing could be more calculated to discredit it than to show a weak toleration for such schemes.

Nobody will deny that the cotton producers and the dealers in that staple are put in a hard position by the effects of the war in Europe and are entitled to every reasonable consideration. It is not the only business interest that is suffering, but it is made exceptional by the extent to which a number of states are dependent upon the cotton crop, the importance of cotton as an article of export and as a material of manufacturing industry both at home and abroad, and the great number of people affected by the interruption of trade in both the material and the manufactured goods. It is a peculiar emergency and one difficult to deal with so as to minimize the inevitable losses; but it must be dealt with in a business-like way or much greater harm will be done than will be prevented. The cotton business cannot expect to be saved from loss by inflicting greater losses upon other business and imperiling that of the whole country just at a time when general conditions are critical and the utmost caution is necessary to avoid disastrous mistakes.

The special misfortune of the cotton situation is that a year's supply has been already produced to meet a normal demand for a year, while a war between the most important nations to be supplied has suddenly cut off a very large proportion of the demand, leaving a great surplus which cannot be disposed of at once without a ruinous sacrifice for those who have provided it. The problem is to provide some means for holding this surplus from the market and carrying it along until the best can be done with it in meeting such demand for actual consumption as exists, and such as will come as industry and trade recover ground. It cannot be done without expense and loss and this should be lessened by wide distribution so far as possible among those who have an interest to be subserved, but the burden should not be thrown upon the government at the risk of breaking down a system of currency and credit upon the stability of which all the business of the country depends.

The resources and credit which should be called upon to surmount this difficulty and solve the problem are those of the business community concerned and the banking agencies of the country, with such support of government authority as may be legitimately extended, but not by the use of government funds or credit or the

Worms Sap Children's Health

Mothers often wonder why their children are not rugged and hardy. In a vast number of cases the trouble is—Worms.

Signs of worms are: Indigestion, variable appetite, craving for sweets, nausea, vomiting, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly, eyes heavy and full, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

straining of the currency system. It is not more currency that is needed for this purpose, but a cautious use of business and banking credit on an assured basis of value. An attempt is being made to work out a plan for this without the interposition of congress, but the utmost care should be taken not to restrict the actual sale of cotton more than is necessary by maintaining an artificial price which cannot be justified by any reasonable calculation for the future. It is necessary to hold cotton for which there is no market, but that for which there is a real market should be sold at a price at which the market can take it. Holding the entire stock for an arbitrary price, which might be had if conditions were normal, or which may possibly be obtainable months hence, will be a losing operation in the end on account of the cost of holding and financing that would be involved.

they did not carry the thing too far the police did not interfere. Libbee was the one who had to bear the brunt of the attack, for Morris, the other captive, succeeded in making good his escape. Dressed in feminine attire he was marched down Merrimack street and quickly became the center of attraction for a large crowd. His rendition of "Put Your Arms Around Me" was greatly enjoyed. At city hall he was auctioned off the building, but as there were no bidders the sale was called off. It will surely be sold next year. In a downtown luncheon he was forced to remain seated in a front window and eat macaroni, much to the enjoyment of his tormentors and the large crowd that gathered around. But the Lowell boy was game and bravely enjoyed the fun as much as his hated rhyms.

WANT AMERICAN AUTOS

French Factories Closed—British Need Cars—Great Demand for American Machines

"There are days of thrilling adventures and experiences for American representatives in Europe, said a foreign representative of an American company upon his arrival in New York the other day.

The sea is well patrolled by British cruisers, and our trip over was without incident although there was an atmosphere of suppressed excitement that kept the passengers keyed up.

The great war has affected the production of British-made automobiles but slightly, but that fact will have no bearing on the greater opportunities for American export that will eventually grow out of the struggle. While the factories are running overtime they are producing cars for government service.

The French factories are all closed, not from want of money, but from lack of labor. Every able-bodied man from 21 to 50 years of age is at the front. The factory organization will be so badly demoralized at the close of the war that it will require months, if not years, for plants to return to full production. There should be a big demand for trucks and delivery vans and automobiles of low and medium price.

This fact should give American makers their opportunity, for the cars now in the army will be short lived owing to the fact that factories are not in position to furnish damaged parts, and few cars used by the army can ever be returned to the owners. European countries, with the exception of Great Britain, are and will be at the close of the war practically without automobiles. There should be, therefore, a great market for American cars.

Auto Business Resuscitated

The automobile business has gradually become resuscitated—the sound judgment prevails among manufacturers and consumers alike. The day has passed when a man's enthusiasm to own and drive a car will make him lose sight of the business side of the proposition at the time of buying. It is an easy matter to tell a man that a car is simple and that all parts are accessible, but the shrewd man insists on having it proved to him that such is the case. The manufacturer realizes that if he is to be continued in business it is to his interest to build a car that will give years of continued satisfaction.

Common sense will tell a man that a cluttered up engine will not last as long as the neatly designed, clean cut engine, and the tendency is to eliminate all complications and make one part do the work of two parts in a better way. A chassis with a few parts cannot wear out as quickly and make the noise that one with many parts will.

The thinking man is looking for economy and he will hesitate in buying gasoline for a car that has a weight of around 700 pounds per passenger when he can get the same convenience and pleasure from one with but 500 pounds weight per passenger. He knows it is expensive to pass the extra 100 pounds around just for the fun of it. The foolishness of useless weight has been realized and the automobile designer is doing much to reduce it. The result is that the mileage per gallon of gasoline is being doubled. The result is that the going is easier than the fore and stroke, and the body finish. The combining of all the good points of motor car construction in one car appeals, and saves much explaining on the part of the manufacturer and dealer.

fought shy of them. They had the money and the inclination, but lacked the necessary confidence in the car themselves. This was due in a measure to the complicated construction of the operating devices and the machinery in general.

This fault has been entirely eliminated in the modern automobile. A man no longer worries about a hundred and one things while driving his car and does not have to familiarize himself with each and every little detail of its construction. After one or two lessons he acquires the necessary confidence and all that remains for him to do is to follow a few set rules.

There was a time when a man did not feel safe in taking his family out unless he had an experienced chauffeur at the wheel. There were so many things liable to happen at a moment's notice, requiring the attention of a practical man, that he did not care to take a chance on his own meager knowledge of the car. But those times have passed. The young son or daughter nowadays is just as expert at driving as the father and it is a common occurrence to see the junior member of a touring party piloting the car across country. In fact the operation is so simple that the father of a family finds the garage empty when he least expects it.

Mr. Batchelder Announces 1915 Indian
After many moons the new 1915 Indian is announced and George Batchelder, who has charge of the local reservation of this silent business, is impatiently awaiting its arrival. About the new model Mr. Batchelder speaks most enthusiastically. It has many important changes both in mechanism and beauty. The improvements number about thirty.

To quote Mr. Batchelder: "Indian leadership has never had greater exemplification than in its 1915 models; never achieved so surely and so fully, never for all its remarkable past, more deeply justified its position as the premier machine of its kind."

For some time there has been a desire among riders for a light-weight machine developing 10-horse power. To meet this demand the manufacturers of the Indian have developed a light-weight, twin-cylinder model of 10-horsepower, which is 75 pounds lighter than the regular twin. It is expected that this machine will prove unusually attractive to those who want a light motorcycle for city use, or who dislike the weight of the high-powered twin.

One of the main features of this model is the motor construction. All the bearings and cam mechanism are identically the same size as are used in the larger twin. A specially designed roller-bearing clutch is used that amply takes care of the power and weight of the machine plus the strains and usage.

Mr. Batchelder tells of the sad plight of a machine he witnessed on the road to Littleton, N. H., last Sunday. Part of his trip a big, heavy machine swept past him majestically and soon left him out of sight. After covering a number of miles Mr. Batchelder saw this same machine, but it was stationary—very stationary. In fact the two rear wheels had caved in and it was sitting very solidly on its differential. As he passed the unfortunate car Mr. Batchelder turned to his companion in the car and with his quiet smile said: "It pays to make haste slowly."

CITY OF BOSTON ON HUNT

FOR A SITE FOR THE PROPOSED PUMPING STATION—FORT POINT CHANNEL SITE REJECTED

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Once again the city of Boston has to go on the hunt for a site for the proposed pumping station to be operated in connection with the high-pressure water service.

Mayor Curley, by long-distance telephone, heard from Col. Jadwin at Washington that the board of engineers had reported to the war department at Washington recommending that the application of the city of Boston for privilege to erect the pumping station at Fort Point Channel be rejected.

Col. Jadwin said that the city had the right of appeal, but the mayor decided that it would not be worth the trouble, as the end undoubtedly would be the same.

The mayor is now considering a site at the water's edge just below the Charlestown bridge north. It is what is known as the Goodnow wharf.

The Fort Point channel site the mayor considered an ideal one for safety. The other, he says, is less safe, but good. The Fort Point channel site is the third or fourth to be abandoned because of objections.

Mayor Curley announced yesterday that he had approved a contract to furnish Faneuil hall with heat for the next five years, the terms being $3000 for the first year and $2000 for each of the other four. The old price, for heating was $1000 annually.

THE MAN IN THE MOON

The Lowell Choral Society met last evening and the meeting was largely attended. The success of the society's last season's work no doubt means still greater success for the season that is just beginning. Mr. Hood again will be its conductor and it will take up Mendelssohn's oratorio of Elijah. This great work has been given by local choruses before with more or less efficiency; but it can be said with confidence that the present chorus will give its grand and beautiful choruses a presentation never before heard in Lowell. The society will present the best soloists obtainable. The society's friends, and they comprise the entire musical public of Lowell and suburban towns, will look forward to the first concert with great interest; and the only disappointment many friends will experience will be due to the fact that Lowell has no auditorium big enough to hold them all, or all who wish to attend the first concert. Spending a few days recently in the town of Wilton, N. H., I had the pleasure of attending a concert given by a number of young men from Lowell in the hall at the Center. It was the Haydn male quartet and the Paetzli trio; and they furnished an entertainment that was interesting and artistic. Their success can be measured when the audience unanimously declared it the best thing of its kind that ever Wilton heard. I was proud myself of their work and added my congratulations to the general fund. As country people have no half-way methods in showing their appreciation when once they get convinced, it is safe to say that should the quartet and trio visit Wilton again the whole country side would be on hand to welcome them. The members of the Haydn male quartet are Harry Patten, Carl Mason, Don Hanson and Guy Johnson, while the trio members are Leo Bissone, violin, Richard Mason, cello, and Carl Mason, piano. Perhaps the above may interest their Lowell friends.

From the Kaiser
The Kaiser writes me that he is still in the ring and is fit for a fight. He hopes to land his knockout most any old time. He tells me not to believe what I read about German reverses for there have been none—or nearly none. He says he has J. Bull scared and that he doesn't blame him, for Bull intends to land an army of half a million men before long on John's shores and will then proceed to shoot up the country. With his Zepplins above and his submarines under the waters of the English channel he intends to keep British men-of-war away, thus rendering the invasion of England a sort of excursion or holiday affair. Bull promises to keep me informed of what happens and what doesn't happen. I mention this so that all who want reliable war news will be able to find such in The Sun at least once a week—that is if friend Bill makes good his promise.

Building a Lavin
A friend of mine has recently built

a house in the Highlands. He is now engaged in building a lawn to go with the house and preferring the advice of his friends than to be bossed by a landscape gardener, has been over-ruled with that advice. It is of such a nature that he finds the prospect he makes is of a backward nature. It is safe to say that most of these friends haven't had any practical experience in lawn making, yet some take it upon themselves to tell my friend literature upon the subject. They imagine they are having lots of fun with him, but he smiles grimly and works on for he intends to show these dear friends a lawn that is a lawn, for it is needless to say he threw all the advice he got to the winds long ago. You would have done the same.

Should Not Go Unmeasured

Although we know that most of Europe is at war and folks over there are at each other's throats, it is possible that the war side in some degree has reached our fair shores, and even penetrated the sacred precincts of our municipal buildings. That an edifice dedicated to the peaceful pursuits of business and government should become a scene of invective, assaults, unbecoming acts or other conduct open to criticism is a great pity and will-highly unbelievable. Yet it is broadly stated that scenes have been recently enacted there which shouldn't be permitted to pass unmeasured. It certainly looks as though all decent officials should take a half-way step in this matter for their own sakes and the reputation of the city which they serve. The policy of "hush up" may be well at times; but practiced too much is bound to react eventually. It is up to some gentlemen to act.

The Belvidere Tragedy

Concerning that tragedy over in Belvidere a few weeks ago little or nothing is said nowadays. The silence is such as to suggest that our sleuths of the police department are either running the murderer to earth, or have given up the case entirely. Still hunts are often the most effective ones, and if one is being persistently engaged in, all good citizens of Lowell, fervently hope it may be successful. It is easy for imaginary Sherlock Holmes to sit back and criticize police inspectors of course. There's no doubt but that any officer of the police force would gladly forfeit a month's pay to catch the murderer who may be still walking the streets of Lowell. It would be the best of news to learn of his capture, not only for the sake of justice, but for the good name of our city, where too many capital crimes have been committed with the perpetrators thereof still unapprehended.

The Welcome Rain

The rain which began to fall Thursday night was most welcome to the parched earth. The farmer whose wells were empty and whose brooks were dry hailed it with joy, and he hopes now that the spell is broken, that we may have two weeks of it. The traveler along the highways can journey in comfort without being cooled and blinded with dust as light as air. Those local farmers who have been fighting fires for days and nights, going long without rest or food, can get relief and enjoy once more a period of much needed rest. All of us, whatever our condition, welcome the break of the long drought and feel satisfied to let it rain as long as it will. October, scarcely two-thirds gone, has given us a series of beautiful days and permitted the world's series to be pulled off under ideal weather conditions. She afforded us delight in her dress of variegated hues, nor less to see her half-orbed moon descend the sloping zenith and red Orion climb the eastern skies. She has given us five nights in which to hunt the comet and may give us more, I hope. She has given us the pleasure of sitting before the open fireplace and enjoying the juice of the apples and the meat of the nuts that grow in her woods. She contributes to the good cheer which envelopes all and is heard in every joyous laugh and timely tale. She yields the harvest that nourishes and maintains the nation—this year greater than ever. She gives us rain and doing so, sacrifices her outward beauty, yet lifts the curtain and gives us a day of sunshine and warmth as if in token of her love, then closes in and again rains.

In the days remaining she will give much to those of observant eye and responsive heart. October days, that leave its strange "foreshades of things ideal" everywhere!

SCORES LEGISLATURE

Bird Declares Stand-Pat in Session Killed Bill to Allow Cities to Sell Coal

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Charles Sumner Bird, speaking last night at Fall River for the candidates on the progressive state ticket, attacked the 1914 legislature as a stand-pat one, and charged that it denied the cities and towns of the state the right to sell coal and ice.

If the cities and towns sold coal, he declared, there ought to be saved to the people of the state an amount equal to the annual cost of the entire state government. If the cities and towns sold ice he said the people of the state would save several millions dollars annually.

Mr. Bird accused the stand-pat republicans and democrats of killing the bill that would give the people this right. At the conclusion of his remarks he asked, "Does Mr. McCall favor such legislation? Let him tell the people where he stands upon this measure."

WHY NOT RAISE HOGS?

There's Wealth for the Farmer in the Business, E. T. Cash Declares at Packers' Convention

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Wealth will come more quickly to the man who enters the business of raising hogs than any other branch of farming he may choose. E. T. Cash of St. Louis yesterday made this assertion before 700 members of the American Meat Packers' Association attending the ninth annual convention here.

There is more money in raising hogs than in any other branches of farming, Mr. Cash said, because they can be fed cheaply and the demand in the markets of the world is daily increasing and will continue to increase. High prices, he asserted, would prevail indefinitely.

Hog cholera, which in 1912 caused a loss of $55,000,000 to the American farmer, has been brought under such control that soon the farmers will have only themselves to blame if they suffer great losses from the disease. Dr. F. G. Hinkle of the United States bureau of Animal Industry declared.

What Happened to the Cats?

Not long ago the U. S. Gov't made some experiments to determine the poisoning qualities of caffeine (the drug in coffee).

Twenty-seven healthy cats were given an average dose of 5 4-5 grains of caffeine—about as much of the drug as is contained in 2 cups of coffee.

What do you suppose happened?

The Cats All Died!

See Gov't Bulletin No. 148, Bureau of Chemistry.

Of course they were only cats.

But there are plenty of people who dose themselves with enough caffeine every day to kill a cat and Cripple a Man, not at one blow, but by little blows repeated daily.

Of course some systems are strong enough to stand all kinds of abuse, but most systems are not. And when a man or woman observes a growing nervousness or sleeplessness, heart trouble, stomach, bowel or eye disturbance, it is time to quit coffee and turn to a real food-drink, free from the coffee drug, "caffeine."

It is easy to shift from coffee to

for in POSTUM one gets a delicious drink with the true nourishment of whole wheat from which it is made. Postum is roasted (like coffee) with a bit of wholesome molasses, looks like coffee and has a delightful flavour resembling Old Dutch Java, but is entirely free from the coffee drug, caffeine, or any other drug or harmful substance.

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum which must be boiled. Instant Postum—soluble form—made in the cup instantly with hot water. Grocers sell both kinds and the cost per cup is about the same.

EVERY DAY ETIQUETTE

"Bobbie is awfully jealous when any of the other boys call," sighed young Alice. "I wish he could realize that I want other friends."

"It is very foolish for any girl to let a man friend say whether or not she should have other men friends. One should cultivate as many desirable friends as possible, for in this way only is a girl able to judge the different types of men. When she knows a number of men she is better able to decide the all-important question of marriage, having learned the qualities of the various associates. Of course, when a girl is engaged to marry, it is only natural that she would prefer to share the bulk of her time with her fiance," answered her aunt.

"When I am out walking with one girl or riding in the street car with another and another girl comes up to us, should I introduce her to my friend?" asked Helen, the other day of her mother.

"If you hold a conversation with the girl you should most certainly introduce her to your friends. If the girl merely stops to exchange greetings or to give you an important piece of news, and is evidently in a great hurry to move on, there would be little opportunity to make the introduction. When it is convenient, it is usually best to introduce your friends," replied her mother.

"Please enumerate the various times a man should lift his hat?" asked John, who had just arrived at the age of 13 and felt the responsibility of courteous manhood seriously.

"A man must raise his hat under the following circumstances: When he acknowledges a woman's bow; when recognizing clergymen or distinguished or elderly gentlemen of his acquaintance; when walking with a woman and he salutes his friends or she salutes her friends; whether they are known to him or not; when he passes a man.

friend who is accompanied by a woman; when offering his seat to a woman in a public conveyance; when drawing to one side in a narrow way to allow her free passage; when giving any information she may ask; when resting anything she may have dropped; when doing her some slight service; and when a woman under his escort receives some courtesy from a stranger," replied his father.

"What should be said when someone says 'I am pleased to meet you?' With whom should one shake hands when an introduction is made?" asked Katherine, returning from a walk.

"It is sufficient to say, 'Thank you, I am sure the pleasure is mutual.' A woman is at liberty to take the initiative in shaking hands with a man. She may also do so with a woman, unless the woman be much older than she or holds some prominent position," replied her mother.

"I have received an invitation to a church wedding. Would it be proper for me to acknowledge this invitation?" asked Marie, puzzled.

"If you are invited to witness the church ceremony only, you need not reply. If the invitation included cards to a reception, you should send your cards to the bride's parents, so that they reach them the day of the ceremony. You need not make any reply at all if you intend to be present at the church, answered her oldest sister.

"When one has an electric toaster is it proper to have it on the table when the guests are present?" asked elderly Mrs. Brown.

AUTOPSY SHOWS THAT FORMER PARTNER OF SIEGEL HAD HEART TROUBLE AND BRIGHTS DISEASE

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—An autopsy is determining the cause of the sudden death in the Hotel Biltmore Monday night of Frank E. Vogel, former partner of Henry Siegel and with him made defendant in 14 indictments arising out of the failure of the Henry Siegel & Co. Bank, was held yesterday at the orders of Coroner Hellenstein.

The family of the dead man concurred in the coroner's desire to clear up the cause of Vogel's death, feeling as they did that rumors of suicide had been set at rest by the revelation of natural causes for the death.

Coroner Physician Lehan announced at the end of the autopsy that heart trouble, complicated by brights disease had been the cause of Vogel's death.

FOUR DAYS A WEEK

Working Schedule is Cut at Mill of the Parkhill Company at Fitchburg

FITCHBURG, Oct. 21.—The mills of the Parkhill company, which furnish employment when running full to some 3500 hands, will be operated four days each week for the present, according to notices posted yesterday in the mills of the company. The operatives will work 10 hours on each of the four days. The regular schedule calls for 54 hours a week.

Russell B. Lowe, president of the company, said yesterday afternoon that the mills would not be operated on full time until the cotton market was better. Mr. Lowe said that the present tariff undoubtedly affected the business to some extent.

WHY DO YOU VOTE?

One of the very evident things that cannot be repeated too often when speaking of municipal politics is that the citizens of any community get the kind of government that they demand; if the public standard is low, the political standard is correspondingly low; if the type of government is undesirable in any particular, there is danger that, in the aggregate, the voters do not demand other than an undesirable variety of service from their public servants.

To understand this matter fully and to plan intelligently for better conditions, one must realize that it is the individual vote that counts. The political voice of a city is the sum of individual preferences. The man who would reform the public affairs of his city must devote as much attention, if not more, to the vote of the man on the street as to the vote of the theorist who sits in his office and plans for better things. It is not encouraging for the man of affairs who regards municipal government as a serious problem to see it made the sport of political conjurers and self-seekers aided by an unthinking or misled public, but it is the duty of each voter nevertheless to use his personal influence in the cause of reform.

If all hypocrisy and pretence were removed before elections and if aspirants to office told the truth as to why they desired political positions, city affairs would be conducted on an altogether different basis. The man who assumes a lofty and disinterested air might then say: "I want to be mayor, or commissioner or other public official because it is a good job; the salary appeals to me; I will have many opportunities to make money indirectly owing to my prominence; I will be able to take care of my friends." Or he might say: "I am anxious to hold public office because I am ambitious and the feeling that my fellow citizens may place confidence in me and give me a position of prominence and trust urges me to appeal for their support." No matter how fine the speeches or how apparently disinterested the sentiments expressed, many among the voting public suspect selfish motives in most municipal campaigns and are swayed accordingly.

Even more important than the real motives of the men who aspire to municipal offices are the motives of the voters generally. Over and over again we have seen men elected to high positions after having manifested every form of personal and official unfitness. Men who have been guilty of downright dishonesty, men who have displayed the grossest incompetence, men who have acted shamefully in their private life and been a fruitful source of scandal, men who have catered to the low element in the public and pandered to every gross passion, men finally who have not shown one redeeming feature as public officials have been re-elected at times with great majorities. Even jail records have proved beneficial to some politicians rather than the contrary. How can one avoid wondering what prompts some men to vote for their choice of political aspirants?

Applied to local conditions, one may be pardoned for asking bluntly: Do the people of Lowell desire good government—and by "good" government is meant honest and efficient government rather than the fake brand of municipal "sanctity" that has been exploited to the disgust of normal-minded people? Do the people want the latest and the best? Do they want Lowell to lag away behind while other cities in the commonwealth are forging to the front? Do they want our city to be branded as residentially undesirable, as industrially crippled or politically hopeless? They do not, most assuredly. Then why have they tolerated conditions for years that are a public disgrace? Why are they tolerating them now?

When you go to the polls in the near future, Mr. Voter of Lowell, what will decide your vote? Will you mark a cross beside a man's name because, in your opinion, he is the best man for the job, possessing ability or experience or demonstrated sincerity, or will you vote for a man because of some selfish or dishonest or low motive? Remember you owe a duty to your city—the duty of giving it the best in public service. Stand up like a man and do the decent and honorable thing by voting only for men who will not shame the city or prevent its progress by inactivity, lack of ability or lack of initiative. Lowell appeals to every voter to give it clean, competent and co-operative government. Give this only answer possible, if you are a public-spirited citizen, by selecting the best men available for positions of public trust.

ARE WE MAKING DYES?

To those not directly connected with the American textile business there is something incongruous in the present situation as it affects the supply of dyes and chemicals used in manufacture. Since the beginning of the war complaints have been heard on all sides because of the cutting off of foreign chemicals, but as yet little apparently has been done to remedy the shortage, except on a small scale not calculated to relieve the stagnation. All manufacturers are agreed that the possibilities of still greater shortage may seriously hamper American enterprise but few are agreed on a practical plan to offset it by domestic manufacture.

If the statements of leaders in manufacture and prominent inventors are true, there is no reason why America should be dependent on any foreign country. We have been told repeatedly that most of the dyes made in Germany can be made in this country though at a greater cost—and that the domestic need would be the occasion for domestic initiative. Why then has not something been done on a large scale to offset our dependence on a foreign commodity? If the situation is as represented, American manufacturers are guilty of a neglect that may seriously interfere with the textile business if the war is prolonged two or three years.

The key to the situation is in the hands of the manufacturers. If they encourage the birth and growth of a new department, American invention will undoubtedly rise to the occasion. Our own textile school has been in the forefront of enterprise and, through its heads, has declared its readiness to meet any demands made by the textile industry. All of the dyes used at the school for years have been made on the premises and at present the splendid establishment is training a group of young men to do for America what German inventors and dye experts have done for Germany. It will be an everlasting shame if, through indifference, sloth, or lack of perception, our manufacturers neglect what looks like a great American opportunity until it is too late. If the war continues for a few years—as is predicted by wise students of international affairs—American industry may have reason to regret its lack of foresight.

AN EXTRAVAGANT LEGISLATURE
Samuel W. McCall is doing a genuine public service in calling attention to the growing extravagance of our Massachusetts legislature and thus he incidentally is booming the candidates of the democratic party. The legislature of this state has been for years controlled by republicans, and any record of extravagance that has been made must justly be laid to the door of that party. Last year all the democratic papers pleaded for a democratic majority in both branches so that the work of the party could be carried out and so that the responsibility could be placed where it belonged, but the voters saw fit to return democratic heads and sent through a republican house and senate. These two legislative branches did not, if memory serves, make any great noise in favor of economy and their power was thrown on the side of free expenditure, where the money to be spent was to react in favor of the democrats. That there is need of curtailment in the conduct of the legislature no one will deny, but no distribution of facts can fasten the responsibility to the shoulders of the democratic party. In his account of his stewardship, Governor Walsh shows how many of his reforms were achieved in spite of republican opposition and how he failed in other respects owing to the same reason. He is giving a frank and shrewd account of his term of office. Let Mr. McCall speak of the extravagance of the Massachusetts legislature by all means, but let him be equally frank in declaring that the legislature in question has for many years been controlled by the republican party. As campaign material, he is using arguments that may act as a boomerang.

COTTON RELIEF SCHEME

The suggested purchase by the government of 5,000,000 bales of cotton for the purpose of relieving the southern planters, as introduced in congress last Saturday, was little short of ridiculous. Though supported by senators from the cotton states it met with merited defeat. The country as a whole fully recognizes the need of the cotton belt and would like to see some reasonable scheme of relief, but that the government should enter into such a wild proposition is as foolish as it would be dangerous. Cotton is by no means the only industry affected by the war and there is no reason why it should be bolstered up by the government to the neglect of all other industries. The problem is one for the planters, agents, traders and bankers and there ought to be some way to help all concerned through a dismal season without drawing upon government funds. After a period of waiting, there will be demand enough for cotton, and in this great country there should be credit sufficient to tide the planters and others interested over until better times. President Wilson intimated that he would veto the war tax bill if the appropriation for cotton were tacked on, and it is not likely that the matter will be brought up again in the near future.

A PARISIAN ECHO

If anything were needed to emphasize the necessity for neutrality in all American public expressions regarding the present war it would be afforded by a perusal of the editorial called forth by Congressman Gardner's recent speech and published in the famous Figaro of Paris. This international notice has not been attracted by the superlative wisdom of the speech but by its breach of neutrality; any expression of views on one side or the other could not fail to be so noted when the originator is an American congressman. To say that the speech has been commended in Paris is to say that it is condemned in Berlin. Mr. Gardner is a gentleman of great originality and strong convictions but he is scarcely to be trusted in discussing delicate international matters. His favoring of the allies was not at all necessary in emphasizing his point, and he will

ECZEMA BLOTCHES ITCHED SEVERELY

On Face. So Bad at Night Could Hardly Sleep. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In Two Weeks Trouble Gone.

68 Gooding St., Pawtucket, R. I.—"My face broke out in eczema blotches which itched severely. They were deep red and I could not keep from scratching it at night. It seemed as if I would scratch my face to pieces and they itched so at night I could hardly sleep. I tried different creams and ointments but instead of getting better it seemed worse. After a month I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The itching was so much relieved that I kept on and after two weeks the trouble was gone." (Signed) Miss Ellen S. Whitaker, Jan. 31, 1914.

Samples Free by Mail
For pimples and blackheads the following is a most effective and economical treatment: Gently smear the affected parts with Cuticura Ointment, on the face of the face, but do not rub. Wash off the Cuticura Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water without bathing or soap-scrubbing. This treatment is best on face, neck and scalp. At other times use Cuticura Soap freely for the toilet and to the body, preventing inflammation and closing of the pores, the common cause of pimples, blackheads and other unsightly conditions of the skin. Although Cuticura Soap (25c) and Cuticura Ointment (50c) are sold by druggists everywhere, a sample of each with 32-p. Skin Book will be sent free upon request. Address "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Another attempt of the municipal council to make capital at the expense of the school board is revealed by the letter of protest sent to the council against the turning of rent for the Kirk street annex into the general treasury while the school board pays the same amount of rent for that property. From first to last the school board has had many reasons to complain of its treatment at the hands of the present council.

Carrying revolvers seems to be a favorite practice with our irresponsible young men, according to revelations of the local police court. It is due to the influence of the war or is it due to a lack of local vigilance in some quarters? There is no doubt that those who are not fitted to carry revolvers find it far too easy to acquire them.

If the lack of interest on the public market matter will be the same after election as before, it would be just as well to call it a failure right now. It is really a benefit to any class, it is too bad that the subject is not agitated more persistently and intelligently.

SEEN AND HEARD

Cheap advice is always dear.

Here's hoping that Turkey will not lose its head before Thanksgiving.

A man is always more polite when he is a widower than he was when he wasn't.

And don't overlook the fact that every man is also the architect of his own misfortune.

A girl can always catch the man she wants by pretending to try to catch a man she doesn't want.

A million dollars' worth of experience isn't worth a nickel after you learn it.

There wouldn't be so many breach of promise cases if we wrote our love letters on postal cards.

The reason a man has to give in when he is arguing with his wife is because she never gives out.

There is a difference between "au revoir" and "good bye." When your hair starts to go it says "good bye."

The men haven't made such a terrible success of running the country. But that is no reason why the women should tackle the job.

There are not many rare things in this world. But here is one of them: A woman is always older than she thinks she looks.

What has become of the old-fashioned man who used to cure boils with a poultice made of soap and brown sugar?

After you have roamed around for a while you will find that the girl who are really fond of vocal music are those who do not try to sing.

AD FROM COLONIES
One who signs himself "Ardent Reader" has asked if England can order her colonies to aid the mother country in the present war. England cannot order her colonies to send aid. She can appeal for assistance and it is optional with the colonies as to whether such request shall be granted. The spirit of patriotism, however, is no stranger in the colonies than it is not necessary for England to appeal to them for assistance. They volunteer it.

THE IRON CROSS
Another reader asks about the Iron cross so frequently alluded to in the German war news. The Iron Cross is an order of merit established by Frederick William III. of Prussia March 10, 1813, for patriotic bravery in war against France; revived by William I. in 1870 in the Franco-Prussian war and awarded by him to his son, Frederick William, for victory at Tannenberg Aug. 4, 1914. About 10,000 persons were decorated in 1870-71.

DUCK HUNTERS' EXPERIENCES
Dr. Frank R. Brady and John M. Farrell, the well known auctioneer, returned a few days ago from a very successful duck shooting trip down the Cape, having taken a half-hundred ducks or more. They had some experiences, too, that are worth relating. Once while drifting in a boat, waiting for a heavy fog to rise, a shark came along side and made his presence felt by giving the boat a push that almost turned it over. There was some question in the minds of the duck hunters as to whether they ought to

Constipation a Penalty of Age

Nothing is so essential to health in advancing age as keeping the bowels open. It makes one feel younger and fresher and forestalls colds, piles, fevers, and other dependent ills.

Cathartics and purgatives are violent and drastic in action and should be avoided. A mild, effective laxative—non-toxic, recommended by physicians and thousands who have used it—is the combination of simple herbs with pepsin sold by druggists everywhere under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. ### Loss of the Knowledge Has Caused Loss of Large Sum, Says Department of Agriculture

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The department of agriculture estimates that many thousands of dollars' worth of meat was lost last winter because of a lack of knowledge on the part of poultry men concerning improved methods of killing chickens. In view of the great loss sustained in 1913, new rules for "killing chickens" have been issued. The report of the department says that the old way of slaughtering poultry for the market wrecked many thousands of pounds of chickens, turkeys, ducks and geese to the crematory and left the consumers with such a strong aversion to the taste of poultry that reached the market in an "off" condition that sales have suffered ever since.

The following advice is given poultry dressers by the department experts: "Birds should be kept in coops with only a few other birds before killing, so that they will have an abundance of food. For 24 hours before killing they should be given only water. Killing should be done by cutting the veins of the neck from inside the mouth while the bird is suspended by the feet. Birds should be dry-plucked, not scalded, and the animal heat must be removed by refrigeration at from 30 to 35 degrees for 24 hours."

MRS. SPLAINE'S MOTHER DEAD

Resident of Watertown for Many Years—Funeral Will Be Held Tomorrow Morning

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Mrs. Catherine Hall Spaine, 55 years old, died yesterday at her residence, 253 Mt. Auburn street, Watertown, after an illness of four days.

Mrs. Spaine was the mother of the Rt. Rev. Mgr. M. J. Spaine, rector of the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, the Rev. Francis A. Spaine of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Mt. Auburn, and Miss Katherine Spaine, who lived with her.

Mrs. Spaine was born in Ireland and came to this country when a young girl. With her parents she became a resident of Watertown and has lived there since her early youth. She had been active as a parishioner of St. Patrick's. She was one of the oldest and best known residents of Watertown. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning from her residence. At 10 o'clock a solemn mass of requiem will be sung in St. Patrick's church.

Prize dancing, Associate, Friday eve.

CHURCH NEWS

A reunion of the Christian Endeavor society of the First Baptist church was held last evening in the church vestry with nearly 100 members present. Early in the evening the members and guests assembled around the festive board and enjoyed a delicious supper, after which Miss Ella Fenn called the meeting to order and extended a most cordial welcome to all present. Remarks were then made by Rev. J. E. Dinmore, assistant pastor of the First Baptist church; Walter E. Chase, president of the Christian Endeavor union, and Rev. Smith Baker, a pioneer in Christian Endeavor work.

FACTORY ACCIDENTS

Even expert testimony is to be taken with a grain of salt. For example, at the industrial safety congress, a speaker said that 50 per cent. of the factory accidents were due to liquor, while another declared that 75 per cent. were caused by the carelessness of employers. Which, if either, statement was correct may be left to the reader to conjecture. The chances are, however, that both speakers were unintentionally of course, wrong in their estimates.—Springfield Union.

THE GENTLE RAIN

The weather, even certainly has not suited us up to date. The forest fires are new things of the past, there are no more dusty roads, wells have been filled, ponds and streams raised and fertilized, and the ground splendidly strewn. Nobody will begrudge the absence of sunny skies in view of the fact that the rainfall has done—Portland Express.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

These best informed believe that a greater opportunity than ever is in front of all kinds of manufacturers, purveyors of shoes among them. This has already been dwelt upon in these columns but it cannot be too strongly insisted on for new lines are started now when other sections of the world cannot supply it must endure to the lasting advantage of those sections that reach out and get it.—Haverhill Record.

FOREIGN ORDERS

The contracts for war materials for Europe are beginning to arrive, which indicates that whatever surplus supplies there may have been in the military departments when war broke out have been used up. If that is the case, more and more orders may be expected as the fighting proceeds.—Fall River Herald.

WORKERS WHO DRINK

One strong feature of the movement against the use of intoxicating drink is the fact that employers are more and more condemning it in workmen. In fact the habit of drink is more and more becoming fatal to obtaining employment. There has just been held in Chicago a meeting of the national union for industrial safety, the members of the council, representing more than 1,000,000 working men, and covering every line of industrial endeavor, unanimously adopted a resolution against the use of alcohol.—Fall River News.

Simple Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications, will completely dissolve, and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

LOCAL HORSMEN DISCUSS PLANS FOR WINTER SPORT—WILL ARRANGE FOR ICE RACING

A well attended meeting of the Lowell Driving club was held last evening in its headquarters in the Wamsell building, corner Thorndike and Middlesex streets. As the meeting was the first held this season reports of officers and committees were received with considerable interest. After a discussion of winter horse racing it was agreed that a duplication of last winter's activities on the ice pack should be in order, and with this in view it was voted to hold another meeting in two weeks. It was announced after a general discussion relative to summer racing, that Michael F. Sineal had the most successful season.

ROBBERY CLUE THE ADVENTIST CHURCH

Eight Year Old Gives Police Tip on Theatre Robbery

Police Sergeant David Petrie added another feather to his cap last night by rounding up the boys responsible for the recent robbery at Kelly's theatre when money and valuables, the property of actors and actresses, were stolen from a dressing room.

Eight-year-old Henry Plant was spending money with the reckless abandon of a sailor after a long cruise and this very fact gave the officer his first clue. He connected with little Henry and the boy gave him the story, implicating his pal, Leonel Gaulin, 11, of 231 Pawtucket street. The boys did not start in with any worse intention than to see the show for nothing, but they collided with a temptation that was too great for them.

Sergeant Petrie located the Gaulin boy in the very playhouse where the misadventure had been committed. The lad was talking in the show and was as much surprised when told that he was wanted in the rear of the house as though he had been called before the footlights. As he approached the rear of the house he was nabbed by Sgt. Petrie who took him to the police station. On his arrival at the station the lad talked freely of the robbery.

On the night that the robbery occurred, Gaulin said he and the Plant boy went to the rear of the theatre and climbed the fire escape with the idea of seeing the show through a window. On reaching the window they discovered the valuables lying in plain sight. The temptation was too strong and they made away with it. The lion's share of the spoils was appropriated by Gaulin while the Plant boy got only $1 of the plunder.

Since that time young Gaulin has been having good things to eat, but has been sleeping in all sorts of places. He owned up to having stolen a plush robe from a parked motor car. This, he said, was sufficient to keep him comfortably warm at night.

It was further disclosed from the boy's statements that there were a number of English coins among the stolen valuables. These, he claims, he threw away, not considering them negotiable.

The boy's father admits his inability to control him so it is very probable that he will be remanded to some institution. The Plant boy, on account of his extreme youth, was released.

The money which has been recovered from Gaulin will be forwarded by the police to the owners, who are now filling a theatrical engagement in Montreal.

DRUGLESS HEALING

The Hyomel Catarrh Remedy Is Nature's Own Method

You would not take a pill to heal a burn, and no one should think of trying to cure catarrh, or head colds by dosing the stomach.

The sensible way is to medicate the air you breathe with Hyomel. This treatment goes at once to the sore and congested membranes lining the nose and throat, and makes a rapid and lasting end of distressing catarrh, and similar ailments.

Hyomel is sold by druggists everywhere and Eodith's Hyomel Co., of Buffalo, authorize them to return the money to any dissatisfied customer. If it cures the treatment is inexpensive. If you are not benefited it costs absolutely nothing.

VILLA CAUSES PANIC

MOVES ARMY OF 18,000 INTO POSITION WHERE HE CAN CAPTURE ENTIRE CONFERENCE

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 20.—The Mexican consulate here today received a report from Mexico City stating that General Francisco Villa created a panic among the delegates to the convention of military chiefs in Aguas Calientes today by moving an army of 18,000 men into position where he can envelop the city and imprison the entire conference.

Villa's army is reported to be within an hour's march of Aguas Calientes. To oppose him there are Carranza's troops at Monterey and Saltillo but it would take from four to 12 hours to get them to Aguas Calientes.

CARRANZA'S FAMILY FLEE

EAGLE PASS, Texas, Oct. 20.—The family of Venustiano Carranza, constitutionalist first chief, reached the Mexican border today. It was announced they would make their residence temporarily at Piedras Negras, opposite here, on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande. The move was reported to be for the safety of Carranza's family in case of developments unfavorable to him.

According to the message from Mexico City the delegates at Aguas Calientes have made an appeal to Carranza to guarantee their freedom during the convention, which was resumed today.

They declare that Villa's soldiers who are in Aguas Calientes are resorting to the chiefs of Villa's army rob them and insult them in the streets. They ask that Aguas Calientes and surrounding territory be declared neutral during the convention or that the convention be moved to Mexico City.

ON COMPENSATION ACT

A hearing coming under the workmen's compensation act was held at city hall this forenoon and it was the shortest hearing of its kind on record at city hall. The case had to do with Adolphus Johnson who was injured while in the employ of James P. Robinson & Sons. The accident responsible for the injury, occurred on May 25, last, on a farm in Billerica. In attempting to get on a wagon the horse's foot slipped and he fell heavily to the ground where he remained for three or four hours before assistance arrived. He was finally removed to the hospital and was attended by Dr. McAdams. An X-ray examination by Dr. Joseph McLean disclosed the fact that Mr. Johnson had dislocated and fractured a vertebra. It was stated at the hearing that he had just regained the use of his hands. He was receiving $12 a week at the time of the injury and the insurance company expressed its willingness to continue to pay the usual amount, one half of the wages, the injured one was receiving at the time of the accident, until such time as he is able to work again.

Mayor Dennis J. Murphy was counsel for the petitioner and a Mr. Luther of Boston appeared for the insurance company. The arbitrators were Dudley L. Hollister, James H. Bunker, and Commissioner James H. Bunker for the injured and Mr. Bancroft for the insurance company.

B. & M. RESPONSIBLE

GEORGETOWN, Oct. 20.—In his finding on the inquest into the deaths of Harry C. Meader and Carlton C. Meader, young brothers, of Beverly, who were killed at the King street crossing of the Boston & Maine railroad in Georgetown, Sept. 5, when a train struck the automobile in which they were riding, Judge Otis J. Carlton of this city charges the railroad with responsibility. He has just filed his finding in the superior court at Salem. Judge Carlton finds there is no protection at the crossing by the way of the railroad and further finds that the cause of the accident was the failure of the Boston & Maine to provide suitable protection for travelers on the highway at this point.

CITY COUNCIL APPROVES PUBLIC MARKET TEST

It looks now as if Lowell would have a public market on trial. The public market question will appear on the ballot at the state election and the suggestion that it be given a tryout beforehand in order that the voters might vote intelligently on the subject was offered by O'Sullivan Brothers. They addressed a letter to Mayor Murphy, a copy of which appeared in the Sun on Saturday, in which they offered the use of a floor in the Associated Building for a term of 30 days, the space in Worthen street formerly occupied by the "Crystal".

The letter from O'Sullivan Brothers was read at the meeting of the municipal council today and was accepted and placed on file. The city clerk was instructed to notify the lessees of the council's appreciation of their good intentions and while the council has nothing to do in the matter, the mayor expressed the hope that the trial would prove a success. The council voted that the tryout would assist the people to vote intelligently on the public market question.

The council was late, as usual, in getting down to business. The meeting was delayed because of a telephone message received by the mayor from Commissioner Brown who was on his way home from New York. The mayor waited until 11:45 before calling to order and Mr. Brown was absent, but put in an appearance soon after the meeting started.

The first business before the meeting had to do with a petition by the Lowell Electric Light corporation for passage and approval. The company asked for a renewal of a permit issued in 1912, the permit having expired. Permission was granted. There then followed other similar petitions all of which were referred.

ers for the state election, Nov. 3, was read by the mayor and the order accompanying the call was adopted. The report on the petition of Henry Demerits and others for a sewer in Lawrence street was accepted and an order appropriating $415.00 for the construction of the sewer was adopted.

For Public Square

Mayor Murphy read a communication for the city beautiful committee of the board of trade relative to the use of land in Gorham and Carlisle streets for a public square. It was stated in the letter that the land could be purchased for $150. The mayor thought it would be better to make the land in question a part of the street instead of establishing a square. The matter was referred to the mayor and the commissioner of streets and highways.

School Board Objects

The school committee complaining of a sort of robbery Peter to pay Paul act that has been going on in connection with the building to Kirk street used last year by the high school as a temporary annex. The building is numbered 40 Kirk street and is occupied at the present time. The school committee still continues to pay $50 a month rent for the building while the occupants find it way to the general treasury. The committee had a communication before the council and it was accepted and placed on file.

Contracts Approved

The contract entered into by Commissioner Donnelly for the plastering of the Kirk street annex to the high school, amounting to $350, was approved, as was also the contract between the purchasing agent and the Hildreth Granite Co. for 250,000, more or less, paving blocks at $37 a thousand.

Sunday's Band Concert

On motion of Commissioner Donnelly the council voted its appreciation of the excellent band concert rendered by the Lowell Musicians union on the South common last Sunday afternoon, when the new band stand was dedicated.

The council adjourned to meet again on Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

TRUDEAU'S DEATH

Representative John W. Brennan of Braintree is in receipt of a full report concerning the death of Romilda Trudeau of this city, who died at the Westboro state hospital on Sept. 26, the said report being from State Inspector Robert E. Mott to James A. Stiles, district attorney for Worcester county.

At the request of the wife of deceased, Rep. Brennan called upon Governor Walsh and asked the state's chief executive for an investigation of the death of Trudeau, who the wife claimed had been brutally abused by some of the attendants at the hospital. The investigation was conducted by the state police and a copy of the report was sent to Rep. Brennan by the governor.

Worcester, Oct. 1, 1914.

Mr. James A. Stiles, District Attorney, Gardner, Mass.

Dear Sir: In regard to the death of Romilda Trudeau, a patient in the Westboro state hospital, who was found dead in one of the corridors at above named hospital, on September 26, 1914 at 11:30 a. m. The autopsy showed a fractured skull and three ribs cracked, not broken.

James E. Pryor, 135 June street, Braintree, advised that Trudeau (his patient) was restless all the forenoon, Trudeau going into the clothes room and putting on extra clothing, and wanting to go to Lowell in an auto. About 10:15 a. m. Trudeau fell on the floor and got up unassisted. At 11:15, Supervisor Smittett advised taking of the extra clothing from Trudeau. Three persons, Smittett, McDaniel and Pryor, removed the clothing from Trudeau while he was standing up. Supervisor Smittett left at this time, and advised locking the door to the clothes room. At this time, James E. Pryor, the attendant, was in the clothes room near the door and Trudeau rushed in and grabbed him about the waist. Thomas J. Smith, an attendant, had five patients in the wash room, and he came to the assistance of Pryor and took hold of Trudeau by the shoulder.

At the door of the clothes room, which opened into the corridor, Smith released his hold and went back to his five patients in the wash room, which was a part of the clothes room. At this time, Smith saw Trudeau push Pryor into the corner against the wall, Pryor having released his hold of Trudeau. The patient, Trudeau, slipped, the back of his head struck the wall, and he then fell to the floor.

Smith, seeing both men on the floor, went back to his five patients in the wash room.

Thomas Baker was sent by one of the supervisors to notify Smith to come to dinner, and just got to the head of the corridor when he saw Pryor over in the corner on the floor, and Trudeau lying on his back on the floor. They immediately called Dr. Mitzner, who came up and found Trudeau dead.

In our investigation, we learned that Attendant Pryor had reported to Dr. Mitzner early in the forenoon that Trudeau was getting beyond control.

Thomas Whalen, night watch in the ward in which Trudeau was confined, states that Trudeau came running down the hall during the night, it being Trudeau's habit to go into the water section during the night. After Trudeau went into the water section I heard a fall. I went in to see what the trouble was, and found that a patient, Mr. Kedan, had thrown Trudeau on the floor. They were scrambling, with Mr. Kedan on top of Trudeau. The floor was a brick floor.

From all our investigation, I am of the opinion that the injuries to Trudeau were not the result of any brutality on the part of any attendant. James E. Pryor, a very consistent story. Everything he says is corroborated. Pryor states he was the only person that had hold of Trudeau when they fell. The injuries to Trudeau's ribs were undoubtedly received when he was wrestling with Kedan, another patient. The fracture of his skull is on the back of his head, and I am inclined to think it is a slight crack, hardly noticeable. His injuries are consistent with the stories the attendants tell. We can find nothing that will indicate any person or persons, being responsible for the injuries to Trudeau.

From our investigation, I am of the opinion that if any act by any attendant, other than accidental, was committed, we would have learned of it. I think the medical examiner is of the same opinion we are, especially after we informed him of the evidence of Trudeau and another patient having a wrestling match and falling on a brick floor in the bath room during the night.

Yours respectfully,
(Signed) Robert E. Mott,
State Inspector.

STALLINGS WINS

Campaign May Revolutionize Baseball

Now that the Braves are world's champions, it's quite likely that many of the big league managers will adopt the Stallings method of varying the attack according to what sort of a pitcher is working for the opposition.

Stallings has five regular outfielders, Cather, Whitted, Connolly, Moran and Mann. And yet only one of the five can be counted on as a regular. That's Whitted. He's the regular center-fielder and holds down the job no matter whether the opposition plays a left-handed or a right-handed pitcher.

If the other side uses a right-handed twirler Stallings uses Moran, Connolly and Whitted. If it sends a lefty against the Braves, Stallings makes an immediate shift, replacing Connolly and Moran, who are left-handed hitters, with Mann and Cather, who bat from the other side of the plate.

Managers Laugh at Plan

When Stallings first introduced the plan other managers scoffed at it. During the early part of the season it didn't seem to work out to great advantage. Some thought it was because the idea was at fault, but it wasn't. It was because Stallings didn't have exactly the right kind of outfielders to use in the scheme. When he secured Cather and Whitted from St. Louis and later got Moran from Cincinnati, he had the right combination.

Stallings' success since then attracted the attention of all the other big league managers. Those who were prone to scoff at first changed their attitude. They studied the results of the Stallings mode of attack and they discovered the results very beneficial to the Braves.

Uses Three Pitchers

It is probable, too, that some of the managers will adopt the other Stallings innovation—that of using only three regular pitchers, instead of four, as was the universal custom for many years until Stallings came along and established the precedent.

Stallings, when putting his every third-day pitching scheme into operation, said that he was sure that it wouldn't harm the pitchers. He said that working a pitcher every third day would keep his arm in better shape than working him only every fourth day. Other managers pool-pooled the plan. They said it would wreck the pitcher's arm.

Seventy-four Foreign-Built Vessels Have Taken American Registry Since European War Began

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Seventy-four foreign-built vessels, with an aggregate of 258,373 gross tons, have sought protection of the Stars and Stripes by taking American registry since the European war began, according to an official statement issued yesterday by the department of commerce.

Great Britain has been the heaviest loser, as 52 of the vessels previously sailed under the English flag. Seven German and five Belgian vessels complete the list.

Forty-nine of the vessels are freighters and 20 are passenger ships. The remaining five are not designated. Eleven vessels secured provisional registry through American consuls.

WAR HELPS THE PACKERS

PUT ON 3000 EXTRA MEN FOR MEAT CANNING—WORKING NIGHT AND DAY IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—For the first time in 16 years the meat packers at Chicago stockyards are working day and night in the canned meat and hide departments in order to fill orders.

The unusual activity has been caused by the large orders received as a result of the European war. In the canning departments of the big packers alone 3000 extra men have been put to work within a week in order to operate the plants at their fullest capacity.

The visible domestic supply of canning beef was depleted several weeks ago and the packers began sending to foreign fields for cattle suitable for this purpose. As a result Canada, Mexico and southern states, which never before shipped livestock to this market, have been sending their cattle here, receiving a good price for their product.

The packers announce that their entire stock of hides on hand has been contracted for and that orders have been received which will exhaust the normal supply for November and December.

Until recently the normal trade in hides in Chicago has averaged from 40,000 to 75,000 hides a week. Last week 150,000 hides were sold on the local market.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 21.—No decision has yet been reached by the war department in reference to paying over to the relief commission the $200,000 appropriated by congress for the stricken city of Salem soon after the fire.

Congressman Gardner visited the department several days ago with a committee from Salem, who urged an immediate payment of the money.

The congressman has sent an additional brief to the department in which he recalls the use of the word "Rehabilitation" which occurred in President Wilson's special message when he urged congress to make the appropriation. The congressman is confident that the money will be sent to Salem.

Vinol Did Me A World of Good

Woman Seventy-Five Years Old Exhausted by Effects of Grippe, Restored to Strength by Vinol.

Canton, Mass.—"I am seventy-five years old, and I contracted a severe cold and cough due to a case of La-Grippe, so that I lost my strength and became very weak and feeble. Vinol was recommended to me and after taking it for some time, I can truly say it has done me a world of good. The cold is gone, and my cough is practically cured and it has built up my strength, so I feel active and well again. I think a lot of Vinol and tell all my friends about what it has done for me."—Mrs. Lizzie Baldwin, Canton, Mass.

Old people may regain much of their former strength and vigor by taking Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, on which so many elderly people depend for good health. Vinol sharpens the appetite, aids digestion, enriches the blood and in this natural manner creates strength.

The reason Vinol is so efficacious in such cases is because it contains in a delicious concentrated form all the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil, with tonic, blood building iron added.

Liggett's Drug Store and Riker-James Drug Store, Lowell, Mass.

NOTE—You can get Vinol at the leading drug store in every town where this paper circulates.

The priest first became excited in an argument about the European war, at a hostelry at which he called and became so violent that he acted like a maniac. ## GERMANY'S BIG SURPRISE ON WORLD, THE MAMMOTH 16½ INCH CANNON

GERMAN 16½ INCH SIEGE GUN

This is one of the great 16 1-2 inch siege guns sprung as a surprise on the world by the Germans. It is a terrible weapon of offense. Its great shells have proved most destructive in the bombardment of Liege, Louvain, Termonde, Namur, Dinant, Maunhege, Antwerp and other cities. These guns have shattered modern steel and concrete forts like so much cardboard. They have shown that the days of forts are past unless future inventions make the forts so strong that they will withstand these guns and others possibly greater.

IMPORTANT TRADE CONFERENCE

To Be Held at Copley Plaza Friday, Oct. 30, for Business Men

Methods of Industrial Development to be Discussed

Mr. Edwin Mulready, commissioner of labor sends out the following announcement of a conference on "Industrial Development and Foreign Trade Extension," to be held on Friday, October 30, at the Copley Plaza, Chairman Alfred W. Donovan of the state board of labor and industries today called attention to the fact that Massachusetts leads all the other states in the establishment of an industrial development bureau. The Bay State, Mr. Donovan says, is the first of the states to go after foreign trade as a state.

The Copley Plaza conference, one week from Friday, will do something more than "discuss" opportunities in the way of foreign-trade extension. Men really interested will be given specific information; will be told "how."

Chairman Donovan maintains that there has been a sufficiency of "planning" and that what Massachusetts manufacturers and Massachusetts industrial workers want to see now is action, more action, and more action. The state board is prepared to furnish the power.

Manufacturers, wholesalers, bankers and workers who attend the Copley Plaza conference will learn that the commonwealth is wide awake to present-day opportunities and will be told just how to take advantage of great lines of information that have been collected, and will be collected, for their benefit.

Chairman Donovan, himself a shoe manufacturer, will preside at the conference and will introduce speakers of national reputation. One of these speakers is likely to be Secretary Redfield of the department of commerce and labor. There will be but one subject:

ject: "The Development of Massachusetts Trade and Industry."

"But the emphasis of the conference," Mr. Donovan says, "will not be on the formal addresses but on a general discussion of the practical industrial problems of Massachusetts, and on the most immediate and practical way of strengthening and expanding Massachusetts industries."

"With that end in view the present problem of foreign-trade extension will be given great prominence and the greater part of the all-day program will be taken up with discussions from the floor."

"The most important feature of the day, perhaps, will be the Question Box."

"A number of experts of national reputation on industrial expansion and foreign trade have promised to be present. Anybody in Massachusetts is privileged to submit in writing any questions relating to the concrete problems of securing foreign trade, expanding domestic trade, or securing new industries. The best men who can be discovered will be asked to stand up before the conference and reply to these questions with specific information."

This conference, it is announced, will be divided into two sessions, lasting from 10 o'clock in the forenoon until 12:30 p. m., and from 1:30 o'clock until 5:00 p. m.

GERMAN SUBMARINES AND FLOATING MINES COST ENGLAND SEVEN SHIPS AND 2186 MEN

1 BRITISH CRUISER HAWKE 2 TYPE OF GERMAN SUBMARINE THAT SANK THE HAWKE

The German policy of crippling the British navy by submarine attacks and floating mines while keeping the German Dreadnoughts under the guns of Kiel and Heligoland has cost the British six useful cruisers and one torpedo gunboat, with a loss of 2186 men. By submarine raids in the North sea Germans sank the following: The scout cruiser Pathfinder, with 246 men, on Sept. 5; the armored cruiser Cressy, Hogue and Aboukir on Sept. 22, with 1400 men; the scout cruiser Hawke on Oct. 15, with 357 men. German mines in the North sea destroyed the light cruiser Amphion, with 131 men, on Aug. 6 and the torpedo gunboat Speedy on Sept. 3, with 22 men. The advantage in the naval struggle is distinctly with the Germans, although the British have destroyed or wrecked four German cruisers, two torpedo boat destroyers, one torpedo boat, three submarines and eight merchant ships armed as commerce destroyers.

HEARING WAS DEVOTED LARGE- LY TO CROSS-EXAMINATION OF PRES. WILLARD

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The hearing by the inter-state commerce commission on the application of eastern railroads for increased freight rates on their contention that financial exigencies brought on by the European war made them needful, was devoted largely to a cross-examination of President Willard of the Baltimore & Ohio on the relations of that system to the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton.

Louis D. Brandeis, special counsel for the commission, laid stress on his questions on the Baltimore & Ohio investment of more than $20,000,000 in the Ohio line and its assumption of obligations of a like amount.

The witness said the investment represented only an interest charge of $1,000,000 annually and insisted that would not have affected the present situation of the line.

Mr. Willard declared the present condition of all railroads was such that they were compelled to allow their rolling stock and roadways to drop below standard.

Says Loss of Ships Sunk by British Will Increase Rather Than Decrease Pride of German Navy

BERLIN, Oct. 20.—(Wireless)—Information given out today in German official circles says:

Although the news of the fate of the German torpedo boats S 115, S 117, S 118 and S 119, which were sunk by British warships off the Dutch coast, has aroused feelings of deep regret throughout Germany, the loss of the ships will rather increase than decrease the pride of the Germans for their navy. The crews are much mourned but the vessels were but of little value.

On the basis of such method of selection it is expected to bring together in each class a group of not over 15 persons, well equipped as to their trade experience, who may desire to become teachers in the vocational schools.

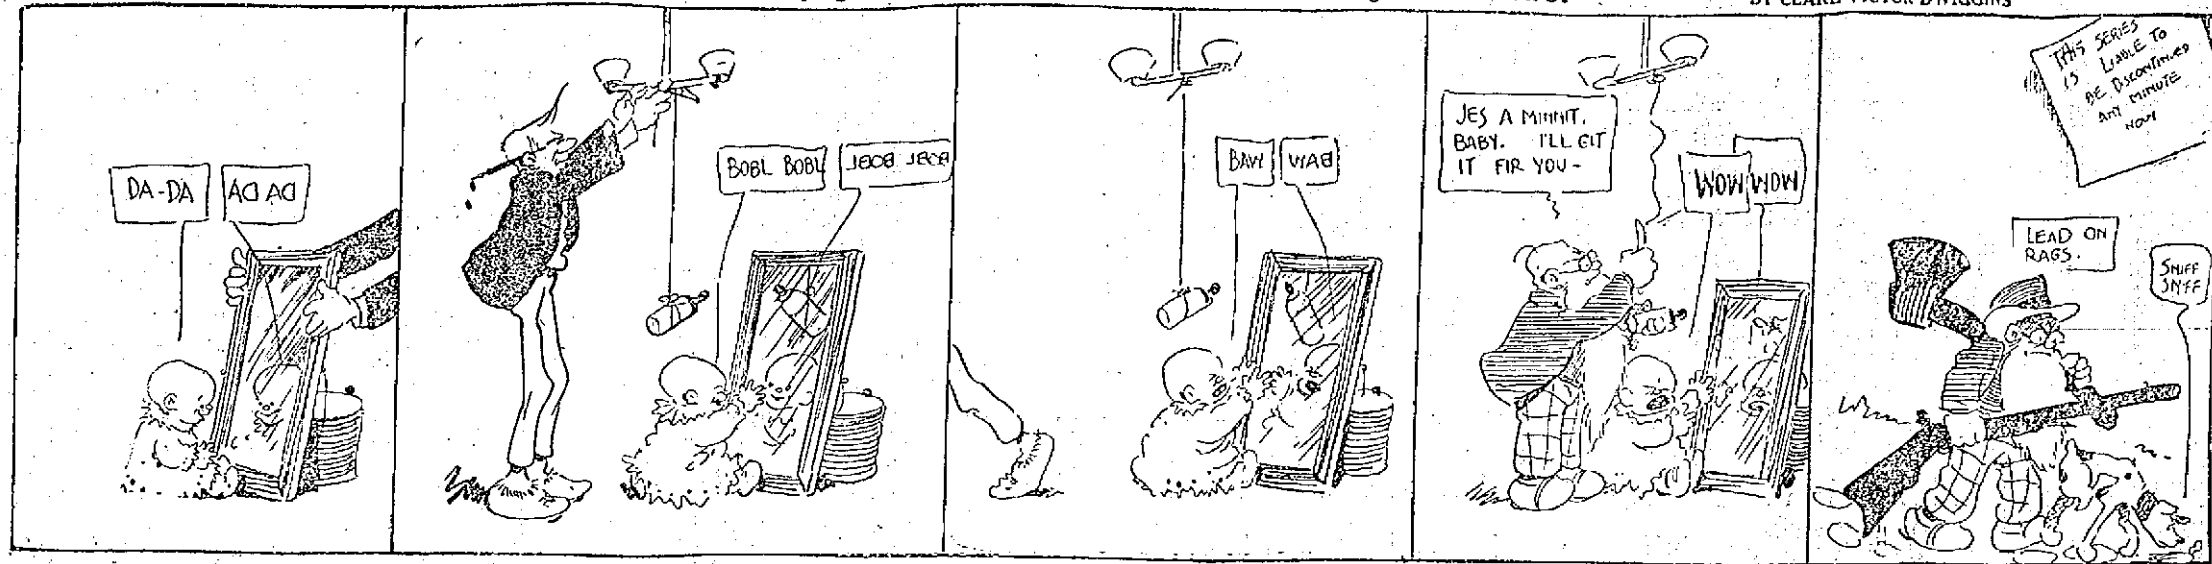

Principal Fisher will be glad to talk over the situation with any who come within the requirements.

Women who are on the waiting list for sewing or all those who wish to register will please report at the Merrill school Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. Some of those who registered did not appear so that there is a splendid opportunity in the classes for dresses, skirts, coats, shirt waists. Those who wish to learn how to do their own dressmaking should all up the vacant places. Miss Gookin in charge will take in new pupils until all the classes are well filled. The school is in much better working condition this year than ever before.

SLEEPYTIME TALES

BY VIRGINIA VALE
FOR LITTLE READERS OF THE SUN

HOW PEANUTS HELPED A BOY

Once upon a time a little boy was given a party. When they went home each of his little friends were given a small package. "To do with just as you want," said the little host.

One of the children was a little boy from the South and as he had to go home the next day he forgot in his excitement the package that his little friend had given him. A few days after he remembered it and went to see where it was. When he opened it he was very much disappointed to find only a bag of peanuts and a slip of paper asking him to come to a party the next year at the same time and bring all he got out of the bag.

Now what did that mean? As he didn't know, he went to his mother and asked her to help him.

"Well," she said, "I would plant them and see how much you could bring. Perhaps the peanut crop will be very good this year."

I am not going to tell you how he planted or cared for the peanuts or how often he gave up his time from school to see that they were all right or how long it took for him to pull them from the ground and free them from the dirt, or the many backaches he had to get them ready to take north with him.

I shall only tell you that the next year he went to the party and took with him so many delicious peanuts that the children spent most of the time in the kitchen roasting them, and that he took the prize for bringing the best results from the bags given out.

Besides all the peanuts that he took to the party he sold enough to pay his fare from his home and back again.

Do you know that this boy has raised so many peanuts that he is called "The Peanut Millionaire."

THE CITY STREETS

Great Danger Lurks in Some of Lowell's Thoroughfares

The condition of the streets is one of the principal topics of conversation about town these days and what is being said about the streets and sidewalks is not of a nature to make the commissioner of streets and sidewalks or any other member of the municipal council swell with pride. There are dangerous spots in the streets that might be easily remedied and unless something is done the city may have to pay well for injuries to persons and property. The combination of leaves and oil in some of the streets strikes terror into the heart of the autoist and motorcyclist. The leaves ought not to be allowed to accumulate in the street, especially in streets recently oiled. Another practice complained of by autoists and motorcyclists is the watering of the streets. The watering of a street that has not been cleaned, and the condition often obtains even in Merrimack and Central streets, tends to form an oily scum that renders an automobile or motorcycle almost unmanageable. A man and woman were thrown from a motorcycle opposite the Y. M. C. A. building in Merrimack street about a week or ten days ago and in Central street, near Market street, five motorcycles were thrown in one afternoon and one of them was a police officer. One of the motorists was seriously injured. The uprisings, however, were due to the so-called oily scum, a water and dirt combination that ought not to be tolerated.

Mayor Murphy, Commissioner Morse and City Engineer Kearney made a tour of the streets yesterday afternoon, but they did not pay any attention to the conditions above described. They simply went out to view the work that has been done and that is underway, and, as usual, brought back a report of progress.

The places visited by the city officials included the Pawtucketville sewer, including West Meadow road, Mitchell avenue, Woodward avenue and Hayes avenue. In the main trunk sewer which starts at Woodward avenue and continues to a point off Hayes street, the work is pretty well along, but in West Meadow road considerable granite was encountered and the work has been delayed. This is the sewer that is said to have the sanction of less than half of the citizens of Pawtucketville.

The official investigators had their attention called by Mr. Morse to an elm tree in the middle of Agawam street at its junction with Moore street. It was decided to remove the tree as it is believed to be a menace to traffic in the vicinity.

Other places visited included Lawrence street, Wigwagville, where the Bay State Street Railway company is relocating its tracks; Holt street, where a sewer has been petitioned for; Westford street, Boylston and Fairmount streets and Clark road.

SEEKS TO BREAK WILL SAYS RAID WAS ILLEGAL

CASE INVOLVES ESTATE OF MORE THAN $1,500,000—CLAIMS SERVANT HAD INFLUENCE

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Whether a household servant of Louis Cabot of Milton influenced the latter in the disposition of his estate valued at more than $1,500,000 is one of the issues to be determined in the contest over the will of Mr. Cabot, which was before Judge Hammond in the supreme court yesterday on a question of framing issues for a jury.

Judge Flint of the Norfolk county probate court allowed the will and three codicils, but certified that the case was proper for a jury trial.

Mary C. Briggs, wife of Dr. L. Vernon Briggs, and the daughter of Mr. Cabot, has appealed to the supreme court from the decree of the probate court, allowing the will. She seeks to break the will on the grounds of undue influence of mind and undue influence.

Sherman L. Whipple, counsel for the contestant, and Charles F. Choate, for the executors, were before Judge Hammond yesterday, discussing the issues upon which the contest is to be tried. Both would prefer, if possible, to have the case heard by a judge in the supreme court at the sitting in Norfolk county in February, instead of trying it before a jury in the superior court.

The questions to be determined are whether the will and codicils were duly executed according to law, whether the testator was of sound mind when he executed them, whether they were procured by undue influence of his daughter, Mrs. Charlotte H. Bartol; her husband, Dr. John W. Bartol; Edward F. Woodward and George E. Cabot, or any of them.

Mr. Cabot died Feb. 3, 1914. His will was drawn by Prof. John C. Gray. It provided that his grandchildren should receive the income of his property during their lives, and that 21 years after the death of the last grandchild the principal sum should be distributed among the heirs of the testator then living. Mrs. Briggs, the contestant, has one child, and Mrs. Bartol, the other daughter of Mr. Cabot, six children. Mr. Whipple claimed that Edward F. Woodward, for 25 years a servant in the household of Mr. Cabot, practically had charge of all the household affairs, and while he did not dominate Mr. Cabot he exerted an insidious influence that operated in the disposition by Mr. Cabot of his property.

Trouble occurred between Dr. Briggs and Woodward before the will was made and it is alleged Woodward prejudiced Mr. Cabot against his son-in-law.

It is further contended that George E. Cabot, the nephew of the testator, made the necessary arrangements to have the will drawn by Mr. Gray, and was named as one of the executors.

Although Mr. Whipple does not maintain that there is anything to show that George E. Cabot directly influenced his uncle, he contends that there is evidence from which inferences bearing upon the action of George Cabot can be drawn, especially as one of the executors.

No direct influence is directed against either Dr. Bartol or his wife, but it is contended that they were used by Woodward in a scheme to influence the testator.

JUDGE RUDKIN SO TERMS SEIZURE OF BOOKS BY POSTAL OFFICIALS

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The trial of Jared Flagg, indicted with Ex-United States Treas. Daniel N. Morgan and others on a charge of using the mails to defraud Stock Market investors, was adjourned abruptly yesterday until today, after United States Judge Rudkin expressed the opinion that the postal authorities acted illegally when, three years ago, they raided Flagg's offices and took a wagon load of books and papers which the government has retained since.

Flagg's constitutional rights were violated by the seizure of the United States supreme court, whose decision is expected in Washington Monday.

Meanwhile, the United States district attorney's office here, decided to restore Flagg's records at once and they will be removed tomorrow from the federal court room to Flagg's offices. Flagg's counsel told Judge Rudkin yesterday that once they were in his client's possession again, he had the right to "engulf" them in the waters of New York Bay.

The motion before the United States supreme court included a plea to compel the district attorney's office to return the books and records to the defendant.

The government attorney's agreement to surrender the books and papers was made with the understanding that Flagg would sign a receipt for every one of them. United States Dist. Atty. Marshall said the government would be able to prove its case without the use of the documents.

Albert L. Miller, son of the late Benjamin F. Miller, a manufacturer of Plymouth, Mass., testified yesterday before the tentative jurors charged Monday were peremptorily challenged and the jury box again filled. Mr. Miller identified correspondence which, he said, passed between his father and Flagg.

United States Asst. Dist. Atty. Thompson, addressing the jury, said that while Elbridge Sewall, one of the defendants, was the real treasurer in Flagg's business, Ex-United States Treasurer Morgan received 1 per cent. of all money handled for the use of his name, which Mr. Thompson said appeared in literature bearing the line: "Mr. Morgan has watched millions belonging to the United States, why can't he watch yours?"

WHAT THE FRENCH MAID SAID

THE USE OF PERFUMES

"Do you like perfume?" gurgled Marjorie to Marie as she sniffed the delicious odors in her aunt's boudoir. "Yes, if used in good taste," answered Marie. "Flowers and scents are a physical benefit to many women and are equally beneficial to the busy man, clerk, stenographer, student, or anyone deeply engrossed in thought. The artist finds them valuable, not alone for their scent but for the inspiration gained from color. 'Fresh cut flowers are not always to be had and at certain times of the year the price is almost prohibitive but one need not be deprived of one's favorite scents. Sachet powders in most any odor desired can be secured at a nominal cost and when properly distributed will give out fragrance in such a mild and pleasing manner that one will almost imagine that the breeze is wafting the odor from beautiful flowers nearby."

"Then, too, there are dainty bags that may be filled with dried perfumes and hung about the rooms, secreted, if you like, but a dainty and pleasing manner of disposing of them is to attach them to the window curtains and allow the wind to carry the scent through the house. To hang them on portieres gives one a pleasing sensation on entering the room. 'There is a softness, a delicacy about sachet powders that is impossible to get in any other form; for this reason I prefer them rather than liquid perfume; their effect is generally more pleasing. 'Little sachets may be cleverly created about one's clothing, for instance in the flowers, bow or lining of a hat. A small sachet bag the same color as the hair may be so placed that it will not be visible and will scent the hair long after its removal. The petals of flowers, used to ornament the corset or a corsage bouquet, ely ribbon bows, used for bows, necklaces and trimming may be treated in like manner. However, once these sachets near the skin, for this destroys their mild fragrance. 'The handkerchief is an accessory that no woman's toilet is complete without and there are but few women who prefer them unscented. In using a wet perfume, one must be careful not to use too much; in fact, it is a difficult matter to apply perfume and secure a pleasing fragrance without allowing it to air for awhile. This is so because the alcohol which is used in the preparation of the perfume predominates until evaporation takes place. 'To avoid this and at all times have a scented handkerchief, I would suggest keeping the handkerchiefs in a scented case. A case made by covering a sheet of cotton padding with sachet powder, placing another sheet on top of this and then covering this with silk or closely woven muslin. 'A fancy cover may be secured to this to keep the pad clean. The case is not formed into a bag but is simply folded over the handkerchiefs."

GIRL IN MAD LEAP FROM THIRD STORY WINDOW

Trapped in Dorchester Apartment She Plunged Headlong Through Window, Breaking Leg on Pavement Below

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Trapped in a position which branded her as a burglar, and rather than face the disgrace of arrest, Miss Gertrude E. Fernandes, a mere girl, took the chance of death in a mad leap for freedom from the third story window of the apartment of George E. Kinsman at 30 Arcadia street, Dorchester, yesterday afternoon.

The daring risk she took when Mrs. Kinsman, coming home unexpectedly, caught her in the apartment, ended in her being terribly hurt. After trying to barricade herself in the bathroom, this girl, baffled, as the police and Mrs. Kinsman claim her to be, made a break through the room for liberty.

Dodging her discoverers, she raced through the hall and into a bedroom, and plunged headlong through a window, sweeping the screen out with her.

Her left leg crumpled under her, with both bones broken, as she struck the ground 30 feet below, and she fell unconscious at the feet of Mrs. Kinsman as the latter rushed out of the house to call the police.

Helpless to make further effort, she was taken in a police ambulance summoned by neighbors to the city hospital, where she was placed under arrest on the charge of breaking and entering.

Mrs. Kinsman declared last night that she is unwilling to prosecute the young woman, believing that she has already suffered enough.

Mrs. Kinsman returned home after a visit to her mother yesterday afternoon, earlier than usual on such occasions, and when she approached the entrance door to her apartment she found it open and a key in the lock.

She entered the apartment and thinking that perhaps her husband had returned home, called his name

GERMANS REPULSED SIX MILES FROM OSTEND

Germans Have Resumed Offensive All Along Western Battlefront in France and Belgium—Great Turning Movement Developing Through Corner of Belgium Bounded by France and the Sea—Fighting Around Lille

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A comparison of the official reports from Paris and Berlin leads to the conclusion that all along the western battle front in France and Belgium, the Germans have resumed the offensive but with their supreme efforts directed against the allies' left.

The news supplementing these official communications, however, indicates that on the left at least the allies are not acting merely on the defensive.

The great turning movement undoubtedly is developing through the corner of Belgium bounded by France and the sea but the public remains in a haze as to whether the turning movement is one on the part of the allies to get around the German right flank or a German operation to envelop the allies' left.

The impression grows that the Germans are determined to add Dunkirk to the line of seaports now held along the Belgian coast and the allies are making desperate efforts to hold back the invaders. Late reports through Dutch sources declare that the Germans have been repulsed six miles from Ostend and that guns are now heard near that city.

Other late reports state that the Germans have abandoned Bruges. If these reports are true it would indicate that the allies are meeting with some success in their efforts to reoccupy the seacoast.

The movements along the coast continue to be more or less in the nature of reconnaissances with the aim of the fighting on the allies' left centers around Lille.

BELGIAN REFUGEES WAITING FOR TRAIN TO TAKE THEM TO HOLLAND AND SAFETY

BELGIAN REFUGEES PHOTO COPYRIGHT 1914 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

Abandoning their homes before the advance of the Germans the Belgians fled by thousands to Holland and England. This little group of refugees was waiting anxiously for a train to take them to Holland. For the kiddies the incident was probably more of a lark than anything else, but for the poor mothers the flight was a sad moment in their distraught lives.

FIVE HURT WHEN AUTO DROPPED INTO RIVER

Roxbury Girl's Skull Fractured—Three Taken to Hospital—Auto Trapped in Dead End Street at Brockton

BROCKTON, Oct. 21.—An automobile containing six persons plunged down an embankment into Salisbury river near Ellsworth street last night, landing in a pile of bowlders. Five occupants were injured, three seriously, an infant escaping. The injured: Miss Rosta Price, aged 15, of 234 Dudley street, Roxbury, fracture of the skull, injury to spine, bruises on body. On dangerous list at Brockton hospital.

Mrs. Goldie Guerin of Malden, fingers in both hands bruised and torn. At Belmont hospital.

Leon Smolensky, 19 Beaver street, Brockton, left hand torn and cut.

The car was owned and driven by Leon Smolensky, a merchant. The party was returning from West Hanover and Mr. Smolensky turned from West Elm street into Arlington street, thinking it was Newbury street. Arlington street has a blind ending near the Salisbury river. Mr. Smolensky discovered his mistake too late. In attempting to avoid a board fence at the end of the street he turned his big automobile to the side of the street, plowing through underbrush and birch saplings. The momentum of the machine carried it over the river bank and to the nearby dry bottom, 10 feet below.

The auto struck a large bowlder and stopped, with the rear high in the air.

throwing all the occupants among the rocks.

Theodore Dubois and Miles Barrow, residents of Ellsworth street, rushed to the assistance of the victims and by using planks and boards managed to get them to the bank. Miss Price was seen to be in a very serious condition and was at once sent to the Brockton hospital. The others were taken to the home of M. C. Alexander, 21 Ellsworth street, where they were given first aid by several school teachers who live nearby. Later they were sent to the Belmont hospital. Miss Smolensky and Mr. Smolensky were given treatment and sent home. Beatrice Guerin, aged 15 months, daughter of Mrs. Guerin, was in her mother's arms when the accident occurred and was held in the air when Mrs. Guerin landed.

DRIVERS INJURED

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—An automobile was in collision with a two-horse dump cart at 6 o'clock last night in front of 434 Jamaica way, Jamaica Plain, resulting in a badly damaged machine and bruised drivers.

The auto owned by Horatio Hadaway of Meadowbrook road, Dedham, was operated by Harry J. Shaughnessy of the same address. The dump cart was owned and driven by William P. Maloney, who lives in the rear of 43 Union avenue, Jamaica Plain. He is 33 years old. Maloney, suffering from bruises, was taken home in a passing auto and there treated by a physician. Shaughnessy, also well shaken up, was treated at a nearby house by another physician.

BRIGHTNESS OF COMET

Delavan's, Which is 145,000,000 Miles From the Earth, is Visible Near "Big Dipper"

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—The Delavan comet is nearly at its brightest and can easily be seen with the naked eye low down in the northwestern heavens about 10 degrees below the "Big Dipper" handle. The time to look for it is about 8 p. m. or as soon after dusk as the stars become bright. The comet is moving in a westerly direction toward the bright star Arcturus, which it is reported it will pass Oct. 28. Its tail, approximately three degrees in extent, is traceable in a northerly direction.

According to a recent computation, Delavan's comet is 145,000,000 miles from the earth and is travelling about 1200 miles a minute. Astronomers say that it differs in character from the Halley comet and that if it approached the earth as closely it would dominate the heavens with a splendor far greater than Halley's a few years ago. The comet takes its name from Paul T. Delavan, who was the first to observe it on its return in September, 1913, at the Naval observatory at La Plata, Argentina. It was designated as the "Comet Westphal 1852 IV," the records of which show an estimated period of 615 years. This comet is one of seven that have been under observation during 1914.

Interest begins Saturday, Nov. 7 at the Central Savings bank.

CELIA COLEMAN TELLS STORY OF THE MURDER

Says Mrs. Carman Rushed Into House With Revolver in Her Hand and Cried, "I Shot Him"—Later Said, "Oh, Celia, What Did I Kill That Woman for?"

MINEOLA, L. I., Oct. 21.—Celia Coleman, negro maid in the Carman household and star witness for the state, testified today at the trial of Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman, accused of the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey, that Mrs. Carman had appeared to her, revolver in hand, a moment after Mrs. Bailey had been shot and that Mrs. Carman had said:

"I shot him."

"What did I kill her for?"

"The next morning about daylight Mrs. Carman came to my room," Celia Coleman said. "Oh, Celia, what did I kill that woman for? I hope God will forgive me. You stick to me and if anything happens to you I'll take care of your little boy."

Under the questioning of District Attorney Smith, Celia told her story as follows:

"I am from Charleston, S. C. I went to work at Dr. Carman's May 1, 1914. On the night of June 30 I served dinner at 6:45 o'clock. After dinner I started to wash the dishes. While I was washing these, Elizabeth—Mrs. Carman's daughter—came into the kitchen. Soon afterwards Mrs. Carman came in. She was dressed in a kimono and had a shawl around her neck. She told Elizabeth to go back into the house. Then Mrs. Carman went out the back door. A minute later I heard a crash of glass and a pistol shot. Mrs. Carman came in again."

"I was standing in the doorway between the pantry and the kitchen. She said to me: 'I shot him.' Then she showed me a revolver—a black revolver—that was about nine inches long. I grabbed her by the arm and told her not to go into the office. She said she wasn't going to do anything else. Then I went into the office."

Body of Woman on Floor

"The body of a dead white woman was lying on the floor near the operating chair. Mrs. Carman followed me into the office. She stayed there about half a minute and then went out to the waiting room. Dr. Carman was there and so was another man. I went into the kitchen and returned to the office in about a minute. Mrs. Powell was in there then. Then I went back into the kitchen, washed the dishes and went into my room and went to sleep."

"The next morning about daylight, Mrs. Carman came to my room. She was dressed in a nightgown. She exclaimed: 'Oh, Celia, what did I kill that woman for? I hope God will forgive me. You stick to me and if anything happens to you I'll take care of your little boy.'"

"I saw Mrs. Carman later that morning at the breakfast table and she burst into tears. After breakfast she came into the kitchen and bade me forget that I had seen her the night before. Later that day Mrs. Carman came in with her lawyer, Mr. Levy. Mrs. Carman winked at me when he asked what I knew. I told Mr. Levy that I didn't know anything."

"Mr. Levy came again the next day. Before he came Mrs. Carman told me to tell him I wasn't downstairs after dinner. She wrote out some statement and I signed it without reading it. He read it, however. The statement was not true."

Didn't Tell the Truth

"The day after the murder, Mrs. Carman came into the kitchen and asked me to make a wood fire in the stove; which I did. Later she came downstairs with a bundle of letters and burned them up in the fire. The same day she told me to call her father from the barn because she wanted him to get the revolver out of the house. Mr. Conklin, her father, came in and went to her room and then came downstairs again. He had a hammer with him. He returned to the barn."

"The next day, Wednesday, Mrs. Carman came into the kitchen and asked me to step into the office. I went in and the detectives began to question me."

"Did you tell the truth at the coroner's inquest?" the district attorney asked.

"I did not," the witness answered.

The district attorney at this point turned the witness over to John L. Graham, Mrs. Carman's counsel, for cross examination.

A crowd that eclipsed the previous day's throng sought to enter the tiny courtroom today in anticipation of hearing Celia tell her story. Less than 200 were able to do so and these were nearly all women.

During the trial today the defendant appeared more careworn than yesterday. She smiled to her counsel and a woman friend among the spectators and sank wearily into a chair.

Celia testified on cross examination that when she was being brought from Freepost to Mineola to go before the grand jury, Dr. Carman told her not to change her testimony and that he would take care of her.

Mrs. Carman, she continued, gave her an extra $5 a few days after the murder.

"That is for keeping your mouth shut," the witness testified. Mrs. Carman told her.

Celia testified that on the night of the murder Mrs. Carman stood in the kitchen for 10 or 15 minutes before she passed out of the back door and the crash of glass and shot was heard.

"Did you know who she meant when she said: 'I shot him?'" Mr. Graham asked.

"No, I did not."

"Who opened the door between the pantry and the doctor's office?" asked Mr. Graham.

"Mrs. Carman."

"Did Mrs. Carman say what man she had shot?"

"No."

Celia said Mrs. Carman carried the revolver hidden in the folds of her kimono when she went into the office. Mrs. Carman said nothing to anyone, she added. She looked in and went out in about 30 seconds. Nor did Mrs. Carman express surprise when she discovered she had killed a woman, not a man, Celia said.

A man was in Dr. Carman's office when she and Mrs. Carman entered. He was George Golder. Mrs. Powell, sister of Mrs. Carman, was asked to stand up, and Celia identified her as the woman she saw in the office the second time she went there.

Celia said she told Mrs. Carman the morning after the murder that "God will forgive anything but murder."

"Do you," asked Mr. Graham, "believe that God will forgive your perjury?"

"I know it is wrong to lie," said the witness, "but I did what Mrs. Carman asked me to do."

"You are afraid of going to jail for committing perjury, too, aren't you?"

"Yes, sir. Mr. Smith told me I could go to jail for lying."

For an hour and a half the attorney tried to make Celia vary her story. She was made to say that she was living in New York city at the expense of Nassau county. She admitted that she had testified falsely in many respects at the coroner's inquest but she explained she had done so to shield Mrs. Carman and the admission apparently did not disturb her equanimity. Throughout the cross examination she held to a consistent story.

BERLIN SAYS ALLIES HAVE LOST 750,000

Germans Advance in Russian Poland—French War Office Says Attacks of the Germans at Nieuport, Dixmude and La Basse Were Repulsed—Przemysl in Possession of Austro-German Forces—Germans Push Plans for Great Aerial Campaign—Revolution in Portugal—Naval Battle Off Prussian Coast—Fighting for Possession of Coast in North of France Continues—Turkey's Attitude Matter of Concern to All Belligerents

Attacks and counter-attacks for possession of the sea coast in the extreme north of France continue without decisive results.

Only one official statement—that from Paris—had come through early this afternoon. It threw little light on the situation, being brief and referring to events of yesterday.

The attacks of the Germans, especially severe at Nieuport, Dixmude and La Basse Tuesday, were repulsed, says the French war office. There was no noteworthy change elsewhere on the battlefield. News despatches indicate the sharpest fighting in the vicinity of Lille with a renewal of activity at vital points all along the line.

Counter claims regarding the situation in the east leave much to speculation.

There appears, however, little doubt that the German advance in Russian Poland has been so successful that Warsaw is seriously threatened. Przemysl in Galicia remains in possession of the Austro-German forces. There has been a renewal of activity in eastern Prussia without definite result. A statement from Vienna issued yesterday says that the fighting in Central Galicia has become more severe and that the Austrian attacks are progressing.

A news despatch from Copenhagen says that German torpedo boats have been engaged with the enemy in the Baltic off the Prussian coast. No details were given.

Albania looms again as a possible influence upon the attitude of Italy towards the war. The Italian government today denied that Italian troops had occupied Avlona, which has been threatened by insurgents since the abdication of Prince William of Wied.

At the same time the Giornale d'Italia of Rome declares that there is a state of anarchy at Avlona, intimates that Greece is taking advantage of the disturbed conditions and declares that the Italian government has notified the powers that it will not tolerate a violation of the integrity of Albania.

Rome reports unofficially that the Anglo-French fleet is still bombarding Cattaro, Dalmatia.

Turkey's attitude is a matter of concern to all the belligerents.

The Sublime Porte is said to have forbidden warships to enter the gulf of Smyrna. The inhabitants of Smyrna recently were said to have been in great fear of a naval attack. An Athens despatch says that two submarines and some aeroplanes are being shipped to Constantinople through Bulgaria. A few days ago a large quantity of munitions of war consigned to Turkey by rail were held up in Bulgaria.

There are further rumors of a German intention to begin a great aerial campaign. Following reports that airships were being constructed at Brussels and Antwerp came rumors of similar buildings under way at Tondern, in Schleswig and at Rostok.

The German government has informed Washington it has no objection to the plan to send foodstuffs to Belgian non-combatants.

Thousands of Belgians who fled into Holland are returning to their homes. There are, however, 100,000 Belgians in England and more on their way there. Preparations to give employment to those latter are being made.

A revolutionary outbreak in Portugal is reported. Beyond the statement that the movement was suppressed few details are given in a message from Lisbon. It is probable that the royalists have seized the opportunity afforded by the departure of a large part of the army for Portuguese Congo.

A wireless report to Sayville, from Berlin says that the military expert of the Krawitz Zeitung estimates the losses of the French, the British, the Russians and the Belgians in killed, wounded and prisoners at least 750,000 men.

POLICE COURT CASES

To judge by this week's police court list Lowell is ripe for a war. No less than six local young men have been haled to Market street for mauling one another. Today John Aspiro and Charles E. Saucier pleaded guilty to drunkenness and disturbing the peace.

The latest pair of amateur scrapers mixed it up down town last night just before midnight. Officers Coleman and Regan performed the pinch act on the pair and testified that they didn't like the looks of the police uniforms any better than they appreciated each other's company. However, neither of the cops were marked.

In any way, although the defendants showed symptoms of a "rough night" along the coast, "twas ever thus. Judge Enright fined each of the rough-and-tumble artists a five spot for disturbing the peace and then proceeded to fine Saucier $6 for drunkenness. The two would-be scrapers could have seen the "Gumbo" Smith-Sam Langford row in Boston last night for what it cost them to muss up one another.

Durant Dubious

Arthur Durant thought last night that he could occupy whatever part of Middlesex street looked good to him and picked out the sidewalk just above the depot. Officer Drewett attempted to point out to him that he was obstructing the free passage there, but Arthur couldn't see it that way. And then the police vehicle was hustled to the scene.

In court this morning Arthur was still unconvinced that he had done anything to deserve arrest. Not only arrest but a $5 fine as well for this court allowed that Arthur shouldn't have been where he was, especially after being warned by the officer. Arthur paid.

Pinch For Muthinch

Louis W. Muthinch, who was found guilty yesterday of stealing Major Noyes' rubber boots, was in for more trouble today when he faced a non-support charge.

It was generally conceded before the trial went very far that Louis' support was very poor. In fact it was so hard time bringing up their family. Judge Enright awarded him a four months' period of retirement in jail. The case of the boots was placed on file.

Invasion Repulsed

blanc, a couple of Chelmsford gentry, rammed into the waiting room out in that town yesterday afternoon while in their cups and attempted to condescend the place and occupants to their own convenience and ends, said the constable whose stern hand placed them under arrest.

One of them pleaded guilty while the other wanted to argue it out with the court. He might just as well have saved his breath for the evidence was overwhelming. $5 was the sum asked of the Chelmsford men.

Larceny Case Resumed

The case of Albert W. Stevens, charged with the larceny of $175 from the local branch of the Bricklayers' union, came up on continuance today and went to trial just before noon. The case was not finished when the morning session was adjourned. William Regan and John J. Devine appeared for the defense while Edward J. Tierney handled the prosecution. Several lively tilts occurred between the lawyers at the opening of the case.

Lost His Pantaloon

Abraham Singer said that he did not steal a pair of pantaloon from George F. Pendergast. The complaint said that he did.

The defendant was the proprietor of a tailor shop on East Merrimack street and the pantaloon in the case were left there to be cleaned. A fire broke out in the tailor shop and put the defendant out of business. Aforementioned pantaloon have not since been heard from.

The complainant and his father testified that they saw the pantaloon in the shop after the fire. Defendant said that he had not seen them. In view of the fact that the defendant did not have exclusive opportunity to take the pantaloon, Judge Enright found him not guilty. Before making his finding, however, the court told the defendant's attorney that defendant ought to make good for the pantaloon. Attorney said that he would.

Attacked in Heng

Edward Arnalawicz sneaked up behind John Tarello the other night over on the Fayette street boulevard and whalloped him one in the back of the neck. Edward pleaded guilty and Lawyer Meloney, counsel for the prosecution, told the story. Edward was ordered to produce $10, same to be left in care of the court.

Second Edition JUDGE M'LAUGHLIN WARNS LAWYERS

Civil Session of Superior Court Will Adjourn From Lowell to Cambridge Unless the Local Lawyers Get a Move on and Prepare Their Cases

After the second breakdown of the week in the civil session of superior court, which opened the first Monday of October in the local courthouse, Judge McLaughlin threatened to adjourn the sitting to Cambridge unless Lowell lawyers prepared their cases and had them ready for trial immediately. Monday it was necessary to adjourn court for practically a whole day as Clerk Roger Hurd's list showed no case ready for trial and this forenoon at 10:30 o'clock all jurors and court officers were excused until tomorrow morning.

While sitting on the bench Judge McLaughlin declared that he could not lose so much time waiting for lawyers to prepare their cases for trial and said that unless a change is noted in the near future it will be absolutely necessary to adjourn to Cambridge, where parties at the other end of the county are waiting to dispose of cases.

If the session should be adjourned to Cambridge, due to the fact that no cases on the October list are ready for trial, it will be the first time in many years, if not in the history of the court house, that such action has been necessary. However, it is probable that local lawyers will foresee the advantages of trying Lowell cases in this city and notify the clerk that they are ready for trial.

The loss to the city would also be great if court were adjourned in the midst of a session, as from 50 to 100 people are brought into the city daily. Over 40 jurors, all but four from out of town, are engaged at the present sitting and these men patronize local restaurants and after 4 o'clock in the afternoon many visit the local stores and business establishments for other purposes than sightseeing. Witnesses, lawyers, besides county employees, from the different cities at the other end of the county are attracted to this city daily to attend to business at the local courthouse and this would be an entire loss, should Judge McLaughlin decide to adjourn to Cambridge. Two civil sessions, each continuing nearly 12 weeks, are held in Lowell annually, and it is feared that if an adjournment is made this year it will become the custom of the court.

The case of Julia Regan of Wakefield vs. Bay State Street Railway Co. was given to the jury for deliberation a few minutes after 10 o'clock today. A sealed verdict will be returned and opened tomorrow morning.

U. S. ENTERS PROTEST TO GREAT BRITAIN AGAINST SEIZURE OF AMERICAN TANK STEAMER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The United States has protested to Great Britain against the seizure by a British warship of the American tank steamer, "John D. Rockefeller." This was announced today by Acting Secretary Lansing of the state department.

As the Rockefeller was American-owned and flew the American flag and no change of registry was involved, the American government considers the seizure unwarranted. She had American officers and crew. The ship was bound from one neutral port to another, leaving Philadelphia on Sept. 2 for Copenhagen with illuminating oil which Secretary Lansing said had not been classified as contraband in any notification received from Great Britain. The vessel was taken to the Orkney islands.

Mr. Lansing said that no representations of protest had been made in the case of the steamer Brindilla taken recently to Halifax and that he was awaiting further information as to the character of her cargo and the conditions under which she was seized.

As the cargo of the Brindilla was the same as the Rockefeller's the government's action today was taken to overshadow another protest and demand for release unless some change in the Brindilla's registry, not yet developed, comes up.

Another American Steamer Seized by the British

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The Standard Oil company's steamer, Platania, flying the American flag, has been seized by British warships off the coast of Scotland and taken into Stornoway, a port in the Lewis Islands, according to cablegrams received here today by the company from her captain.

The Standard Oil company has requested the state department to make another protest against the seizure of the Platania in which the circumstances are identical with those of the company claims of the Rockefeller.

The Platania carried a cargo of illuminating oil and was bound for Aarhus, Denmark.

Under the new American registry law the vessel changed her name and flag from the German steamer Platania to the American steamer Platania a day or so before sailing on her last voyage.

Chester Hartigan, of the Federal Shoe company, by his playing in the basketball game between Mike Wrenn's team of giants, and a picked team of Y. M. C. A. athletes, deserves a place in the limelight once more. The game was regularly scheduled for last night but Chester had an engagement, hence the change. But, be that as it may, Chester scored 12 hard baskets from the floor, and the ball wasn't handed to him by the opposing players either. Far be it from such. Every player on the opposing side was mighty envious of Chester's athletic ability and went into the fray with the determination to keep him under surveillance at all times. But it couldn't be done and to the Federal all around athlete belongs all the credit of the victory.

Woolsorters Union

A very largely attended and enthusiastic meeting was held last night by the Woolsorters union in the union headquarters in Odd Fellows building. Business of considerable importance was transacted and three propositions were received and favorably acted upon. Several of the members made interesting remarks on the good of the union which proved very instructive. The secretary's report showed the union to be in an excellent financial condition.

Carpenters Union

A list of very important business was transacted and several committee reports were read and accepted. Two new members were admitted and five applications for membership received. These applications were referred to the investigating committee, and will be acted upon at the meeting to be held next Tuesday evening. President Golden, Business Agent Michael A. Lee, as well as many of the members, spoke on the good of the union, and their interesting remarks were listened to attentively. The secretary's report showed the financial and numerical condition of the union to be progressing. Although the present time is very slack in the building trades, the members of the union are well equipped.

Unemployed in England

The textile trade unions in England, which of late have been dispensing large sums of money weekly to unemployed members, are seeking help from the government with regards to payment of such funds.

A deputation of textile operatives lately waited upon the president of the board of trade in order to lay the case of the operatives before him. Earlier in the day the question was put to the prime minister of the house of commons, asking whether the government was in a position to say what proposals, if any, they had to make for assisting the textile industry, to overcome the difficulties arising out of the war which has resulted in an increase in unemployment. It was announced that, if the trades unions would increase their unemployment contributions, the government would supplement such payments in order to spread unemployment benefits over a longer period.

Help Wanted!

Strange to relate, but nevertheless true, is the fact that a certain prominent young man, an employee of the A. G. Pollard company, is being set forth by his friends as the champion baby pacifier of New England. It seems that nearly every fond parent that enters this big department store leaves "baby" in his department, with the parting admonition of "now baby, be good while mamma's away; she'll be right back." But mamma generally stays too long and baby gets impatient with the result that bugle calls are heard from one end of the store to the other. The baby pacifier, all ways on the job, talks to him, gets him things and sends the child in some other methods to quiet him, and in the end the disguised laughter, usually ceases. But it is a thankless job. Yesterday afternoon, a fond mother came into the store and entrusted her young one to the care of this young clerk, while she journeyed to some other department to make a purchase. In the meantime, a customer came into the store and he proceeded to wait on her. He had just completed the sale, when baby, who must have got impatient at nobody's bidding, tried to get out of the carriage and fell out. Then, amidst cries and wails that startled nearly everybody in the store, the young man rushed over and picked baby up, cuddled him and in a very short time baby was fast asleep. At this moment, the mother came over and seeing the child in the clerk's arms, got quite excited and what she said to him put him in a very embarrassing situation, for there were many clerks and customers within hearing. The clerk tried to explain how the child fell out, etc., but to no avail, with the parent, he held the child in the carriage and proceeded out through the door, without saying a word of thanks. Such is life.

Muddling the Cotton Problem

The Journal of Commerce of New York has the following to say, editorially, of the problem of handling the cotton situation:

No countenance whatever should be given to any of the schemes for financing the cotton crop or any other crop with government funds, government currency or government credit. Congressmen have bought out a new plan for disposing of "United States notes" to the amount of $250,000,000, or "so much thereof as may be necessary," by banks in states producing cotton or tobacco, as loans at a rate not exceeding four per cent, upon security of cotton or tobacco produced this year. It is not worth while to go into further details regarding any of the wild schemes, of which this is among the worst. We have already done that to a sufficient extent, and a quietus should be put upon them all at the first opportunity by decisive action. Mr. Henry has written a letter to Secretary McAdoo on this question of financing the cotton crop by such methods, which is hardly characterized as otherwise than impudent. It is certainly not calculated to help the cause of the cotton growers or benefit the party responsible for legislation, so largely represented from the cotton states. The real leaders of that party cannot afford to countenance any unsound or dangerous position of the government or undermining the currency system.

An attempt has been made to fix a time in the senate for a vote on the administration revenue bill, which has already passed the house, and it is said that a group of southern senators will attempt to have some measure for the relief of the cotton situation by government action appended to it as an amendment. As a time for taking a vote can be fixed only by unanimous consent, the best course for removing the threatened obstruction is to allow the amendment to be offered and vote it down overwhelmingly, and so clear the decks of congress once for all of such perilous stuff. It should be understood that all such efforts are useless as well as foolish, and the administration only needs to take an unequivocal stand to have it so understood. Nothing could be more calculated to discredit it than to show a weak toleration for such schemes.

Nobody will deny that the cotton producers and the dealers in that staple are put in a hard position by the effects of the war in Europe and are entitled to every reasonable consideration. It is not the only business interest that is suffering, but it is made exceptional by the extent to which a number of states are dependent upon the cotton crop, the importance of cotton as an article of export and as a material of manufacturing industry both at home and abroad, and the great number of people affected by the interruption of trade in both the material and the manufactured goods. It is a peculiar emergency, and one difficult to deal with so as to minimize the inevitable losses, but it must be dealt with in a business-like way, or much greater harm will be done, although harm will be done than will be prevented. The cotton business cannot expect to be saved from loss by inflating greater losses upon other business and imperiling that of the whole country just at a time when general conditions are critical and the utmost caution is necessary, to avoid disastrous mistakes.

The special misfortune of the cotton situation is that a year's supply has been already produced to meet a normal demand for a year, while a war between the most important nations to be supplied has suddenly cut off a very large proportion of the demand, leaving a great surplus which cannot be disposed of at once without a ruinous sacrifice for those who have provided it. The problem is to provide some means for holding this surplus from the market and carrying it along until the best can be done with it in meeting such demand for actual consumption as exists and such as will come as industry and trade recover ground. It cannot be done without expense and loss and this should be lessened by wide distribution as far as possible among those who have an interest to be subserved, but the burden should not be thrown upon the government at the risk of breaking down a system of currency and credit upon the stability of which all the business of the country depends.

The resources and credit which should be called upon to surmount this difficulty and solve the problem are those of the business community concerned and the banking agencies of the country, with such support of government authority as may be legitimately extended, but not by the use of government funds or credit or the Mothers often wonder why their children are not rugged and hardy. In a vast number of cases the trouble is—Worms.

Worms Sap Children's Health

Signs of worms are: Indigestion, variable appetite, craving for sweets, nausea, vomiting, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly, eyes heavy and full, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

Dr. Trine's Elair, the 60 years thrice-tried Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, will expel the worms and restore the vim and vigor to your child. Good for adults also. straining of the currency system. It is not more currency that is needed for this purpose, but a cautious use of business and banking credit on an assured basis of value. An attempt is being made to work out a plan for this without the interposition of congress, but the utmost care should be taken not to restrict the actual sale of cotton more than is necessary by maintaining an artificial price which cannot be justified by any reasonable calculation for the future. It is necessary to hold cotton for which there is no market, but that for which there is a real market should be sold at a price at which the market can take it. Holding the entire stock for an arbitrary price, which might be had if conditions were normal, or which may possibly be obtainable months hence, will be a losing operation in the end on account of the cost of holding and financing that would be involved.

FIVE HURT WHEN AUTO DROPPED INTO RIVER

BROCKTON, Oct. 21.—An automobile containing six persons plunged down an embankment into Salisbury river near Ellsworth street last night, landing in a pile of boulders. Five occupants were injured, three seriously, an infant escaping. The injured: Miss Rosie Pease, aged 15, of 234 Dudley street, Roxbury, fracture of the skull, injury to spine, broken on body. On dangerous list at Brockton hospital.

Mrs. Golda Gustin of Malden, fingers in both hands bruised and torn. At Belmont hospital.

Leon Smolensky, 19 Seaver street, Brockton, left hand torn and cut. The car was owned and driven by Leon Smolensky, a merchant. The party was returning from West Haverhill and Mr. Smolensky turned from West Elm street into Arlington street, mistaking it for Newbury street. Arlington street has a blind ending near the Salisbury river. Mr. Smolensky discovered his mistake too late. In attempting to avoid a board fence at the end of the street he turned his big automobile to the side of the street, plowing through underbrush and birch saplings. The momentum of the machine carried it over the river bank and to the nearby bottom, 15 feet below.

The auto struck a large boulder and stopped, with the rear high in the air, throwing all the occupants among the rocks.

Theodore Dubois and Mike Barrows, residents of Ellsworth street, rushed to the assistance of the victims and by using planks and boards managed to get them to the bank. Mrs. Pease was seen to be in a very serious condition and was at once sent to the Brockton hospital. The others were taken to the home of M. C. Alexander, 2 Ellsworth street, where they were given first aid by several school teachers who live nearby. Later they were sent to the Belmont hospital. Miss Smolensky and Mr. Smolensky were given treatment and sent home. Beatrice Gurin, aged 15 months, daughter of Mrs. Gurin, was in her mother's arms when the accident occurred and was held in the air when Mrs. Gurin landed.

DRIVERS INJURED

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—An automobile was in collision with a two-horse dump cart at 5 o'clock last night in front of 414 Jamaica way, Jamaica Plain, resulting in a badly damaged machine and bruised drivers. The auto owned by Horatio Hathaway of Meadowbrook road, Dedham, was operated by Harry J. Shaughnessy of the same address. The dump cart was owned and driven by William P. Maloney, who lives in the rear of 45 Union avenue, Jamaica Plain. He is 33 years old. Maloney, suffering from bruises, was taken home in a passing auto and there treated by a physician. Shaughnessy, also well shaken up, was carried to a nearby house by another physician.

GERMANS REPULSED SIX MILES FROM OSTEND

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A comparison of the official reports from Paris and Berlin leads to the conclusion that all along the western battle front in France and Belgium, the Germans have resumed the offensive but with their supreme efforts directed against the allies' left.

The news supplementing these official communications, however, indicates that on the left at least the allies are not acting merely on the defensive.

New Bedford believed that the eight hour law for miners under 16 would simply result in throwing all of such young workers out of employment and thus 2500 children would be forced out of work. The debate lasted over an hour, at the close of which only three delegates besides those from New Bedford sided with the New Bedford position.

Undertaker George B. McKenney had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Ex-Senator Ross declared that it was obviously impossible to pass judgment on the labor record of every state senator in every state in the union and if this were not done it was unjust to pick out one senator in one state and make him the object of Bedford textile unions in general, and attack. He said that the people in

The great turning movement undoubtedly is developing through the corner of Belgium bounded by France and the sea but the public remains in a haze as to whether the turning movement is one on the part of the allies to get around the German right flank or a German operation to envelop the allies' left.

The impression grows that the Germans are determined to add Dunkirk to the line of seaports now held along the Belgium coast and the allies are making desperate efforts to hurl back the invaders. Late reports through Dutch sources declare that the Germans have been repulsed six miles from Ostend and that guns are now heard near that city.

Other late reports state that the Germans have abandoned Bruges. If these reports are true it would indicate that the allies are meeting with some success in their efforts to reoccupy the seacoast.

The movements along the coast continue to be more or less in the nature of reconnaissances with the aim of the fighting on the allies' left centers around Lille.

Delegates From Mass., New York and New Jersey Sectional Meet at Local Association Building

Nearly 150 delegates representing 14 Young Women's Christian associations in Massachusetts, New York and New Jersey are today attending a sectional conference of the northeast field committee which is being held at the local association building on John street. The conference opened at 10 o'clock this forenoon and will continue well into the evening, when the delegates from nearby cities will return to their homes while the remainder will stop in Lowell until tomorrow. Miss Elizabeth W. Dodge, chairman of the Northeast field committee, presided at today's session.

The sessions of the conference were open without restriction to anyone in the city and attracted a goodly number of people who wished to become familiar with the aims and methods of the association movement.

The devotional talks at the beginning of the morning and afternoon sessions were opened by Miss Harriet Broad, general secretary of the Boston Y. W. C. A. She was followed by Miss Pauline Sage, executive for New England, New York and New Jersey. Mrs. who last June attended the world's convention of the Y. W. C. At 12 o'clock a luncheon for the out-of-town guests was served in the gymnasium, which was profusely decorated for the occasion. Mrs. F. F. Mann had charge of the catering. This afternoon's program was also very interesting and brought forth several very capable speakers, including Miss Lena Farrar, who took an active part in the recent campaign for $10,000.

SEND PROTEST TO FRANCE

CHARGED THE FRENCH SHARP-SHOOTERS KILLED WOUNDED GERMAN SOLDIERS

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—(By wireless to Sayville).—According to information given out here today there has been no change in the positions on the wings or in the center theatre of the war.

The imperial government has sent a formal protest to France and to neutral nations concerning alleged violations of the rules of the Geneva convention of the French franc-tireurs (sharpshooters). It is declared in this protest that the French have killed or mutilated wounded German soldiers, that they have fired on ambulances filled with wounded and bearing the Red Cross flag, that they have invaded German hospitals, robbed the hospital staff and stolen the hospital equipment, that they have fired on German doctors who were gathering or attending to the wounded, killing some of these medical men and taking others captive and that they have captured a German field clergyman whom they treated as a common criminal.

This protest is accompanied by 15 affidavits from various German sources, physicians and Catholic field priests.

CITY OF BOSTON ON HUNT

FOR A SITE FOR THE PROPOSED PUMPING STATION—FORT POINT CHANNEL SITE REJECTED

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Once again the city of Boston has to go on the hunt for a site for the proposed pumping station to be operated in connection with the high-pressure water service.

Mayor Curley, by long-distance telephone, heard from Col. Jadwin at Washington that the board of engineers had reported to the war department at Washington recommending that the application of the city of Boston for privilege to erect the pumping station at Fort Point Channel be rejected.

Col. Jadwin said that the city had the right of appeal, but the mayor decided that it would not be worth the trouble, as the end undoubtedly would be the same.

The mayor is now considering a site at the water's edge just below the Charlestown bridge north. It is what is known as the Goodnow wharf.

The Fort Point channel site the mayor considered an ideal one for safety. The other, he says, is less safe, but good. The Fort Point channel site is the third or fourth to be abandoned because of objections.

Mayor Curley announced yesterday that he had approved a contract to furnish Faneuil hall with heat for the next five years, the terms being $3000 for the first year and $2000 for each of the other four. The old price for heating was $4000 annually.

THE MAN IN THE MOON

The Lowell Choral society met last evening and the meeting was largely attended. The successes accompanying its last season's work no doubt mean still greater success for the season that is just beginning. Mr. Hood again will be its conductor and it will take up Mendelssohn's oratorio of Elijah. This great work has been given by local choruses before with more or less efficiency; but it can be said with confidence that the present chorus will give its grand and beautiful choruses a presentation never before heard in Lowell. The society will present the best soloists obtainable. The society's friends, and they comprise the entire musical public of Lowell and suburban towns, will look forward to the first concert with great interest; and the only disappointment many friends will experience will be due to the fact that Lowell has no auditorium big enough to hold them all, or all who wish to attend the first concert. Spending a few days recently in the town of Wilton, N. H., I had the pleasure of attending a concert given by a number of young men from Lowell in the hall at the Center. It was the Haydn male quartet and the Pawtucket trio; and they furnished an entertainment that was interesting and artistic. Their success can be measured when the audience unanimously declared it the best thing of its kind that ever Wilton heard. I was proud myself of their work and added my congratulations to the general fund. As country people have no half-way methods in showing their appreciation when once they get convinced, it is safe to say that should the quartet and trio visit Wilton again the whole country side would be on hand to welcome them. The members of the Haydn male quartet are Harry Patten, Carl Mason, Dan Hanson and Guy Johnson, while the trio members are Leo Blissette, violin, Richard Mason, cello, and Carl Mason, piano. Perhaps the above may interest their Lowell friends.

From the Kaiser

The Kaiser writes me that he is still in the ring and is fit for a fight. He hopes to land his knock-out most any old time. He tells me not to believe what I read about German reverses for there have been none—or nearly none. He says he has J. Bull scared and that he doesn't blame him for Bill intends to land an army of half a million men before long on John's shores and will then proceed to shoot up the country. With his Zeppelins above and his submarines under the waters of the English channel he intends to keep British men-of-war away, thus rendering the invasion of England a sort of excursion or holiday affair. Bill promises to keep me informed of what happens and what doesn't happen. I mention this so that all who want reliable war news will be able to find such in The Sun at least once a week—that is if friend Bill makes good his promise.

Building a Lawn

a house in the Highlands. He is now engaged in building a lawn to go with the house and preferring the advice of his friends than to be bossed by a landscape gardener, has been over-loaded with that advice. It is of such a nature that he finds the progress he makes is of a backward nature. It is safe to say that most of these friends haven't had any practical experience in lawn making, yet some take it upon themselves to mail my friend literature upon the subject. They imagine they are having lots of fun with him, but he smiles grimly and works on for he intends to show these dear friends a lawn that is a lawn, for it is needless to say he threw all the advice he got to the winds long ago. You would have done the same.

Should Not Go Uncensured

Although we know that most of Europe is at war and folks over there are at each other's throats, it is possible that the war spirit in some degree has reached our own fair shores, and even penetrated the sacred precincts of our municipal buildings? That an office dedicated to the peaceful pursuits of business and governmental dignity and decorum should indulge in assaults, unseemable acts or other conduct open to criticism is a great pity and will-highly unbelievable. Yet it is broadly stated that scenes have been recently enacted there which shouldn't be permitted to pass uncensured. It certainly looks as though all decent officials should take no half-way steps in this matter for their own sakes and the reputation of the city which they serve. The policy of "hushing up" may be well at times; but practiced too much is bound to react eventually. It is up to some gentleman to act.

The Belvidere Tragedy

Concerning that tragedy over in Belvidere a few weeks ago little or nothing is said nowadays. The silence is such as to suggest that our deaths of the police department are either running the murderer to earth, or have given up the case entirely. Still hunts are often the most effective ones, and if one is being persistently engaged in, all good citizens of Lowell fervently hope it may be successful. It is a pity that the police department should sit back and criticize police inspectors of course. There's no doubt but that any officer of the police force would gladly forfeit a month's pay to catch the murderer who may be still walking the streets of Lowell. It would be the best of news to learn of his capture, not only for the sake of justice, but for the good name of our city, where too many capital crimes have been committed with the perpetrators thereof still unapprehended.

The Welcome Rain

The rain which began to fall Thursday night was most welcome to the parched earth. The farmer whose wells were empty and whose brooks were dry hailed it with joy, and he hopes that the spell is broken and that we may have two weeks of it. The traveler along the highways can journey in comfort without being coated and blinded with dust as light as air. Those local firemen who have been fighting fires for days and nights, going long without rest or food can get relief and enjoy once more a period of much needed rest. All of us, whatever our condition, welcome the break of the long drought and feel satisfied to let it rain as long as it will. October, scarcely two-thirds gone, has given us a series of beautiful days and has permitted the world's series to be pulled off under ideal weather conditions. She afforded us delight in her dress of variegated hues, nor less to see her half-orbed moon descend the sloping zodiac and red Orion climb the eastern skies. She has given us a series of nights in which to hunt the moon and may give us more, I hope. She has given us the pleasure of sitting before the open fireplace and enjoying the juice of the apples and the meat of the nuts that grow in her woods. She contributes to the good cheer which envelopes all and is heard in every hearth, every laugh and timely tale. She yields the harvest that nourishes and maintains the nation—this year greater than ever. She gives us rain and doing so, sacrifices her outward beauty, yet lifts the curtain and gives us a day of sunshine and warmth as if in token of her love, then closes in and again rains.

In the days remaining she will give much to those of observant eye and responsive heart. October days, that leave its strange "foreshades of things ideal everywhere!"

Bird Declares Stand-Patters in Session Killed Bill to Allow Cities to Sell Coal

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Charles Sumner Bird, speaking last night at Fall River for the candidates on the progressive state ticket, attacked the 1914 legislature as a stand-pat one, and charged that it denied the cities and towns of the state the right to sell coal and ice.

If the cities and towns sold coal, he declared, there ought to be saved to the people of the state an amount equal to the annual cost of the entire state government. If the cities and towns sold ice he said the people of the state would save several millions dollars annually.

Mr. Bird accused the stand-pat republicans and democrats of killing the bill that would give the people this right. At the conclusion of his remarks he asked, "Does Mr. McCall favor such legislation? Let him tell the people where he stands upon this measure."

WHY NOT RAISE HOGS?

There's Wealth for the Farmer in the Business, E. T. Cash Declares at Packers' Convention

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Wealth will come more quickly to the man who embarks in the business of raising hogs than any other branch of farming, Mr. Cash yesterday made this assertion before 700 members of the American Meat Packers' association attending the ninth annual convention here.

There is more money in raising hogs than in other branches of farming, Mr. Cash said, because they can be fed cheaply and the demand in the markets of the world is daily increasing and will continue to increase. High prices, he asserted, would prevail indefinitely.

Hog cholera, which in 1912 caused a loss of $55,000,000 to the American farmer, has been brought under such control that soon the farmers will have only themselves to blame if they suffer great losses from the disease, Dr. F. G. Houck of the United States bureau of animal industry declared.

What Happened to the Cats?

Not long ago the U. S. Gov't made some experiments to determine the poisoning qualities of caffeine (the drug in coffee).

Twenty-seven healthy cats were given an average dose of 5 4-5 grains of caffeine—about as much of the drug as is contained in 2 cups of coffee.

What do you suppose happened?

The Cats All Died!

See Gov't Bulletin No. 148, Bureau of Chemistry.

Of course they were only cats.

But there are plenty of people who dose themselves with enough caffeine every day to kill a cat and Cripple a Man, not at one blow, but by little blows repeated daily.

Of course some systems are strong enough to stand all kinds of abuse, but most systems are not. And when a man or woman observes a growing nervousness or sleeplessness, heart trouble, stomach, bowel or eye disturbance, it is time to quit coffee and turn to a real food-drink, free from the coffee drug, "caffeine."

for in POSTUM one gets a delicious drink with the true nourishment of whole wheat from which it is made. Postum is roasted (like coffee) with a bit of wholesome molasses, looks like coffee and has a delightful flavour resembling Old Dutch Java, but is entirely free from the coffee drug, caffeine, or any other drug or harmful substance.

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum which must be boiled. Instant Postum—soluble form—made in the cup instantly with hot water. Grocers sell both kinds and the cost per cup is about the same.

EVERY DAY ETIQUETTE

"Bobbie is awfully jealous when any of the other boys call," sighed young Alice. "I wish he could realize that I want other friends."

"It is very foolish for any girl to let a man friend say whether or not she should have other men friends. One should cultivate as many desirable friends as possible, for in this way only is a girl able to judge the different types of men. When she knows a number of men she is better able to decide the all-important question of marriage, having learned the qualities of the various associates. Of course, when a girl is engaged to marry, it is only natural that she would prefer to share the bulk of her time with her fiancé," answered her aunt.

"When I am out walking with one girl or riding in the street car with her and another girl comes up to us, should I introduce her to my friend?" asked Helen, the other day of her mother.

"If you hold a conversation with the girl you should most certainly introduce her to your friends. If the girl merely stops to exchange greetings or to give you an important piece of news which is evidently in a great hurry to move on, there would be little opportunity to make the introduction. When it is convenient, it is usually best to introduce your friends," replied her mother.

"Please enumerate the various times a man should lift his hat," asked John, who had just arrived at the age of 13 and felt the responsibility of courteous manhood seriously.

"A man must raise his hat under the following circumstances: When he acknowledges a woman's bow; when recognizing clergymen or distinguished or elderly gentlemen of his acquaintance; when walking with women and he salutes his friends or she salutes her friends; whether they are known to him or not; when he passes a man friend who is accompanied by a woman; when offering his seat to a woman in a public conveyance; when drawing to one side in a narrow way to allow her free passage; when giving any information she may ask; when restoring anything she may have dropped; when doing her some slight service; and when a woman under his escort receives some courtesy from a stranger," replied his father.

"What should be said when someone says 'I am pleased to meet you?' With whom should one shake hands when an introduction is made?" asked Katherine returning from a walk.

"It is sufficient to say, 'Thank you, I am sure the pleasure is mutual.' A woman is at liberty to take the initiative in shaking hands with a man. She may also do so with a woman, unless the woman be much older than she or holds some prominent position," replied her mother.

"I have received an invitation to a church wedding. Would it be proper for me to acknowledge this invitation?" asked Marie, puzzled.

"If you are invited to witness the church ceremony only, you need not reply. If the invitation included cards to a reception, you should send your cards to the bride's parents, so that they reach them the day of the ceremony. You need not make any reply at all if you intend to be present at the church, answered her eldest-sister.

"When one has an electric toaster it is proper to have it on the table when the guests are present?" asked elderly Mrs. Brown.

VOGEL'S DEATH NATURAL

AUTOPSY SHOWS THAT FORMER PARTNER OF SIEGEL HAD HEART TROUBLE AND BRIGHTS DISEASE

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—An autopsy to determine the cause of the sudden death in the Hotel Blumhouse Monday night of Frank H. Vogel, former partner of Henry Siegel and with him made defendant in 14 indictments arising out of the failure of the Henry Siegel & Co. Bank, was held yesterday at the orders of Coroner Hollenstien. The family of the dead man concurred in the coroner's desire to clear up the cause of Vogel's death, feeling as they did that rumors of suicide had been set at rest by the revelation of natural causes for the death.

Coroner Physician Lehan announced at the end of the autopsy that heart trouble, complicated by brights disease, had been the cause of Vogel's death.

FOUR DAYS A WEEK

Working Schedule Is Cut at Mills of the Parkhill Company at Fitchburg

FITCHBURG, Oct. 21.—The mills of the Parkhill company, which furnish employment when running full to some 3500 hands, will be operated four days each week for the present, according to notices posted yesterday in the mills of the company. The operatives will work 10 hours on each of the four days. The regular schedule calls for 64 hours a week.

Russell L. Lowe, president of the company, said yesterday afternoon that the mills would not be operated on full time until the cotton market was better. Mr. Lowe said that the present tariff undoubtedly affected the business to some extent.

WHY DO YOU VOTE?

One of the very evident things that cannot be repeated too often when speaking of municipal politics is that the citizens of any community get the kind of government that they demand; if the public standard is low, the political standard is correspondingly low; if the type of government is undesirable in any particular, there is danger that, in the aggregate, the voters do not demand other than an undesirable variety of service from their public servants.

To understand this matter fully and to plan intelligently for better conditions, one must realize that it is the individual vote that counts. The political voice of a city is the sum of individual preferences. The man who would reform the public affairs of his city must devote as much attention, if not more, to the vote of the man on the street as to the vote of the theorist who sits in his office and plans for better things. It is not encouraging for the man of affairs who regards municipal government as a serious problem to see it made the sport of political conjurers and self-seekers aided by an unthinking or misled public, but it is the duty of each voter nevertheless to use his personal influence in the cause of reform.

If all hypocrisy and pretence were removed before elections and if aspirants to office told the truth as to why they desired political positions, city affairs would be conducted on an altogether different basis. The man who assumes a lofty and disinterested air might then say: "I want to be mayor, or commissioner or other public official because it is a good job; the salary appeals to me; I will have many opportunities to make money indirectly owing to my prominence; I will be able to take care of my friends." Or he might say: "I am anxious to hold public office because I am ambitious and the feeling that my fellow citizens may place confidence in me and give me a position of prominence and trust urges me to appeal for their support." No matter how fine the speeches or how apparently disinterested the sentiments expressed, many among the voting public suspect selfish motives in most municipal campaigns and are swayed accordingly.

Even more important than the real motives of the men who aspire to municipal offices are the motives of the voters generally. Over and over again we have seen men elected to high positions after having manifested every form of personal and official unworthiness. Men who have been guilty of downright dishonesty, men who have displayed the grossest incompetence, men who have acted shamefully in their private life and been a fruitful source of scandal, men who have catered to the low element in the public and pandered to every gross passion, men finally who have not shown one redeeming feature as public officials have been reelected at times with great majorities. Even jail records have proved beneficial to some politicians rather than the contrary. How can one avoid wondering what prompts some men to vote for their choice of political aspirants?

Applied to local conditions, one may be pardoned for asking bluntly: Do the people of Lowell desire good government—and by "good" government is meant honest and efficient government rather than the fake brand of municipal "sanctity" that has been exploited to the disgust of normal-minded people? Do the people want the latest and the best? Do they want Lowell to lag far behind while other cities in the commonwealth are forging to the front? Do they want our city to be branded as residentially undesirable, as industrially crippled or politically hopeless? They do not, most assuredly. Then why have they tolerated conditions for years that are a public disgrace? Why are they tolerating them now?

When you go to the polls in the near future, Mr. Voter of Lowell, what will decide your vote? Will you mark a cross beside a man's name because, in your opinion, he is the best man for the job, possessing ability or experience or demonstrated sincerity, or will you vote for a man because of some selfish or dishonest or low motive? Remember you owe a duty to your city—the duty of giving it the best in public service. Stand up like a man and do the decent and honorable thing by voting only for men who will not shame the city or prevent its progress by inactivity, lack of ability or lack of initiative. Lowell appeals to every voter to give it clean, competent and co-operative government. Give the only answer possible, if you are a public-spirited citizen, by selecting the best men available for positions of public trust.

ARE WE MAKING DYES?

To those not directly connected with the group of young men to do for America the American textile business there is something incongruous in the present situation as it affects the supply of dyes and chemicals used in manufacture. Since the beginning of the war complaints have been heard on all sides because of the cutting off of foreign chemicals, but as yet little apparently has been done to remedy the shortage, except on a small scale not calculated to relieve the stagnation. All manufacturers are agreed that the possibilities of still greater shortage may seriously hamper American enterprise but few are agreed on some practical plan to offset it by domestic manufacture.

If the statements of leaders in manufacture and prominent inventors are true, there is no reason why America should be dependent on any foreign country. We have been told repeatedly that most of the dyes made in Germany can be made in this country—though at a greater cost—and that the domestic need would be the occasion for domestic initiative. Why then has not something been done on a large scale to offset our dependence on a foreign commodity? If the situation is as represented, American manufacturers are guilty of a neglect that may seriously interfere with the textile business if the war is prolonged two or three years.

The key to the situation is in the hands of the manufacturers. If they encourage the birth and growth of a new departure, American invention will undoubtedly rise to the occasion. Our own textile school has been in the forefront of enterprise and, through its heads, has declared its readiness to meet any demands made by the textile industry. All of the dyes used at the school for years have been made on the premises and at present the splendid establishment is training a portion of facts can fasten the responsibility to the shoulders of the democratic party. In his account of his stewardship Governor Walsh shows how many of his reforms were achieved in spite of republican opposition and how he failed in other respects owing to the same reason. He is giving a frank and sincere account of his term of office. Let Mr. McCall speak of the extravagance of the Massachusetts legislature by all means, but let him be equally frank in declaring that the legislature in question has for many years been controlled by the republican party. An unparliamentary material, he is using arguments that may act as a boomerang.

COTTON RELIEF SCHEME

The suggested purchase by the government of 5,000,000 bales of cotton for the purpose of relieving the southern planters, as introduced in congress last Saturday, was little short of ridiculous. Though supported by senators from the cotton states it met with merited defeat. The country as a whole fully recognizes the need of the cotton belt and would like to see some reasonable scheme of relief, but that the government should enter into such a wild proposition is as foolish as it would be dangerous. Cotton is by no means the only industry affected by the war and there is no reason why it should be bolstered up by the government to the neglect of all other industries. The problem is one for the planters, agents, traders and bankers and there ought to be some way to help all concerned through a dismal season without drawing upon government funds. After a period of waiting, there will be demand enough for cotton, and in this great country there should be credit sufficient to tide the planters and others interested over until better times. President Wilson intimated that he would veto the war tax bill if the appropriation for cotton were tacked on, and it is not likely that the matter will be brought up again in the near future.

A PARISIAN ECHO

If anything were needed to emphasize the necessity for neutrality in all American public expressions regarding the present war it would be afforded by a perusal of the editorial called forth by Congressman Gardner's recent speech and published in the famous Figaro of Paris. This international notice has not been attracted by the superlative wisdom of the speech but by its breach of neutrality; any expression of views on one side or the other could not fail to be so noted when the originator is an American congressman. To say that the speech has been commended in Paris is to say that it is condemned in Berlin. Mr. Gardner is a gentleman of great originality and strong convictions but he is scarcely to be trusted in discussing delicate international matters. His favoring of the allies was not at all necessary in emphasizing his point, and he will scarcely be flattered by such distinguished foreign notice when the fortunes of his own country are liable to be endangered.

Another attempt of the municipal council to make capital at the expense of the school board is revealed by the letter of protest sent to the council against the turning of rent for the Kirk street annex into the general treasury while the school board pays the same amount of rent for that property. From first to last the school board has had many reasons to complain of its treatment at the hands of the present council.

Carrying revolvers seems to be a favorite practice with our irresponsible young men, according to revelations of the local police court. Is it due to the influence of the war or is it due to a lack of local vigilance in some quarters? There is no doubt that those who are not fitted to carry revolvers find it far too easy to acquire them.

If the lack of interest on the public market matter will be the same after election as before, it would be just as well to call it a failure right now. It is really a benefit to any class, it is not bad that the subject is not agitated more persistently and intelligently.

In all probability the lunch cart proprietors tossed down the milk so that the midnight buncblers would not be troubled with insomnia.

Paris is still the coveted prize, but it is just beyond reach.

A chance for Sherlock Holmes.

Cheap advice is always dear.

Here's hoping that Turkey will not lose its head before Thanksgiving.

A man is always more polite when he is a widower than he was when he wasn't.

And don't overlook the fact that every man is also the architect of his own misfortune.

A girl can always catch the man she wants by pretending to try to catch a man she doesn't want.

There are not many sure things in this world. But here is one of them: A woman is always older than she thinks she looks.

What has become of the old-fashioned man who used to cure boils with a poultice made of soap and brown sugar?

After you have roamed around for a while you will find that the girls who are really fond of vocal music are those who do not try to sing.

"Jim" Hearn, the well known newspaper man, who has been connected with the Lowell Sun for over 20 years, joins the beneficiaries. He is married to a popular young lady, Miss Mary Marley (Mrs. Hearn) who is secretary to Mayor James E. O'Donnell. He is well known and popular in Lawrence. Lawrence Tribune.

One who signs himself "Ardent Reader" has asked if England can order her colonies to aid the mother country in the present war. England cannot order her colonies to do anything. She can appeal for assistance and it is optional with the colonies as to whether such request shall be granted. The spirit of patriotism, however, is so strong in the colonies that it is not necessary for England to appeal to them for assistance. They volunteer it.

THE IRON CROSS—Another reader asks about the iron cross so frequently alluded to in the German war news. The Iron Cross is an order of merit established by Frederick William III, of Prussia March 10, 1813, for patriotic bravery in war against France; revived by William I, in 1870 in the Franco-Prussian war and awarded by him to his son Frederick William for victory at Wismarburg Aug. 1, 1870. About 10,000 persons were decorated in 1870-71.

DUCK HUNTERS' EXPERIENCES—Dr. Frank R. Brady and John M. Farrell, the well known auctioneer, returned a few days ago from a very successful duck shooting trip down the Cape, having taken a half-hundred ducks or more. They had some experiences, too, that are worth relating. Once while drifting in a boat waiting for a heavy fog to rise, a shark came along side and made his presence felt by giving the boat a push that almost turned it over. There was some question in the minds of the duck hunters as to whether they ought to shoot or stand pat and, believing discretion the better part of valor, decided to remain quiet. They did not know what effect duck shot would have on a shark and they didn't relish the thought of a hand to hand battle with the man eater, or a swim to shore.

They do not deny that they were a little bit nervous and Mr. Farrell has since stated that he wouldn't have fired on the shark if their craft had boasted a German self-sunk. The shark incident would not be called a funny experience, but that was to come later, not for the doctor, but for Mr. Farrell.

One day after partaking of a hearty noon lunch the man who can sell anything from mesquite nutting to abandoned farms, took a stroll in the woods. The hearty lunch and the beautiful October sun had imparted a comfortable drowsy feeling and Mr. Farrell had himself down in a pleasant spot with his back against a stone wall. He placed his gun across his knees and indulged in a little cat nap. Everything was quiet and peaceful when he awoke and as he cast his eyes down the long barrel of his well polished hunting piece he beheld there a little speck of white with his head tucked under his wing, asleep on the gun barrel. "I had seen a picture of a hunter asleep with a bird perched on his rifle," said Mr. Farrell, "and I thought the picture a bit overdrawn, but I no longer doubt the authenticity of it."

WIREN SOME ONE CARES—When you meet some disappointment, an "yer feelin'" kind of blue. When yer plans have all gone aside. When yer best friend has proved untrue. When yer telling, praying, struggling at the bottom of the stairs. It is like a pancea—just to know that someone cares.

Someone who can appreciate one's efforts when he is tired and sore. Someone who seems to understand an "so can sympathize."

Someone who when he's far away, still wonders how he fares.

Someone who never can forget—someone who really cares.

It will send a thrill of rapture through the framework of the heart.

It will stir the inner being till the tears drop want to start.

For this life is worth the livin' when someone yer sorrow shares.

Live in truth with the livin', when you know that someone cares.

Oh, this world is not all sunshine—many days dark and gloomy. There's a cross for every joy-bell, and a thorn for every rose.

But the cross is not so grievous, nor the thorn the rosebud wears—when someone really cares.

—James E. Hilkey.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

A PREDICTION—The generalship on both sides is too good to expect such a false move on either side as will make possible a decisive battle. But by this time the numbers of the allies ought to be so superior that the general course of the war will be a slow continuous pushing-back by the Germans. Until—well, it seems a long day before England has crushed German militarism.

Before that is accomplished there should come a virtual cessation of normal conditions of trade for the greater part of the trading world.

In the United States business might seem to be not so bad as it has been.

—Lawson Sun.

FACTORY ACCIDENTS—Even expert testimony is to be taken with a grain of salt. For example, at the industrial safety congress one speaker said that 60 per cent. of the factory accidents were due to liquor.

White another declared that 75 per cent were caused by the carelessness of employers. Which, if either, statement was correct may be left to the reader to conjecture. The chances are, however, that both speakers were, unintentionally of course, wrong in their estimates.—Springfield Union.

THE GENTLE RAIN—The weather man certainly has not strided us on rain. The forest fires are now things of the past, there are no more fiery conflagrations, the dilled ponds and streams raised merrily and the ground splendidly drenched. Nobody will begrudge the absence of sunny skies in view of the fact that the gentle rain has done—Portland Express.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK—These best informed believe that a greater opportunity than ever exists for all kinds of manufacturers, makers of shoes among them. This has already been dwell upon in these columns and it cannot be too strongly persisted in, for new trade started now when other sections of the world cannot supply it must endure to the benefit of our industrial section.

That such out and get it—Haverhill Record.

FOREIGN ORDERS—The contracts for war materials for Europe are beginning to arrive, which indicates that whatever surplus supplies there may have been in the commissary departments when war broke out have been used up. If that is the case, more and more orders may be expected as the fighting proceeds.—Fall River Herald.

WORKERS WHO DRINK—One strong feature of the movement against the cause of intoxicating drink is the fact that employers are more and more condemning it. It has been in fact the habit of drink is more and more becoming fatal to obtaining employment. There has just been held in Chicago a meeting of the National Council for Industrial Safety. The 500 members of the council, representing more than 1,000,000 working men, and covering every line of industrial endeavor, unanimously adopted resolutions against the use of alcohol.—Fall River News.

Simple Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications, will completely dissolve, and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

HOW TO KILL CHICKENS

Lack of Knowledge Has Caused Loss of Large Sum, Says Department of Agriculture

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The department of agriculture estimates that many thousands of dollars' worth of meat was lost last winter because of a lack of knowledge on the part of poultry men concerning improved methods of killing chickens. In view of the great loss sustained in 1913, new rules for "killing chickens" have been issued.

The report of the department says that the old way of slaughtering poultry for the market "wrecked many hundreds of poultry, sent tens of thousands of pounds of chickens, turkeys, ducks and geese to the crematory and left the consumers with such a strong aversion to the taste of poultry that reached the market in an 'off condition' that sales have suffered ever since."

The following advice is given poultry dressers by the department experts:

"Birds should be kept in coops with only a few other birds before killing, so that they will have an abundance of food. For 24 hours before killing they should be given only water. Killing should be done by cutting the veins of the neck from inside the mouth while the bird is suspended by the feet. Birds should be dry-picked, not scalded, and the animal heat must be removed by refrigeration at from 30 to 35 degrees for 24 hours."

ECZEMA BLOTCHES ITCHED SEVERELY

On Face. So Bad at Night Could Hardly Sleep. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In Two Weeks Trouble Gone.

88 Gooding St., Pawtucket, R. I.—"My face broke out in eczema blotches which itched severely. They were deep red and I could not keep from scratching it at night. It seemed as if I would scratch my face to pieces and they itched so at night I could hardly sleep. I tried different creams and ointments but instead of getting better it seemed worse. After a month I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The itching was so much relieved that I kept on and after two weeks the trouble was gone." (Signed) Miss Ellen S. Whitaker, Jan. 31, 1914.

For pimples and blotches the following is a most effective and economical treatment: Gently smear the affected parts with Cuticura Ointment, on the end of the finger, but do not rub. Wash off the Cuticura Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water and continue bathing for some minutes. This treatment is best on rising and retiring. At other times use Cuticura Soap freely for the toilet and bath, to assist in preventing the formation and clogging of the pores, the common cause of pimples, blotches and other unsightly eruptions of the skin. Although Cuticura Soap (35c) and Cuticura Ointment (50c) are sold by druggists everywhere, a sample of each with 32-p. Skin Book will be sent free upon request. Address "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Eight Year Old Gives Police Tip on Theatre Robbery

Police Sergeant David Petrie added another feather to his cap last night by rounding up the boys responsible for the recent robbery at Keith's theatre when money and valuables, the property of actors and actresses, were stolen from a dressing room.

Eight-year-old Henry Plant was spending money with the reckless abandon of a sailor after a long cruise and this very fact gave the officer his first clue. He connected with little Henry and the boy gave him the story, implicating his pal, Leonel Gaulin, 14, of 331 Pawtucket street. The boys did not start in with any worse intention than to see the show for nothing, but they collided with a temptation that was too great for them.

Sergeant Petrie located the Gaulin boy in the very playhouse where the misdeed had been committed. The lad was taking in the show and was as much surprised when told that he was wanted in the rear of the house as though he had been called before the footlights. As he approached the rear of the house he was nabbed by Sgt. Petrie who took him to the police station. On his arrival at the station the lad talked freely of the robbery.

On the night that the robbery occurred, Gaulin said he called the plant boy went to the rear of the theatre and climbed the fire escape with the idea of seeing the show through a window. On reaching the window they discovered the valuables lying in plain sight. The temptation was too strong and they made away with it. The lion's share of the spoils was appropriated by Gaulin while the Plant boy got only $1 of the plunder.

Since that time young Gaulin has been having good things to eat, but has been sleeping in all sorts of places. He owned up to having stolen a plain robe from a parked motor car. This he said, was sufficient to keep him comfortably warm at night.

It was further disclosed from the boy's statements, that there were a number of English coins among the stolen valuables. These coins, he threw away, not considering them negotiable.

The boy's father admits his inability to control him so it is very probable that he will be remanded to some institution. The stout boy, on account of his extreme youth, was released.

The money which has been recovered from Gaulin will be forwarded by the police to the owners, who are now filing a theatrical engagement in Montreal.

DRUGLESS HEALING

The Hyomei Catarrh Remedy Is Nature's Own Method

You would not take a pill to heal a burn, and no one should think of trying to cure catarrh, or head colds by dosing the stomach.

The sensible way is to medicate the air you breathe with Hyomei. This treatment goes at once to the sore and congested membrane lining the nose, and throat, and makes a rapid and lasting end of distressing catarrh, and similar ailments.

Hyomei is nature's true method of treating all diseases affecting the air passages. You breathe it. The Hyomei complete outfit consists of a neat hand rubber inhaler, easily carried in the pocket, and a bottle of Hyomei. This is usually sufficient for the ordinary case. Chronic and deep-seated trouble may require a little more of the liquid, in which case you can get an extra bottle of Hyomei at a trifling cost.

Hyomei is sold by druggists everywhere and Booth's Hyomei Co., of Buffalo, authorize them to return the money to any dissatisfied customer. If it cures the treatment is inexpensive. If it does not, it is not a cost.

IMPORTANT TRADE CONFERENCE

To Be Held at Copley Plaza Friday, Oct. 30, for Business Men

Methods of Industrial Development to be Discussed

Mr. Edwin Mulready, commissioner of labor sends out the following announcement of a conference on "Industrial Development and Foreign Trade Extension," to be held on Friday, October 30, at the Copley Plaza, Chairman Alfred W. Donovan of the state board of labor and industries today called attention to the fact that Massachusetts leads all the other states in the establishment of an industrial development bureau. The Day State, Mr. Donovan says, is the first of the states to go after foreign trade as a state.

The Copley Plaza conference, one week from Friday, will do something more than "discuss" opportunities in the way of foreign-trade extension. More really interested will be given specific information; will be told "how."

Chairman Donovan maintains that there has been a sufficiency of "planning" and that what Massachusetts manufacturers and Massachusetts industrial workers want to see now is action, more action, and more action. The state board is prepared to furnish the power.

Manufacturers, wholesalers, bankers and workers who attend the Copley Plaza conference will learn that the commission is able to make to present-day opportunities and will be told just how to take advantage of great means of information that have been collected, and will be collected, for their benefit.

Chairman Donovan, himself a shoe manufacturer, will preside at the conference and will introduce speakers of national reputation. One of these speakers is likely to be Secretary Redfield, of the department of commerce and labor. There will be but one subject.

ject: "The Development of Massachusetts Trade and Industry."

"But the emphasis of the conference," Mr. Donovan says, "will not be on the formal addresses but on a general discussion of the practical industrial problems of Massachusetts, and on the most immediate and practical way of strengthening and expanding Massachusetts industries."

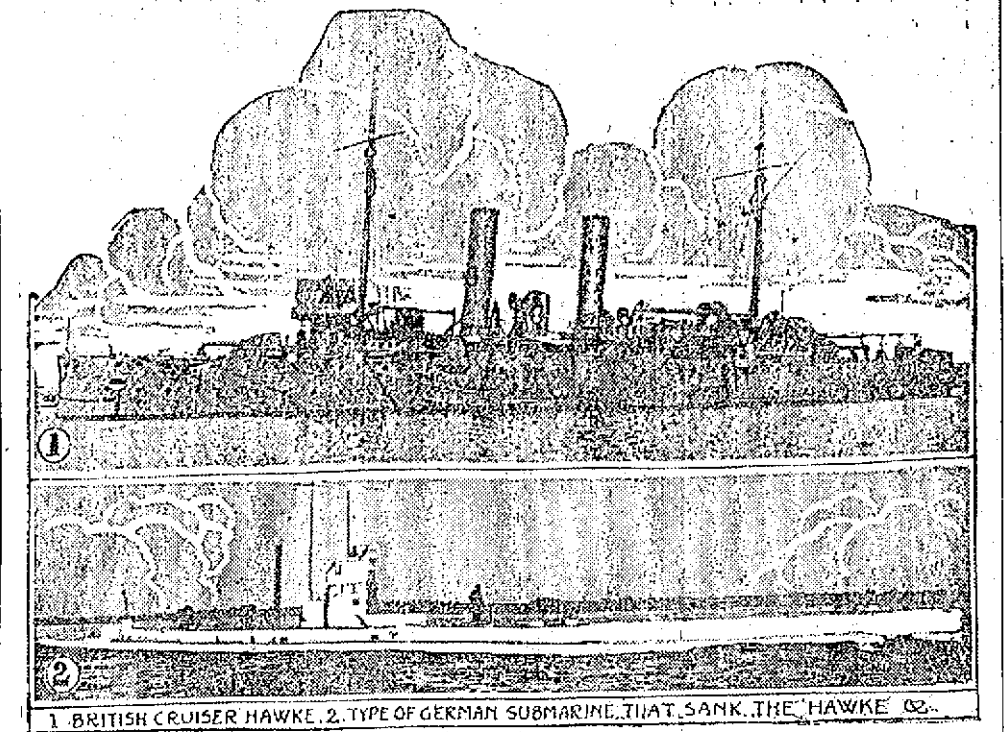

"With that end in view the present problem of foreign trade extension will naturally be given great prominence and the greater part of an all day program will be taken up with discussions from the floor."

"The most important feature of the day, perhaps, will be the Question Box."

A number of experts of national reputation on industrial expansion and foreign trade have promised to be present. Anybody in Massachusetts is privileged to submit in writing any questions relating to the general problems of securing foreign trade, expanding domestic trade, or securing new industries. The best men who can be discovered will be asked to stand up before the conference and reply to these questions with specific information.

This conference, it is announced, will be divided into two sessions, lasting from 10 o'clock in the forenoon until 12:30 p. m., and from 1:30 o'clock until 5:00 p. m.

GERMAN SUBMARINES AND FLOATING MINES COST ENGLAND SEVEN SHIPS AND 2186 MEN

1. BRITISH CRUISER HAWKE. 2. TYPE OF GERMAN SUBMARINE THAT SANK THE HAWKE

The German policy of crippling the British navy by submarine attacks and floating mines while keeping the German Dreadnoughts under the guns of Kiel and Heligoland has cost the British six useful cruisers and one torpedo gunboat, with a loss of 2186 men. By submarine raids in the North sea Germans sank the following: The scout cruiser Palladine, with 236 men, on Sept. 5; the armored cruisers Cressy, Hogue and Aboukir on Sept. 22, with 1400 men; the scout cruiser Hawke on Oct. 15, with 387 men. German mines in the North sea destroyed the light cruiser Amphion, with 131 men, on Aug. 6 and the torpedo gunboat Speedy on Sept. 3, with 22 men. The advantage in the naval struggle is distinctly with the Germans, although the British have destroyed or wrecked four German cruisers, two torpedo boat destroyers, one torpedo boat, three submarines and eight merchant ships armed as commerce destroyers.

WIRELESS FROM BERLIN

Says Loss of Ships Sunk by British Will Increase Rather Than Decrease Pride of German Navy

BERLIN, Oct. 20.—(Wireless)—Information given out today in German official circles says:

Although the news of the fate of the German torpedo boats S 115, S 117, S 118 and S 119, which were sunk by British warships off the Dutch coast, has aroused feelings of deep regret throughout Germany, the loss of the ships will rather increase than decrease the pride of the Germans for their navy. The crews are much lamented but the vessels were but of little value.

Senator Strands, of Hamburg, has been appointed civil governor of Antwerp.

Although two Belgian majors have related to a war correspondent of the Nieuwe Roterdaamsche Courant that one-half of the Belgian army has been interned in Holland, a quarter of the whole army has deserted, they declare, and the last quarter so disorganized that they are only a burden to the British and the French armies.

Nearly all the Italian volunteers in the French army have returned to Italy during the past few days.

French recruiting officers are spending considerable sums of money to bring about the enlistment of the fisher population residing on the French and Belgian coasts.

Peter Nansen, a well known Danish author, has declared that the rendering of assistance to Germany's enemies by Japanese, Indians and Africans is suicidal, in view of the policy of the white races. The time may come, he says, when the white races of Europe and the Americas will have to join the German in opposition to these Orientals.

The French newspaper L'Action Francaise admits that the war means the financial triumph of Germany, at one time considered a poor country over France, formerly the "banker of the world."

OVER $500,000 FOR TAXES

Checks and Cash Swell Strong Box at City Hall—Street Oiling and Watering

Yesterday was the last day for the payment of taxes, the busiest day of the year for the city treasurer and his assistants. Taxpayers were on hand as soon as the office opened at 9 o'clock yesterday and everybody connected with the department was busy as nappers until the office closed at 9 o'clock last night.

Up to 3 o'clock yesterday the total amount collected exceeded $500,000 and cash and checks were still pouring in. There may have been a scarcity of money elsewhere, but the general treasury was being well provided for. The two biggest checks received were from the Massachusetts and Merrimack mills. The check from the Massachusetts was for $66,425.53 and from the Merrimack, $37,330.95.

Expense Returns

J. Joseph O'Connor, democratic candidate for congress in the 5th Middlesex district, has complied with the law relative to the filing of expense accounts and his return says nothing expended, contracted or promised, and this held good in the case of Thomas H. Corcoran, democratic, 17th representative district.

Two Family Dwelling

Margaret J. Dunn has been granted a permit for the erection of two two-story apartment houses at 55 Aldford street. The building will be 35 by 40 feet, two and one-half stories, and the estimated cost is $3000.

Oiling and Watering Streets

There has been further inquiry as to the cost to the abject of street oiling and the answer is a simple one. The cost is exactly the same, 1 1/2 cents a foot for a 40 foot street, and 6 1/2 cents a foot on a 50 foot street. The city, however, will have to pay more this year than was paid heretofore because of the fact that two appropriations were made this year, one for oiling and another for watering. The appropriation for oiling streets was $17,000, and for street watering $19,000. There was no appropriation for oiling last year and the appropriation for street watering was the same as this year, $19,000.

THE ARMY-NAVY GAME

WILL BE PLAYED IN PHILADELPHIA ON NOV. 28, ACCORDING TO LATEST DISPATCH

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The Army and Navy football game will be played this year at Philadelphia on Franklin field Nov. 28 and four annual games thereafter will alternate between New York and Philadelphia by an agreement today between the army and navy athletic association in session at Annapolis, Md. This morning a report was sent out that the game was definitely abandoned but late today the decision to play the game was reached.

"HERMIT OF NEW YORK"

REV. WASHINGTON FROTHINGHAM, OLDEST NEWSPAPER MAN IN AMERICA, DEAD AT FONDA

FONDA, N. Y., Oct. 20.—The Rev. Washington Frothingham, 93, clergyman, author and philanthropist, died at his home here today. He was said to be the oldest newspaper man in America and was known to thousands as "the hermit of New York," the name under which he contributed many articles in Mohawk valley and New York and Boston newspapers.

ABOLITION OF COMMISSION

Proposed in Bill to Be Introduced in Fitchburg—Finn to Have Streets Under One Head

FITCHBURG, Oct. 20.—Councilman Michael F. O'Neil will present a bill at a meeting of the city council providing for the abolition of the street commission. The bill, if accepted, will be sent to the legislature next year for consideration.

The bill provides for the abolition of the present commission of three members and the creation of a new commission to consist of one member, who shall be an engineer. The bill is similar to one introduced in the legislature last year and defeated.

DROPPED DEAD

Rev. Dr. John C. Coleman Was District Superintendent of Troy, N.Y., Methodist Episcopal Conference

RUTLAND, Vt., Oct. 20.—Rev. Dr. John H. Coleman, a district superintendent of the Troy Methodist Episcopal conference and a former president of Willamette university, Oregon, dropped dead on the main street here today. He was 73 years old.

HEARING WAS DEVOTED LARGE- LY TO CROSS-EXAMINATION OF PRES. WILLARD

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The hearing by the inter-state commerce commission on the application of eastern railroads for increased freight rates on their contention that financial exigencies brought on by the European war made them needful, was devoted largely to a cross-examination of President Willard of the Baltimore & Ohio on the relations of that system to the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton.

Louis D. Brandeis, special counsel for the commission, laid stress on his questions on the Baltimore & Ohio investment of more than $20,000,000 in the Ohio line and its assumption of obligations of a like amount.

The witness said the investment represented only an interest charge of $1,000,000 annually and insisted that it would not have effected the present situation of the line.

Mr. Willard declared the present condition of all railroads was such that they were compelled to allow their rolling stock and roadways to drop below standard.

GIRL IN MAD LEAP FROM THIRD STORY WINDOW

Trapped in Dorchester Apartment She Plunged Headlong Through Window, Breaking Leg on Pavement Below

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Trapped in a position which branded her as a burglar, and rather than face the disgrace of arrest, Miss Gertrude F. Fernandes, a mere girl, took the chance of death in a mad leap from freedom from the third story window of the apartment of George E. Kinsman at 30 Arcadia street, Dorchester, yesterday afternoon.

The daring risk she took when Mrs. Kinsman, coming home unexpectedly, caught her in the apartment, ended in her being terribly hurt. After trying to barricade herself in the bathroom, this girl flung, as the police and Mrs. Kinsman claim her to be, made a break through the room for liberty.

Dodging her discoverer, she raced through the hall and into a bedroom, and plunged headlong through a window, sweeping the screen out with her.

Her left leg crumpled under her, with both bones broken, as she struck the ground 20 feet below, and she fell unconscious at the feet of Mrs. Kinsman as the latter rushed out of the house to call the police.

Helpless to make further effort, she was taken in a police ambulance summoned by neighbors, and the city struck, where she was placed under arrest on the charge of breaking and entering.

Mrs. Kinsman declared last night that she is unwilling to prosecute the young woman, believing that she has already suffered enough.

Mrs. Kinsman returned home after a visit to her mother yesterday afternoon, earlier than usual on such occasions, and when she approached the entrance door to her apartment she found it open and a key in the lock.

She entered the apartment, and thinking that perhaps her husband had returned home, called his name.

BRIGHTNESS OF COMET

Delavan's, which is 145,000,000 miles from the earth, is visible near "Big Dipper."

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—The Delavan comet is nearly at its brightest and can easily be seen with the naked eye low down in the northwestern heavens about 10 degrees below the "Big Dipper" handle. The time to look for it is about 6 p. m. or as soon after dusk as the stars become bright. The comet is moving in a westerly direction toward the bright star Arcturus, which, it is reported, it will pass Oct. 26. Its tail, approximately three degrees in extent, is traceable in a northerly direction.

According to recent computation, Delavan's comet is 145,000,000 miles from the earth and is traveling about 1200 miles a minute. Astronomers say that it differs in character from the Halley comet and that if it approached the earth as closely it would dominate the heavens with a splendor far greater than Halley's a few years ago.

The comet takes its name from Paul T. Delavan, who was the first to observe it on its return in September, 1913, at the Naval observatory at La Plata, Argentina. It was identified as the "Comet Westphal 1882 IV," the records of which show an estimated period of 51.5 years. This comet is one of seven that have been under observation during 1914.

Interest begins Saturday, Nov. 7 at the Central Savings bank.

CAPT. JOHNSON TELLS OF SINKING OF BRITISH STEAMER BY GERMANS

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Captain Johnson and 16 men of the crew of the British steamer Giltara, sunk by a German submarine, have arrived in Stavanger, Norway, from Skudenes, according to a despatch to the Router Telegram company. In telling of his experience Captain Johnson said: "The Giltara left Grangemouth, Scotland, Sunday noon with coal and coke for Stavanger. Monday afternoon the German submarine N 17 popped out of the water to the starboard and stopped us. The place was about nine miles southeast of Skudenes. "The submarine sent a boat aboard with five men. With revolvers in hand they ordered the English flag taken down, threatening to shoot me if I did not obey. Furthermore, they notified me to make haste and they allowed me not more than ten minutes to let down the lifeboats and take off the crew. "I took down the flag, whereupon the German officer told me to get my hands and tramped it under foot. I was forced to take the ship's papers and those of the passengers, and then off, and none of the crew was allowed to take any of their belongings. "The crew went in two lifeboats which the submarine quickly towed five hundred yards from the Giltara. Three Germans remained aboard for a few minutes searching the ship thoroughly and rapidly and one of them evidently opened the bottom valves because the rear of the ship began to sink. Then in a short time the Giltara disappeared quietly beneath the waves. "We in the lifeboats were ordered to row to the shore. When we reached Norwegian sea territory we met a small pilot boat which towed us until a Norwegian torpedo boat took us aboard."

"The attempts of the Russians to regain the Magiera heights have been repulsed. In the course of this fighting many Russians were captured, including one general. Several machine guns also were taken. "The Austrians have occupied Striz (42 miles southwest of Lemberg), Koerosemece and Serth after strong Russian resistance."

GREAT ANXIETY MANIFESTED IN GERMANY OVER WAR SITUATION

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 21.—The military correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt hints that there is a certain amount of anxiety about the situation manifesting itself in Germany. He explains, though, that a decision is likely to come "like a thief in the night" and that it will more probably be on the east front rather than in the west. "While fresh masses of troops can be brought without hindrance over seas," he says, "they constitute an awkward adversary. Although the unity of their forces—if they invaded Germany—is to be doubted, Germany has still a somewhat hard task which must not be forgotten in waiting for the decision. "Bethmann-Hollweg, according to the Tageblatt, is being attacked in certain influential circles as responsible for the war. "The Daily Mail's Rotterdam correspondent, under date of Tuesday night, says that according to a German message a fierce battle is still raging between Furnes and Dunkirk. "He continues: "On the march on Dunkirk, the Germans met a large and unexpected body of troops, which attacked them horse, foot and artillery, while the British warships cooperated with the land forces. The Germans are reported as falling back in confusion on Ostend and troops from all over the west of Belgium have been hurried to Newport. "The Germans have received the greatest surprise of the war. A despatch from Ghent says that the result of this fighting has caused anxiety among the German officers, one of whom, a general, committed suicide. Festivities announced to celebrate German successes were suddenly cancelled yesterday."

OFFICIAL GERMAN REPORT OF BLOWING UP OF JAPANESE CRUISER

PEKING, Oct. 21.—An official German report on the blowing up of the Japanese cruiser Takachiho on the night of Oct. 17, sets forth that the German torpedo boat S-90 went to sea with the intention of attacking a Japanese cruiser in the Yellow sea. She had to content herself with the Takachiho. "As soon as this vessel had been disposed of the S-90 attempted to escape. It was found, however, that this movement could not be carried out successfully, and she was run on the beach after which the cruiser escaped ashore. "The Japaneselegation here says that the work of mounting the siege guns before Tsing Tau has not yet been completed and that the bombardment of Tsing Tau probably will be delayed for several weeks.

It has been rumored that Namur has been occupied by the allies, but this report is entirely without confirmation and is not believed here to be probable. A despatch from Copenhagen says the last words of the late King Charles of Rumania were: "Save the fatherland, but do not shed blood."

SON OF GEN. VON MOLTKE RUINED BY FRENCH ARMY CORPS

FURIOUS BATTLE IN THE NORTH CONTINUES

French Say Germans are Fighting to the Limit of Their Energy—Desperate Fighting Around Lille—Barbed Wire Halts Allies

PARIS, Oct. 21.—The outcome of the battle in the north, according to the judgment of observers in Paris, still remained undecided this morning. The furious contest in this part of Belgium and France is regarded here as now having reached its height. The Germans who at first apparently yielded to the offensive of the allies are now forcing to the maximum the lines of the French and English. In this they have been assisted by reinforcements drawn from Belgium. The attacks of the allies, which have been accompanied by progress at various points, have been followed by spirited counter attacks on the part of the Germans who in the opinion of the French are fighting to the limit of their energy. Around Lille and in the thickly populated districts where the fighting has been from house to house the operations are difficult and progress has been slow, especially in the face of the barbed wire defenses put up by the Germans. The allies, however, apparently are fighting with the greatest ardor and determination to take the important city of Lille in spite of the extraordinary resistance of the enemy. The barbed wire obstructions have proved a serious obstacle to the allied advance and numerous means of surmounting them have been considered. It is realized here that it may be necessary to make sacrifices to this end, and it has been suggested that the men selected for the task be armed, among other things with bucklers such as were used successfully in attacking the notorious automobile bandits of Paris in their refuge in the suburbs of the city.

TWO TRANSFERS IN CHICAGO DETECTIVE BUREAU, TO AID INQUIRIES

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Capt. John J. Halpin, chief of the detective bureau, and Lieut. John H. Tobin, second in command, were removed from this branch of police work yesterday by Mayor Harrison and sent to outlying police stations. The transfer, Mayor Harrison said, was temporary and in order to facilitate investigation into charges of illegal relations between members of the detective force and certain criminals. The transfer followed shortly after Macloy Hayne, state attorney, raided the office of the detective bureau and took away two trunk loads of records. Many of these records were secrets of the department. It was said that notes of prisoners who had not been booked, but released on police order, were expected to show collusion between thieves and certain detectives. Other notes were expected to show that unfaithful citizens who reported robberies were given little encouragement by the department to press their claims.

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—At the hearing held in Boston yesterday by the commission to inquire into the subject of regulating and taxing signs, Secretary S. E. Sherman of the chamber of commerce, took the position that electrical signs and poster advertising had vested rights, being located on private property and were entitled to the protection of the law the same as any other property, and by reason thereof should be subject to be taxed on the basis of their value, the same as other property, and if made to pay a tax, the enforced payment thereof might work to eliminate some of the worst features of this class of advertising.

Hynes held a conference with Engineer Burroughs of the Boston & Maine railroad this morning in relation to the re-location of tracks in Tilden street. ## CABINET MEETING

European Situation Not Taken Up and Colorado Strike and Mexico Only Touched Upon WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—President Wilson's cabinet met yesterday in what probably will be the last regular meeting for several weeks. After the adjournment of congress most of the members will leave Washington to make campaign speeches and will not return until shortly before election. The president expects to remain in Washington after his trip to Pittsburgh Saturday, but may go to Cornish, N. H., for two or three days. Sec. Bryan was absent from the meeting today and the European situation was not taken up. It was said by cabinet members that the Colorado coal strike and the Mexican situation were touched on only briefly and that nothing was decided.

Germans Advance in Russian Poland—French War Office Says Attacks of the Germans at Nieuport, Dixmude and La Basse Were Repulsed—Przemysl in Possession of Austro-German Forces—Germans Push Plans for Great Aerial Campaign—Revolution in Portugal—Naval Battle Off Prussian Coast—Fighting for Possession of Coast in North of France Continues—Turkey's Attitude Matter of Concern to All Belligerents—Warsaw Threatened

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The German cruiser Emden has again been sinking British steamers, this time at a point 160 miles southwest of Cochin, British India, according to a report received by the admiralty from Colombo. She has sent to the bottom the British steamers Chilkana, Trolley Benmore and Clan Grant and the dredger Penrith, bound for Tasmania. The British steamer Exford was captured by the Emden.

FEATURES OF TODAY'S WAR NEWS IN BRIEF FORM

Attacks and counter-attacks for possession of the sea coast in the extreme north of France continue without decisive results.

Only one official statement—that from Paris—had come through early this afternoon. It threw little light on the situation, being brief and referring to events of yesterday.

The attacks of the Germans, especially severe at Nieuport, Dixmude and La Basse Tuesday, were repulsed, says the French war office. There was no noteworthy change elsewhere on the battlefield. News despatches indicate the sharpest fighting in the vicinity of Lille with a renewal of activity at vital points all along the line.

Counter claims regarding the situation in the east leave much to speculation.

There appears, however, little doubt that the German advance in Russian Poland has been so successful that Warsaw is seriously threatened. Przemysl in Galicia remains in possession of the Austro-German forces. There has been a renewal of activity in eastern Prussia without definite result. A statement from Vienna issued yesterday says that the fighting in Central Galicia has become more severe and that the Austrian attacks are progressing.

A news despatch from Copenhagen says that German torpedo boats have been engaged with the enemy in the Battle off the Prussian coast. No details were given.

Albania looms again as a possible influence upon the attitude of Italy towards the war. The Italian government today denied that Italian troops had occupied Avlona, which has been threatened by insurgents since the abdication of Prince William of Wied.

At the same time the Giornale D'Italia of Rome declares that there is a state of anarchy at Avlona, intimates that Greece is taking advantage of the disturbed conditions and declares that the Italian government has notified the powers that it will not tolerate a violation of the integrity of Albania.

Rome reports unofficially that the Anglo-French fleet is still bombarding Cattaro, Dalmatia.

Turkey's attitude is a matter of concern to all the belligerents. The Sublime Porte is said to have forbidden warships to enter the gulf of Smyrna. The inhabitants of Smyrna recently were said to have been in great fear of a naval attack.

Athenian despatch says that two submarines and some aeroplanes are being shipped to Constantinople through Bulgaria. A few days ago a large quantity of munitions of war consigned to Turkey by rail were held up in Bulgaria.

There are further rumors of a German intention to begin a great aerial campaign. Following reports that airships were being constructed at Brussels and Antwerp come rumors of similar buildings under way at Tondern, in Schleswig and at Rostock.

The German government has informed Washington it has no objection to the plan to send foodstuffs to Belgian non-combatants.

Thousands of Belgians who fled into Holland are returning to their homes. There are, however, 100,000 Belgians in England and more on their way there. Preparations to give employment to these latter are being made.

A revolutionary outbreak in Portugal is reported. Beyond the statement that the movement was suppressed few details are given in a message from Lisbon. It is probable that the royalists have solved the opportunity afforded by the departure of a large part of the army for Portuguese troops.

A wireless report to Sayville, from Berlin says that the military expert of the Kewitz Zeitung estimates the losses of the French, the British, the Russians and the Belgians in killed, wounded and prisoners at least 750,000 men.

FRENCH MAKING PROGRESS ON RIGHT BANK OF RIVER MEUSE

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The Paris correspondent of Reuters Telegram company says the latest information from the front indicates that the French are making marked progress on the right bank of the river Meuse and that the great battle raging in the north is as yet without definite result.

FIGHTING GOING ON SINCE OCT. 10, WEST OF LILLE—ALLIES REPULSED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The German embassy today announced receipt of the following wireless from Berlin: "Official headquarters report Oct. 20 that the German troops advancing along the coast from Ostend met hostile forces near Nieuport on the Yser. Fighting has been going on since October 18 west of Lille; the attacks of the enemy on Oct. 19 were repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy. From Russia there is no important news."

RUSSIANS CAPTURE A GERMAN PRINCE—ALSO SEIZE HEAVY ARTILLERY

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The correspondent of the Times at Petrograd sends the following:

Private reports received here state that the Russians have captured some heavy artillery near Lyck, East Prussia, and that also on the night of Oct. 18 in the region near Warsaw they took 50 guns and two regimental colors besides a large number of prisoners, including a German prince whose identity has not yet been established.

BERLIN SAYS GERMANS HAVE REPULSED ALLIES AT LILLE

BERLIN, Oct. 21 (via London).—An official announcement given out by the German military headquarters today says:

"Severe fighting continues on the Yser canal. The enemy's artillery was supported from the sea northwest of Nieuport."

"The fighting west of Lille continues. Our troops, taking the offensive, repulsed the enemy at several points."

SAYS GERMAN COMMANDER ADVISES GERMAN CIVILIANS TO LEAVE BRUSSELS

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The Exchange Telegraph Co. has given out a despatch from Amsterdam which says that an arrival in that city from Brussels is authority for the statement that the German military commander in the Belgian capital has placarded the city advising all German civilians to leave within 48 hours.

Third Edition BOYS PLAY "HOOKEY" THEN KILL THEMSELVES

Delbert Woodruff and Lloyd Pierce Commit Suicide in Fear of Punishment—Bodies Found Side by Side in Front of Pierce Boy's Home

FREELAND, Mich., Oct. 21.—Delbert Woodruff and Lloyd Pierce, aged 10 and 12 years, respectively, are dead, having shot themselves last night. It is believed, in fear of punishment for having played "hooky" during the afternoon.

The boys failed to appear at their homes for supper and when inquiries revealed that they had not been at school during the afternoon searching hunting were organized and for three hours men with lanterns patrolled the nearby woods and riverbanks. In the meantime the boys were seen hurrying toward their homes and were informed of the commission their disappearance had caused. Ten minutes later two shots were heard. The lads were found lying side by side in front of the Pierce home. Each had a bullet wound in his forehead and a small revolver clutched in his hand.

What progress, if any, has been made by either side in the vicinity and south of Ostend is not disclosed in the latest Paris official communication, which contented itself by saying that the Belgians are resisting attacks along the Yser.

All reports that the allies had retaken Ostend proved incorrect and not much faith is placed in the despatches saying that they had occupied Bruges.

Available despatches afford no new interpretation of the colossal operations in the east and it may take the coming winter to decide even the preliminary stages of the struggle between the Russians and the Austro-German forces.

Reports of an engagement in the Baltic sea between German torpedo boats and hostile submarines are not confirmed. Neither is the German report that a British submarine has been destroyed in a German bay on the North sea.

GOVERNOR WALSH OUT

FOR THE INITIATIVE
BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Governor Walsh, in his address at the democratic rallies held last night at Lexington, Arlington, Winchester and Bedford, declared that the paramount issue in the present campaign is that of the initiative and referendum, otherwise known as "direct legislation."

They are the most sweeping measures for the destruction of corrupt rule and corporate domination—the supreme perils of the life of the government, according to the governor.

Asserting that the total failure of the initiative and referendum is evidence that some powerful hand is behind the legislative curtain and manipulating the affairs of government, Gov. Walsh declared that the initiative and referendum must be established if democracy is to mean anything.

Gov. Walsh's address was in part as follows:

"I do not believe that there is any question before the people of this Commonwealth which is more entitled to a paramount place than the establishment of the initiative and referendum, otherwise known as direct legislation. No government can be truly democratic or truly republican unless adapted to present day conditions. Although other parties have since declared emphatically and enthusiastically for this measure, the democratic party has declared for it as a principle in its party platform in this state as far back as 1856.

"The initiative and referendum have been amply tested and they have proved themselves practical and effective. They are the most sweeping measures immediately obtainable according to the most advanced thinkers in the political world for the destruction of corrupt rule and corporate domination—supreme perils of the life of our government.

"Those who oppose the initiative and referendum should be reminded that it is not intended or contemplated that the principle be extended to every detail of our legislation. It would serve its purpose, namely, of giving the people the last say in vetoing bad laws or instituting good ones, without being actually used in but very few instances.

"The initiative and referendum places the veto power in the hands of the people, the only place for it if democracy is to mean anything."

ABROGATED STATE LAW
HARWICH, Oct. 21.—Samuel W. McCall, republican candidate for governor, attacked Gov. Walsh in his speech here last night. He said the governor had abrogated the statutory provision that members of the legislature may not be appointed to offices that they themselves have created.

Severely Attacks
Mr. McCall said in part: "In Gov. Walsh's speech last Saturday night wherein he detailed the achievements of the party on Beacon Hill during the year I observe that he refrained from offering an explanation for the suspension of the principle of the time-honored law in his reorganization of certain commissions this year.

"The abrogation of that wise provision which has been in our laws for over 50 years and which prevents the appointment of members of the general court during their term to offices which they themselves created is a feature of our state administration so pernicious that it will be difficult to find its parallel.

"If the precedent which was inaugurated this year is to be followed, we may expect in this state conditions of corruption which might easily equal anything New York has ever known.

"I am not at all criticising the character of the men thus appointed, but the principle involved. The separation of the administrative, legislative and judicial branches of our government has been guaranteed by the constitution. That principle has been violated in a way which threatens the independence of the house and senate and is subversive of the cause of good government.

"If elected I promise to resort to no such methods to secure legislation. "The governor at Hyde Park Monday directed attention to a bill which he had signed amending our municipal ownership law by authorizing the gas and electric light commission to fix the price to be paid for a plant which a municipality should acquire instead of a commission appointed by the court under the previous law. But if the gas and electric light commission should be put upon a political basis as have some of the other commissions reorganized this year, then the cities and towns might well ask to be delivered from such jurisdiction."

CANDIDATE WALKER

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—What constitutes a true political "boss" and what the attributes are of a political "machine" were told at length last night by the Hon. Joseph Walker, the progressive candidate for governor, in an address at Concord.

Candidate Walker said in part: "The term 'boss' and 'machine' have been so much used and so much abused that they have lost their significance. Yet there is a vast difference between a true political party and a political 'machine'.

"A true political party is an organization with principles and policies designed for the public welfare. Its victory means, not simply the spoils of office, but an opportunity to carry out its policies, according to its principles, and always for the public good, as it conceives the public good.

"A political 'machine' is a faction or group of men within a political party which has taken control of that party and diverts it from its public purpose to private ends—to the service of special interests by whom the 'machine' is supported, or to the plunder of the public treasury for the benefit of its members. It is the alliance between corrupt business and corrupt politics. A political party easily degenerates into a political 'machine,' but a 'machine' seldom rises to the true dignity of a political party.

"Now our great state leader, Chas. Sumner Bird, and our great national leader, Theodore Roosevelt, are sometimes called 'bosses' by our opponents and our organization is called a 'machine.' Is this true? If the progressive leaders ever divert the progressive party from the true service of the public, if they ever are false to the great principles and policies of the progressive party, if they ever are subservient to private and special interests, then, and not till then, may they justly be termed 'bosses.'

"A political party if it is to be effective must have an organization, it must have leadership, it must have loyalty in its leaders. A political party is not dominated by a 'machine' merely because it is thoroughly organized. It is not the organization but the use to which an organization is put which constitutes the difference between a true political party and a political 'machine.'"

OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT

If you enjoy a good laugh do not miss Jas. P. Lee in "Safety First" at the Opera House tonight. It contains the jolliest, heartiest humor conceivable, and is one of the biggest laughing hits of the season. The whole idea of "Safety First" is funny and the author has developed it with consummate skill, until the wonder is that so much fun could have been put in one play, fun and laughter that tumble over each other all the way through. To start with there is a clever play, not a mere hint of a plot with a lot of far fetched stuff thrown in to make laughs. But a really entertaining story with actual dramatic strength. There are real prisoners in "Safety First" and their tremendous funny adventures might reasonably happen, which makes it the more gleeful.

As an extra and added feature "Country Store" is to be repeated tonight, and all those who feel at all lucky should not miss this chance to get a present, as nothing is given.

BRONCHIAL COUGHS

When the bronchial tubes are affected with that weakening tickling cough, they need immediate and sensible treatment. The breath seems shorter because of mucous obstructions; usually fever is present and your head aches with every cough. Your chest aches and the inflammation often spreads to the lungs.

The foot-rotic that has proven its worth for forty years—is Scott's Emulsion. It drives out the cold, and checks the cough by aiding the healing process of the inflamed membranes.

If you are troubled with bronchitis or know an afflicted friend, always remember that Scott's Emulsion builds strength while relieving the trouble.

H. F. KELTH'S THEATRE

Join the crowd and visit Kelth's this week, for one of the finest bills of the season is being put forward there. Incidentally Madden & Fitzpatrick, with their inimitable little play, "The Turning of the Tide," are also showing. Kelth's theatre is in one of the most interesting places in the city, and the musical education. Their new play masks, under such comedy, a perfect gem of an idea and the gentle never fails to cause a very high grade. The little woman with the big voice is still capable of causing lovers of comedy to cut loose and laugh to their hearts' content. Another splendid piece of entertainment is offered by Frankie Fay and the Four Fox Sisters. It is all comedy and singing and dancing, and excellent dancing. Chauncey Monroe & Co., in a farce, "A Business Proposal," is pleasing, and their acts on the bill are: Marguerite & Huxley, Beatrice & Hunter, Mr. Quick and the Heart-Song News Pictorial. Seats may be obtained in advance at the box office. Phone 23.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Founded upon a host of facts, told in a clear, convincing manner and superbly mounted is "Little Last Sister," the present attraction in which the members of the stock company are being seen this week at the Merrimack Square Theatre. It is one of the most interesting of plays and so far has been endorsed by all who have witnessed this exposure of the great white slave evil. It is being given afternoon and evening this week and starting next Monday "The Blindness of Virtue" will be the offering. This is one of the best of Cassius M. Hamilton's greatest successes, and will incidentally serve to introduce Miss Frances Shannon, the new leading lady. Seats are now on sale for all performances, box office phone 2553 and the subscription list remains open for the convenience of patrons wishing the same seat every week.

THEATRE VOYONS

For the first part of this week the Voyons has secured all the favorites in photo plays, such as Arthur Johnson, Little Bridge, Alire Joyce, Tom Moore and Mary Pickford in the following program: "An Affair of Honor," "The Informant," "The Informant," "Fisherman Kate" and "Pathe Daily News showing the havoc a fire works explosion wrought on several houses, and many others."

THE OWL THEATRE

for this week's program at the Owl is "The Brute," a great and vital drama, portraying the world-old conflict between the sexes. Malcolm Williams, one of America's greatest character actors is seen in the leading role of Donald Rogers "the brute," who finally conquers over his wife's willfulness and mercenary ways, by exerting his full physical strength.

"The Brute," is a self-made man, wrapped up in his work, but loving his pretty and delicate wife, and his little son, Robbie, with all the ardor of his great nature. He has no time to cultivate the niceties of life, and his rugged exterior and lack of social grace often annoys his wife, who loves luxury and secretly covets the wealth and position her hard-working husband is unable to give her. An old sailor, now a rich man comes across their path. The half promises to share with him the sailor's riches and to tell his belongings and is stricken by death on his way back, leaving his entire fortune to her. The wife is crushed with remorse and realizes that her fear of her husband's discovery, is greater than the sorrow she feels for the dead man. She then realizes her love for her husband. Succumbing events are highly dramatic, how she accepts the fortune he has acquired, how the husband eventually discovers the truth, exerts his supremacy and conquers her are vividly portrayed and the finale is most exciting. The feature is in four acts, and five other regular plays have also been booked. "Her Mother's Neck," "The One Who Cared" and "High Spots on Broadway." A Keystone are specially worthy of mention on the regular program.

THE RABBIT'S FOOT

BY GWEN SEARS

ABOUT HOUSEWORK

Perhaps there is no more beneficial exercise for the average woman than housework. Sweeping especially is as primitive towards beauty and health as a game of tennis. Every muscle of the body is brought out in play.

Perhaps there is no more beneficial exercise than sweeping which brings every muscle of the body into play, but sweeping is a strenuous and fatiguing exercise and until one is used to it a very little sweeping will tire one out.

Scrubbing keeps the figure supple and slender. Only a slipshod woman can scrub comfortably and the woman who scrubs much usually keeps slim and active. But be sure, while scrubbing, to keep the back straight.

To bend from hips rather than waist; and, also, I beg of you, be sure to wear rubber gloves if you value your hands.

Dusting is an admirable exercise which every woman may take advantage of, but the chief benefits of dusting come from the reaching and bending over necessary to get at mantels, high book shelves, and the tops of tables and chairs.

Dusting will not do you much good if you duck at the chair legs with the duster. Every chair should be turned about and dusted in every part, and if you have to stoop or even kneel down to dust the shelves under the table or the carved legs of the piano, so much the better—from the standpoint of exercise.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scourge. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a thinning and itching of the scalp, which, if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. Leo Wilcox, a popular employee of the Helms Electric Co., is said to be making preparations for the coming annual event to be held under the auspices of the Paragon club.

John Davine, head clerk at the A. & P. store in Merrimack street, came within an ace of winning the beautiful prize offered by the enterprising manager, Mr. Barstow. Better luck next time, John.

Now that baseball has been cast to the winds, we wonder what sport Agent Walker of the Lawrence Manufacturing company will pick out for his boys. Some very good timber is available for a fast basketball team.

Ed. Looney, the athlete whom the Old Timer refers to quite frequently in his Quarter Century articles, is employed as a machinist at the Charlestown Navy Yard. He is the man who trained Wrenn in his endurance contest this summer and has handled many other athletes of note. He will have Wrenn and Moloney under his wing next year.

Chester Hartigan, of the Federal shoe company, by his playing in the basketball game between Mike Wrenn's team of glantz and a picked team of Y. M. C. A. athletes, deserves a place in the limelight once more. The game was regularly scheduled for last night but Chester had an engagement, hence the change. But, be that as it may, Chester scored 12 hard baskets from the floor, and the ball wasn't handed to him by the opposing players either. Far be it from such. Every player on the opposing team was mighty envious of Chester's athletic ability and went into the fray with the determination to keep him under surveillance at all times. But it couldn't be done and to the Federal all around athlete belongs all the credit of the victory.

Woolsorters Union

A very largely attended and enthusiastic meeting was held last night by the Woolsorters union in the union headquarters in Odd Fellows building. Business of considerable importance was transacted and three propositions were received and favorably acted upon. Several of the members made interesting remarks on the good of the union which proved very instructive. The secretary's report showed the union to be in an excellent financial condition.

Carpenters Union

Carpenters union, local 45, held its regular meeting last night in Carpenters hall in the Bunels building. Treasurer B. J. Golden presided. A list of very important business was transacted and several committee reports were read and accepted. Two new members were admitted and five applications for membership received. These applications were referred to the investigating committee, and will be acted upon at the meeting to be held next Tuesday evening. President Golden, Business Agent Michael A. Lee, as well as many of the members, spoke on the good of the union, and their interesting remarks were listened to attentively. The secretary's report showed the financial and numerical condition of the union to be progressing. Although the present time is very slack in the building trades, the members of the union are well employed.

Unemployed in England

The textile trade unions in England, which of late have been dispensing large sums of money weekly to unemployed members, are seeking help from the government with regards to payment of such funds. A deputation of textile operatives lately waited upon the president of the board of trade in order to lay the case of the operatives before him. Earlier in the day the question was put to the prime minister of the house of commons, asking whether the government was in a position to say what proposals, if any, they had made for assisting the textile industry, to overcome the difficulties arising out of the war, which has resulted in an increase in unemployment. It was announced that if the trades unions would increase their unemployment contributions, the government would supplement such payments in order to spread unemployment benefits over a longer period.

Help Wanted!

Strange to relate, but nevertheless true, is the fact that a certain prominent young man, an employee of the A. G. Pollard company, is being set forth by his friends as the champion baby pacifier of New England. It seems that nearly every fond parent who enters this big department store leaves "baby" in his department with the parting admonition of "now baby, be good while mamma's away; she'll be right back." But mamma generally says too long and baby gets impatient with the result that bugle calls are heard from one end of the store to the other. The baby pacifier, all ways on the job, talks to him, gets him things to play with, and applies other methods to quiet him, and in the end, the disguised laughter usually ceases. But it is a thankless job. Yesterday afternoon, a fond mother came into the store and entrusted her young one to the care of this young clerk, while she journeyed to some other department to make a purchase. In the meantime, a customer came into the store and proceeded to wait on her. He had just completed the sale, when baby, who must have got impatient at nobody noticing him, tried to get out of the carriage and fell out. Then, emitted cries and wails that startled nearly everybody in the store. The young man rushed over and picked baby up, cuddled him over and in a very short time baby was fast asleep. At this moment, the mother came over, and seeing the child in the clerk's arms, got quite excited and what she said to him put him in a very embarrassing situation, for there were many clerks and customers within hearing. The clerk tried to explain how the child fell out, etc., but to no avail and the parent tucked the child in the carriage and proceeded out through the door, without saying a word of thanks. Such is life.

Muddling the Cotton Problem

The Journal of Commerce of New York has the following to say, editorially, of the problem of handling the cotton situation:

No countenance whatever should be given to any of the schemes for financing the cotton crop or any other crop with government funds, government currency or government credit. Congressman Henry has bought out a new plan for disposing of "United States notes" to the amount of $250,000,000, or "so much thereof as may be necessary," by banks in states producing cotton or cotton products at a rate not exceeding four per cent upon security of cotton or tobacco produced this year. It is not worth while to go into further details regarding any of the wild schemes of which this is among the worst. We have already done that to a sufficient extent, and a quickness should be put upon them all at the first opportunity by decisive action. Mr. Henry has written a letter to Secretary McAdoo on this question of financing the cotton crop by such methods, which can hardly be characterized as otherwise than impertinent. It is certainly not calculated to help the cause of the cotton grower or benefit the party responsible for legislation, so largely represented from the cotton states. The real leaders of that party cannot afford to countenance any unsound or dangerous position of the government or undermining the currency system. An attempt has been made to fix a time in the senate for a vote on the administration revenue bill, which has already passed the house, and it is said that a group of southern senators will attempt to have some measure for the relief of the cotton situation by government action appended to it as an amendment. As a time for taking a vote can be fixed only by unanimous consent, the best course for removing the threatened obstruction is to allow the amendment to be offered and vote it down overwhelmingly, and so clear the decks of congress once for all of such perilous stuff. It should be understood that such efforts are useless as well as foolish, and the administration only needs to take an unequivocal stand to have it so understood. Nothing could be more calculated to discredit it than to show a weak toleration for such schemes.

Nobody will deny that the cotton producers and the dealers in that staple are put in a hard position by the effects of the war in Europe and are entitled to every reasonable consideration. It is not the only business interest that is suffering, but it is made exceptional by the extent to which a number of states are dependent upon the cotton crop, the importance of cotton as an article of export and as a material of manufacturing industry both at home and abroad, and the great number of people affected by the interruption of trade in both the material and the manufactured goods. It is a peculiar emergency and one difficult to deal with so as to minimize the inevitable losses; but it must be dealt with in a business-like way or much greater harm will be done than will be prevented. The cotton business cannot be expected to be saved from loss by inflicting greater losses upon other business and imperiling that of the whole country just at a time when general conditions are critical and the utmost caution is necessary to avoid disastrous mistakes.

The special misfortune of the cotton situation is that a year's supply has been already produced to meet a normal demand for a year, while a war between the most important nations to be supplied has suddenly cut off a very large proportion of the demand, leaving a great surplus which cannot be disposed of at once without a ruinous sacrifice for those who have provided it. The problem is to provide some means for holding this surplus from the market and carrying it along until the best can be done with it in meeting such demand for actual consumption as exists and such as will come as industry and trade recover ground. It cannot be done without expense and loss and this should be lessened by wide distribution so far as possible among those who have an interest to be subserved, but the burden should not be thrown upon the government at the risk of breaking down a system of currency and credit upon the stability of which all the business of the country depends.

The resources and credit which should be called upon to surmount this difficulty and solve the problem are those of the business community concerned and the banking agencies of the country, with such support of government authority as may be legitimately extended, but not by the use of government funds or credit or the Mothers often wonder why their children are not rugged and hardy. In a vast number of cases the trouble is—Worms.

Signs of worms are: Indigestion, variable appetite, craving for sweets, nausea, vomiting, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly, eyes heavy and watery, twitching, eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

Dr. True's Elizer, the 60 years time-tried Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, will expel the worms and restore the vigor to your child. Good for adults also. Discovered by my father over 60 years ago. 35c, 50c and $1.00 at all dealers. Advice free. Special treatment for tapeworms. Send for book.

is not more currency that is needed for this purpose, but a cautious use of business and banking credit on an assured basis of value. An attempt is being made to work out a plan for this without the interposition of congress, but the utmost care should be taken not to restrict the actual sale of cotton more than is necessary by maintaining an artificial price which cannot be justified by any reasonable calculation for the future. It is necessary to hold cotton for which there is no market, but that for which there is a real market should be sold at a price at which the market can take it. Holding the entire stock for an arbitrary price, which might be had if conditions were normal, or which may possibly be obtainable months hence, will be a losing operation in the end on account of the cost of holding and financing that would be involved.

they did not carry the thing too far the police did not interfere. Libbes was the one who had to bear the brunt of the attack, for Morris, the other captive, succeeded in making good his escape. Dressed in feminine attire he was marched down Merrimack street and quickly became the center of attraction for a large crowd. His rendition of "Put Your Arms Around Me," was greatly enjoyed. At city hall he auctioned off the building but as there were no bidders the sale was called off. It will surely be sold next year. In a downtown luncheon he was forced to remain seated in a front window and eat macaroni, much to the enjoyment of his tormentors and the large crowd that gathered around. But the Lowell boy was game and evidently enjoyed the fun as much as his hated rivals.

FIVE HURT WHEN AUTO DROPPED INTO RIVER

BROCKTON, Oct. 21.—An automobile containing six persons plunged down an embankment into Salisbury river near Ellsworth street last night, landing in a pile of boulders. Five occupants were injured, three seriously, an infant escaping. The injured: Miss Rosie Price, aged 18, of 234 Dudley street, Roxbury, fracture of the skull, injury to spine, bruises on body. On dangerous list at Brockton hospital.

Mrs. Goldie Gurin of Malden, fingers in both hands bruised and torn. At Belmont hospital.

Leon Smolensky, 19 Seaver street, Brockton, left hand torn and cut. The car was owned and driven by Leon Smolensky, a merchant. The party was returning from West Hanover and Mr. Smolensky turned from West Elm street into Arlington street, thinking it was Newbury street. Arlington street has a blind ending near the Salisbury river. Mr. Smolensky discovered his mistake too late. In attempting to avoid a barrel fence at the end of the street he turned his big automobile to the side of the street, plowing through underbrush and birch saplings. The momentum of the machine carried it over the river bank and to the nearby dry bottom, 10 feet below.

The auto struck a large boulder and stopped, with the rear high in the air, throwing all the occupants among the rocks. Theodore Dubois and Miss Barrows, residents of Ellsworth street, rushed to the assistance of the victims and by using planks and boards managed to get them to the bank. Miss Price was seen to be in a very serious condition and was at once sent to the Brockton hospital. The others were taken to the home of M. C. Alexander, 21 Mills street, where they were given first aid by several school teachers who live nearby. Later they were sent to the Belmont hospital. Miss Smolensky and Mr. Smolensky were given treatment and sent home. Beatrice Gurin, aged 15 months, daughter of Mrs. Gurin, was in her mother's arms when the accident occurred and was held in the air when Mrs. Gurin landed.

DRIVERS INJURED

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—An automobile was in collision with a two-wheeled dump cart at 6 o'clock last night in front of 43 Jamaica way, Jamaica Plain, resulting in a badly damaged machine and bruised drivers. The auto owned by Horatio Hathaway of Meadowbrook road, Dedham, was operated by Harry J. Shaughnessy of the same address. The dump cart was owned and driven by William P. Maloney, who lives in the rear of 43 Jamaica way, Jamaica Plain. He is 33 years old. Maloney, suffering from bruises, was taken home in a passing auto and there treated by a physician. Shaughnessy, also well shaken up, was treated at a nearby house by another physician.

GERMANS REPULSED SIX MILES FROM OSTEND

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A comparison of the official reports from Paris and Berlin leads to the conclusion that all along the western battle front in France and Belgium, the Germans have resumed the offensive but with their supreme efforts directed against the allies' left.

The news supplementing these official communications, however, indicates that on the left at least the allies are not acting merely on the defensive.

New Bedford believed that the eight hour law for minors under 16 would simply result in throwing all of such young workers out of employment and thus 2500 children would be forced out of work.

The debate lasted over an hour, at the close of which only three delegates besides those from New Bedford sided with the New Bedford senator.

The great turning movement undoubtedly is developing through the corner of Belgium bounded by France and the sea but the public remains in a haze as to whether the turning movement is one on the part of the allies to get around the German right flank or a German operation to envelop the allies' left.

The impression grows that the Germans are determined to add Dukirk to the line of seaports now held along the Belgian coast and the allies are making desperate efforts to halt back the invaders. Late reports through Dutch ters around Lille.

resources declare that the Germans have been repulsed six miles from Ostend, and that guns are now heard near that city.

Other late reports state that the Germans have abandoned Bruges. If these reports are true it would indicate that the allies are meeting with some success in their efforts to recapture the seacoast.

The movements along the coast continue to be more or less in the nature of reconnaissance with the aim of the fighting on the allies' left center.

Y. W. C. A. CONFERENCE

Delegates From Mass., New York and New Jersey Sectional Meet at Local Association Building

Nearly 150 delegates representing 11 Young Women's Christian associations in Massachusetts, New York and New Jersey are today attending a sectional conference of the northeast field committee which is being held at the local association building on John street. The conference opened at 10 o'clock this forenoon and will continue well into the evening, when the delegates from nearby cities will return to their homes while the remainder will stop in Lowell until tomorrow. Miss Elizabeth W. Dodge, chairman of the Northeast field committee, presided at today's session.

The sessions of the conference were open without restriction to anyone in the city and attracted a goodly number of people who wished to become familiar with the aims and methods of the association movement.

The devotional talks at the beginning of the morning and afternoon sessions were given by Miss Harriet Broad, general secretary of the Boston Y. W. C. A. She was followed by Miss Pauline Sage, executive secretary for New England, New York and New Jersey, who last June attended the world's convention of the Y. W. C. A. when 29 different countries sent their representatives to Stockholm, Sweden. An interesting talk on "What the Department of Physical Education Can Do for the Young Women of the City" was given by Miss Amy Morris Homans, head of the Wellesley school of physical education.

At 12 o'clock a luncheon for the out-of-town guests was served in the gymnasium, which was profusely decorated for the occasion. Mrs. F. E. Munn had charge of the catering. This afternoon's program was also very interesting and brought forth several very capable speakers, including Miss Lena Farrar, who took an active part in the recent campaign for $10,000.

SEND PROTEST TO FRANCE

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—(By wireless to Sayville)—According to information given out here today there has been no change in the positions on the wings or in the center theatre of the war.

The imperial government has sent a formal protest to France and to neutral nations concerning alleged violations of the rules of the Geneva convention of the French franc-tireurs (sharpshooters). It is declared in this protest that the French have killed or mutilated wounded German soldiers that they have fired on ambulances filled with wounded and bearing the Red Cross flag, that they have invaded German hospitals, robbed the hospital staff and stolen the hospital equipment, that they have fired on German doctors who were gathering or attending to the wounded, killing some of these medical men and taking others captive and that they have captured a German field clergyman whom they treated as a common criminal.

HIGHLAND CLUB HALL

Social Season Opened Last Night—Exhibition Dance by Larry Connors and Florence Bridgeford

The social season at the Highland club hall was ushered in under most auspicious conditions last evening when the Bostonless Frail held a select dance with a large attendance of young people. The hall, recently renovated, was prettily decorated for the occasion, the first colors hanging from the walls and ceiling, making a very striking appearance.

Of course, dancing was the main feature of the evening.

feature of the evening, the young couples gliding merrily over the polished floor to the strains of music by Devono's orchestra, from 8:30 o'clock until midnight, halting only to be entertained by Mr. Larry Connors and Miss Florence Bridgeford, who gave an excellent exhibition of the modern dances. Although the couple had given an exhibition in Associate hall earlier in the evening and were hurried to the Highland club in an automobile, they danced through the various measures of the one-step, hesitation and newer steps to the delight of the on-lookers and were loudly applauded. The arrangements for the affair were in charge of Percy Carragher and Ernest Bechard.

SEN. DOYLE ATTACKED

New Bedford Senator Condemned by United Textile Workers in Convention at Scranton, Pa.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 21.—After one of the hottest fights ever waged in a textile union convention, in which the New Bedford delegates maintained their position single handed under the most violent attacks, Senator Andrew P. Doyle was condemned by the United Textile Workers here for voting against labor measures in the Massachusetts legislature, and it was voted to send one or more speakers into his district within the next two weeks to oppose him for re-election. The gallant defense of Senator Doyle, led by ex-Senator Ross and John Hoblin, and supported by every other New Bedford delegate, was overwhelmed in a vote of 45 to 13.

The question was brought before the convention by a telegram received from E. S. Allen, president of the Massachusetts State Branch of the American Federation of Labor, reading as follows:

"Greetings and best wishes for the success of your organization. Hope you will take action backing up the Massachusetts State Branch condemnation of Senator Doyle for voting against labor bills last year. We will have speakers in New Bedford urging Doyle's defeat. Hope you will co-operate by sending a speaker next week."

The effect the message had when it was read by President Golden was like striking a match in a barrel of gunpowder. Senator Doyle was described as a "treacherous enemy of labor," as a "hypocrite," and as a "traitor to the cause of trades unionism, seeking his own political advancement in place of the welfare of the workers."

Doyle's Home Supporters

The New Bedford supporters of Senator Doyle declared that the opposition to him is backed primarily on his efforts to repeal the eight-hour law for minors under 16 years of age, and that it was rank injustice to single him out for political damnation for doing what 46 other Massachusetts representatives did, and above all for voting exactly as instructed by his own constituency. This line of defense was unavailing for Mr. Doyle's opponents urged that the New Bedford senator voted last year against five other labor bills endorsed by the Massachusetts state branch of the American Federation of Labor. Also it was argued that Mr. Doyle should have made a conspicuous example of the wrath of labor, for he carries in his pocket a union card and has been recognized as a labor leader. The statement of the New Bedford delegates that the New Bedford Textile council supported Mr. Doyle in his position on the eight-hour law served merely to turn the denunciation for a few moments from Mr. Doyle personally to the New Bedford textile unions in general, and it was actually moved that the New Bedford Textile council be included in the condemnation.

"This motion would have been easily carried had it not been said that it would tend to save Mr. Doyle, and so it was withdrawn."

New Bedford Assailed

Incidentally the New Bedford Textile council was laudably criticized for allowing the weavers to send delegates to the meeting. Although the weavers are not allied with the American Federation of Labor.

Ross in the Defense

If ex-Senator Ross had his way the anti-Doyle telegram would not have been brought in to the convention at all, for learning about it in advance of this morning's session he tried to induce President Golden to suppress it. President Golden declined to do this, however, saying that it was actually addressed to the convention, although it had come to him personally, and that he could not properly refuse to lay it before the delegates.

Ex-Senator Ross jumped to his feet the instant it was read and moved that the part of the telegram which referred to Senator Doyle be laid on the table, "as it had no place in the convention." To this Delegate Walker of Cohasset objected, saying that as Mr. Doyle has voted against labor matters in the Massachusetts legislature he ought to be treated to the widest publicity possible. To this ex-Senator Ross replied that the principal objection to Senator Doyle was his vote in favor of repealing the minors' eight-hour law, and that this should be overlooked in view of the fact that the New Bedford Textile council had specifically instructed him to vote that way and in general Senator Doyle's record was absolutely in accordance with the wishes of the labor unions.

Torrents of Denunciation

Then was let loose the torrents of scathing denunciation and bitter condemnation in which Senator Doyle was represented to be an even more dangerous foe to labor than the avowed defenders of employers' interests and corporate privilege. Delegate Fleming of Holyoke declared that the New Bedford senator secures a large part of his backing from the liquor interests of the city with whom he works "hand and glove."

He said that the Central Labor union of New Bedford had formerly favored the minors' eight-hour law, but had been induced by sinister influences to reverse its position and come to the aid of this politician.

Ex-Senator Ross declared that it was obviously impossible to pass judgment on the labor record of every state senator in every state in the union and if this were done it was unjust to pick out one senator in one state and make him the object of attack. He said that the people in

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Once again the city of Boston has to go on the hunt for a site for the proposed pumping station to be operated in connection with the high-pressure water service. Mayor Curley, by long-distance telephone, heard from Col. Jadwin at Washington that the board of engineers had reported to the war department at Washington recommending that the application of the city of Boston for privilege to erect the pumping station at Fort Point Channel be rejected.

Col. Jadwin said that the city had the right of appeal, but the mayor decided that it would not be worth the trouble, as the end undoubtedly would be the same.

The mayor is now considering a site at the water's edge just below the Charlestown bridge north. It is what is known as the Goodnow wharf. The Fort Point channel site, the mayor considered an ideal one for safety. The other, he says, is less safe, but good. The Fort Point channel site is the third or fourth to be abandoned because of objections.

Mayor Curley announced yesterday that he had approved a contract to furnish Faneuil hall with heat for the next five years, the terms being $3000 for the first year and $2000 for each of the other four. The old price for heating was $4000 annually.

THE MAN IN THE MOON

The Lowell Choral society met last evening and the meeting was largely attended. The successes accompanying its last season's work no doubt mean still greater success for the season that is just beginning. Mr. Hood again will be its conductor and it will take up Mendelssohn's oratorio of Elijah. This great work has been given by local choruses with more or less efficiency; but it can be said with confidence that the present chorus will give its grand and beautiful choruses a presentation never before heard in Lowell. The society will present the best soloists obtainable. The society's friends, and they comprise the entire musical public of Lowell and suburban towns, will look forward to the first concert with great interest, and the only disappointment many friends will experience will be due to the fact that Lowell has no auditorium big enough to hold them all, or all who wish to attend the first concert. Spending a few days recently in the town of Wilton, N. H., I had the pleasure of attending a concert given by a number of young men from Lowell in the hall at the Center. It was the Haydn male quartet and the Pawtucket trio; and they furnished an entertainment that was interesting and artistic. Their success can be measured when the audience unanimously declared it the best thing of its kind that ever Wilton heard. I was proud myself of their work and added my congratulations to the general fund. As country people have no half-way methods in showing their appreciation when once they get convinced, it is safe to say that should the quartet and trio visit Wilton again the whole country side would be on hand to welcome them. The members of the Haydn male quartet are Harry Patten, Carl Mason, Don Hanson, and Guy Johnson, while the trio members are Leo Blaissonette, violin, Richard Mason, cello, and Carl Mason, piano. Perhaps the above may interest their Lowell friends.

From the Kaiser

The Kaiser writes me that he is still in the ring and is fit for a finish fight. He hopes to land his knockout most any old time. He tells me not to believe what I read about German reverses for there have been none—or nearly none. He says he has J. Bull scared and that he doesn't blame him, for Bill intends to land an army of half a million men before long on John's shores and will then proceed to shoot up the country. With his Zepplins above and his submarines under the waters of the English channel he intends to keep British men-of-war away, thus rendering the invasion of England a sort of excursion or holiday affair. Bill promises to keep me informed of what happens and what doesn't happen. I mention this so that all who want reliable war news will be able to find such in The Sun at least once a week—that is if friend Bill makes good his promise.

Building a Lawn

a house in the Highlands. It is now engaged in building a lawn to go with the house and preferring the advice of his friends than to be bossed by a landscape gardener, has been over-loaded with that advice. It is of such a nature that he finds the progress he makes is of a backward nature. It is safe to say that most of these friends haven't had any practical experience in lawn making, yet some take it upon themselves to mail my friend literature upon the subject. They imagine they are having lots of fun with him, but he smiles grimly and works on for he intends to show these dear friends a lawn that is a lawn, for it is needless to say he threw all the advice he got to the winds long ago. You would have done the same.

Should Not Go Uncensored

Although we know that most of Europe is at war and folks over there are each other's throats, is it possible that the war spirit in some degree has reached our own shores, and even penetrated the sacred precincts of our municipal building? That an edifice dedicated to the peaceful pursuits of business and governmental dignity and decorum should become the scene of Billingsgate-like invective, assaults, unparliamentary or other conduct open to criticism is a great pity and will-nigh unbelievable. Yet it is broadly stated that scenes have been recently enacted there which shouldn't be permitted to pass uncensored. It certainly looks as though all decent officials should take no half-way games and the reputation of the city which they serve. The policy of "hushing up" may be well at times; but practiced too much is bound to react eventually. It is up to some gentlemen to act.

The Belvidere Tragedy

Concerning that tragedy over in Belvidere a few weeks ago little or nothing is said nowadays. The silence is such as to suggest that our clutches of the police department are either running the murderer to earth, or have given up the case entirely. Still, if one is being persistently engaged in, all good citizens of Lowell fervently hope it may be successful. It is easy for imaginary Sherlock Holmes to sit back and criticize police inspectors of course. There's no doubt but that any officer of the police force would gladly forfeit a month's pay to catch the murderer who may be still walking the streets of Lowell. It would be the best of news to learn of his capture, not only for the sake of justice, but for the good name of our city, where too many capital crimes have been committed with the perpetrators thereof still unapprehended.

The Welcome Rain

The rain which began to fall Thursday night was most welcome to the parched earth. The farmer whose wells were empty and whose brooks were dry hailed it with joy, and he hopes now that the spell is broken, that we may have two weeks of it. The traveler along the highways can journey in comfort without being coated and blinded with dust as he goes. Those local farmers who have been fighting fires for days and nights, going long without rest or food, can get relief and enjoy once more a period of much needed rest. All of us, whatever our condition, welcome the break of the long drought and feel satisfied to let it rain as long as it will. October, scarcely two-thirds gone, has given us a series of beautiful days and permitted the world's series to be pulled off under ideal weather conditions. She afforded us delight in her dress of variegated hues, nor less to see her half-orbed moon descend the sloping zodiac and red Orion climb the eastern skies. She has given us the nights in which to hunt the moon and may give us more I hope. She has given us the pleasure of sitting before the open fireplace and enjoying the juice of the apples and the meat of the nuts that grow in her woods. She contributes to the good cheer which envelops all and is heard in every jest, every laugh and every tale she tells the harvest that nourishes and sustains the nation—this year greater than ever. She gives us rain and going so, sacrifices her outward beauty, yet lifts the curtain and gives us a day of sunshine and warmth as if in token of her love, then closes in and again rains.

In the days remaining she will give much to those of observant eye and responsive heart. October days, that leave its strange "foreshades" of things ideal everywhere?"

SCORES LEGISLATURE

Bird Declares Stand-Patters in Session Killed Bill to Allow Cities to Sell Coal

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Charles Sumner Bird, speaking last night at Fall River for the candidates on the progressive state ticket, attacked the 1914 legislature as a stand-pat one, and charged that it denied the cities and towns of the state the right to sell coal and ice.

If the cities and towns sold coal, he declared, there ought to be saved to the people of the state an amount equal to the annual cost of the entire state government. "If the cities and towns sold ice he said the people of the state would save several millions dollars annually."

Mr. Bird accused the stand-pat republicans and democrats of killing the bill that would give the people this right. At the conclusion of his remarks he asked, "Does Mr. McCall favor such legislation? Let him tell the people where he stands upon this measure."

WILL NOT RAISE HOGS?

There's Wealth for the Farmer in the Business, E. B. Cash Declares at Packers' Convention

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Wealth will come more quickly to the man who embarks in the business of raising hogs than any other branch of farming he may choose, E. B. Cash of St. Louis yesterday made this assertion before 700 members of the American Meat Packers' association attending the ninth annual convention here.

There is more money in raising hogs than in other branches of farming, Mr. Cash said, because they can be fed cheaply and the demand in the markets of the world is daily increasing and will continue to increase. High prices, he asserted, would prevail indefinitely.

Hog cholera, which in 1912 caused a loss of $65,000,000 to the American farmer, has been brought under such control that soon the farmers will have only themselves to blame if they suffer great losses from the disease. Dr. T. G. Houck of the United States bureau of animal industry declared,

EVERY DAY ETIQUETTE

"Bobbie is awfully jealous when any of the other boys call," sighed young Alice. "I wish he could realize that I want other friends."

"It is very foolish for any girl to let a man find out whether or not she should have other men friends. One should cultivate as many desirable friends as possible, for in this way only is a girl able to judge the different types of men. When she knows a number of men she is better able to decide the all-important question of marriage, having learned the qualities of the various associates. Of course, when a girl is engaged to marry, it is only natural that she would prefer to share the bulk of her time with her fiancé," answered her aunt.

"When I am out walking with one girl or riding in the street car with her and another girl comes up to us, should I introduce her to my friend?" asked Helen, the other day of her mother.

"If you hold a conversation with the girl you should most certainly introduce her to your friends. If the girl merely stops to exchange greetings or to give you an important piece of news and is evidently in a great hurry to move on, there would be little opportunity to make the introduction. When it is convenient, it is usually best to introduce your friends," replied her mother.

"Please enumerate the various times a man should lift his hat?" asked John, who had just arrived at the age of 13 and felt the responsibility of courteous manhood seriously.

"A man must raise his hat under the following circumstances: When he acknowledges a woman's bow; when recognizing clergymen or distinguished or elderly gentlemen of his acquaintance; when walking with a woman and he salutes his friends or she salutes her friends; whether they are known to him or not; when he passes a man friend who is accompanied by a woman; when offering his seat to a woman in a public conveyance; when drawing to one side in a narrow way to allow her free passage; when giving any information she may ask; when restoring anything she may have dropped; when doing her some slight service; and when a woman under his escort receives some courtesy from a stranger," replied his father.

"What should be said when someone says 'I am pleased to meet you?' With whom should one shake hands when an introduction is made?" asked Katherine returning from a walk.

"It is sufficient to say, 'Thank you, I am sure the pleasure is mutual.' A woman is at liberty to take the initiative in shaking hands with a man. She may also do so with a woman, unless the woman be much older than she or holds some prominent position," replied her mother.

"I have received an invitation to a church wedding. Would it be proper for me to acknowledge this invitation?" asked Marie, puzzled.

"If you are invited to witness the church ceremony only, you need not reply. If the invitation included cards to a reception, you should send your cards to the bride's parents, so that they reach them the day of the ceremony. You need not make any reply at all if you intend to be present at the church, answered her oldest sister.

"When one has an electric toaster in it proper to have it on the table when the guests are present?" asked elderly Mrs. Brown.

VOGEL'S DEATH NATURAL

AUTOPSY SHOWS THAT FORMER PARTNER OF SIEGEL HAD HEART TROUBLE AND BRIGHT'S DISEASE

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—An autopsy to determine the cause of the sudden death in the Hotel Hamilton Monday night of Frank E. Vogel, former partner of Henry Siegel and with him made defendant in 14 indictments arising out of the failure of the Henry Siegel & Co. Bank, was held yesterday at the orders of Coroner Hollister. The family of the dead man concurred in the coroner's desire to clear up the cause of Vogel's death, feeling as they did that rumors of suicide had been set at rest by the revelation of natural causes for the death.

Coroner Physician Lohan announced at the end of the autopsy that heart trouble, complicated by bright's disease, had been the cause of Vogel's death.

FITCHBURG, Oct. 21.—The mills of the Parkhill company, which furnish employment when running full to some 3500 hands, will be operated four days each week for the present, according to notices posted yesterday in the mills of the company. The operatives will work 10 hours on each of the four days. The regular schedule calls for 54 hours a week.

Russell B. Lowe, president of the company, said yesterday afternoon that the mills would not be operated on full time until the cotton market was better. Mr. Lowe said that the present tariff undoubtedly affected the business to some extent.

What Happened to the Cats?

Not long ago the U. S. Gov't made some experiments to determine the poisoning qualities of caffeine (the drug in coffee).

Twenty-seven healthy cats were given an average dose of 5 4-5 grains of caffeine—about as much of the drug as is contained in 2 cups of coffee.

The Cats All Died!

See Gov't Bulletin No. 148, Bureau of Chemistry.

Of course they were only cats.

But there are plenty of people who dose themselves with enough caffeine every day to kill a cat and Cripple a Man, not at one blow, but by little blows repeated daily.

Of course some systems are strong enough to stand all kinds of abuse, but most systems are not. And when a man or woman observes a growing nervousness or sleeplessness, heart trouble, stomach, bowel or eye disturbance, it is time to quit coffee and turn to a real food-drink, free from the coffee drug, "caffeine."

It is easy to shift from coffee to

Postum is roasted (like coffee) with a bit of wholesome molasses, looks like coffee and has a delightful flavour resembling Old Dutch Java, but is entirely free from the coffee drug, caffeine, or any other drug or harmful substance.

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum which must be boiled. Instant Postum—soluble form—made in the cup instantly with hot water. Grocers sell both kinds and the cost per cup is about the same.

WHY DO YOU VOTE?

One of the very evident things that cannot be repeated too often when speaking of municipal politics is that the citizens of any community get the kind of government that they demand; if the public standard is low, the political standard is correspondingly low; if the type of government is undesirable in any particular, there is danger that, in the aggregate, the voters do not demand other than an undesirable variety of service from their public servants.

To understand this matter fully and to plan intelligently for better conditions, one must realize that it is the individual vote that counts. The political voice of a city is the sum of individual preferences. The man who would reform the public affairs of his city must devote as much attention, if not more, to the vote of the man on the street as to the vote of the theorist who sits in his office and plans for better things. It is not encouraging for the man of affairs who regards municipal government as a serious problem to see it made the sport of political conjurers and self-seekers aided by an unthinking or misled public, but it is the duty of each voter nevertheless to use his personal influence in the cause of reform.

If all hypocrisy and pretence were removed before elections and if aspirants to office told the truth as to why they desired political positions, city affairs would be conducted on an altogether different basis. The man who assumes a lofty and disinterested air might then say: "I want to be mayor, or commissioner or other public official because it is a good job; the salary appeals to me; I will have many opportunities to make money indirectly owing to my prominence; I will be able to take care of my friends." Or he might say: "I am anxious to hold public office because I am ambitious and the feeling that my fellow citizens may place confidence in me and give me a position of prominence and trust urges me to appeal for their support." No matter how fine the speeches or how apparently disinterested the sentiments expressed, many among the voting public suspect selfish motives in most municipal campaigns and are swayed accordingly.

Even more important than the real motives of the men who aspire to municipal offices are the motives of the voters generally. Over and over again we have seen men elected to high positions after having manifested every form of personal and official unfitness. Men who have been guilty of downright dishonesty, men who have displayed the grossest incompetence, men who have acted shamefully in their private life and been a fruitful source of scandal, men who have catered to the low element in the public and pandered to every gross passion, men finally who have not shown one redeeming feature as public officials have been re-elected at times with great majorities. Even jail records have proved beneficial to some politicians rather than the contrary. How can one avoid wondering what prompts some men to vote for their choice of political aspirants?

Applied to local conditions, one may be pardoned for asking bluntly: Do the people of Lowell desire good government—and by "good" government is meant honest and efficient government rather than the fake brand of municipal "sanctity" that has been exploited to the disgust of normal-minded people? Do the people want the latest and the best? Do they want Lowell to lag away behind while other cities in the commonwealth are forging to the front? Do they want our city to be branded as residentially undesirable, as industrially crippled or politically hopeless? They do not, most assuredly. Then why have they tolerated conditions for years that are a public disgrace? Why are they tolerating them now?

When you go to the polls in the near future, Mr. Voter of Lowell, what will decide your vote? Will you mark a cross beside a man's name because, in your opinion, he is the best man for the job, possessing ability or experience or demonstrated sincerity, or will you vote for a man because of some selfish or dishonest or low motive? Remember you owe a duty to your city—the duty of giving it the best in public service. Stand up like a man and do the decent and honorable thing by voting only for men who will not shame the city or prevent its progress by inactivity, lack of ability or lack of initiative. Lowell appeals to every voter to give it clean, competent and co-operative government. Give the only answer possible, if you are a public-spirited citizen, by selecting the best men available for positions of public trust.

ARE WE MAKING DYES?

To those not directly connected with the American textile business there is something incongruous in the present situation as it affects the supply of dyes and chemicals used in manufacture. Since the beginning of the war complaints have been heard on all sides because of the cutting off of foreign chemicals, but as yet little apparent has been done to remedy the shortage, except on a small scale not calculated to relieve the situation. All manufacturers are agreed that the possibilities of still greater shortage may seriously hamper American enterprise but few are agreed on some practical plan to offset it by domestic manufacture.

If the statements of leaders in manufacture and prominent inventors are true, there is no reason why America should be dependent on any foreign country. We have been told repeatedly that most of the dyes made in Germany can be made in this country—though at a greater cost—and that the domestic need would be the occasion for domestic initiative. Why then has not something been done on a large scale to effect our dependence on a foreign commodity? If the situation is as represented, American manufacturers are guilty of a neglect that may seriously interfere with the textile business if the war is prolonged two or three years.

The key to the situation is in the hands of the manufacturers. If they encourage the birth and growth of a new departure, American invention will undoubtedly rise to the occasion. Our own textile school has been in the forefront of enterprise and, through its heads, has declared its readiness to meet any demands made by the textile industry. All of the dyes used at the school for years have been made on the premises and at present the splendid establishment is training a portion of facts can fasten the responsibility to the shoulders of the democratic party. In his account of his stewardship Governor Walsh shows how many of his reforms were achieved in spite of republican opposition and how he failed in other respects owing to the same reason. He is giving a frank and sincere account of his term of office. Let Mr. McCall speak of the extravagance of the Massachusetts legislature by all means, but let him be equally frank in declaring that the legislature in question has for many years been controlled by the republican party. As campaign material, he is using arguments that may act as a boomerang.

COTTON RELIEF SCHEME

The suggested purchase by the government of 5,000,000 bales of cotton for the purpose of relieving the southern planters, as introduced in congress last Saturday, was little short of ridiculous. Though supported by senators from the cotton states it met with moribund defeat. The country as a whole fully recognizes the need of the cotton belt and would like to see some reasonable scheme of relief, but that the government should enter into such a wild proposition is as foolish as it would be dangerous. Cotton is by no means the only industry affected by the war and there is no reason why it should be bolstered up by the government to the neglect of all other industries. The problem is one for the planters, agents, traders and bankers and there ought to be some way to help all concerned through a dismal season without drawing upon government funds. After a period of waiting, there will be demand enough for cotton, and in this great country there should be credit sufficient to ride the planters and others interested over until better times. President Wilson indicated that he would veto the war tax bill if the appropriation for cotton were tacked on, and it is not likely that the matter will be brought up again in the near future.

A PARISIAN ECHO

If anything were needed to emphasize the necessity for neutrality in all American public expressions regarding the present war it would be afforded by a perusal of the editorial called forth by Congressman Gardner's recent speech and published in the famous Miroir of Paris. This international notice has not been attracted by the superlative wisdom of the speech but by its breach of neutrality; any expression of views on one side or the other could not fail to be so noted when the originator is an American congressman. To say that the speech has been commended in Paris is to say that it is condemned in Berlin. Mr. Gardner is a gentleman of great originality and strong convictions but he is scarcely to be trusted in discussing delicate international matters. His favoring of the allies was not at all necessary in emphasizing his point, and he will scarcely be flattered by such distinguished foreign notice when the fortunes of his own country are liable to be endangered.

Another attempt of the municipal council to make capital at the expense of the school board is revealed by the letter of protest sent to the council against the turning of rent for the Kirk street annex into the general treasury while the school board pays the same amount of rent for that property. From first to last the school board has had many reasons to complain of its treatment at the hands of the present council.

Carrying revolvers seems to be a favorite practice with our irresponsible young men, according to revelations of the local police court. Is it due to the influence of the war or is it due to a lack of local vigilance in some quarters? There is no doubt that those who are not fitted to carry revolvers find it far too easy to acquire them.

If the lack of interest on the public market matter will be the same after election as before, it would be just as well to call it a failure right now. It is really a benefit to any class, it is too bad that the subject is not agitated more persistently and intelligently.

In all probability the lunch cart proprietors toned down the milk so that the midnight lunchers would not be troubled with insomnia.

AID FROM COLONIES

One who signs himself "Ardent Reader" has asked if England can order her colonies to aid the mother country in the present war. England cannot order her colonies to send aid. She can appeal for assistance and it is optional with the colonies as to whether such request shall be granted. The spirit of patriotism, however, is so strong in the colonies that it is not necessary for England to appeal to them for assistance. They volunteer it.

THE IRON CROSS

Another reader asks about the Iron Cross so frequently alluded to in the German war news. The Iron Cross is an order of merit established by Frederick William III. of Prussia March 10, 1813, for patriotic bravery in war against France; revived by William I. in 1870 in the Franco-Prussian war and awarded by him to his son, Frederick William for victory at Wissembourg Aug. 4, 1870. About 49,000 persons were decorated in 1870-71.

DUCK HUNTERS' EXPERIENCES

Dr. Frank R. Brady and John M. Farrell, the well known auctioneer, returned a few days ago from a very successful duck shooting trip down the Cape, having taken a half-hundred ducks or more. They had some experiences, too, that are worth relating. Once while drifting in a boat waiting for a heavy fog to rise, a shark came along and made his presence felt by giving the boat a push that almost turned it over. There was some question in the minds of the duck hunters as to whether they ought to

WHEN SOME ONE CARES

When you meet some disappointment, and yet feel that it is a blessing in disguise, when you find all your plans, tracked, or some friend has proved untrue, when you are telling, praying, struggling at the bottom of the stairs—It is like a pained—just to know that someone cares. Someone who can appreciate one's efforts when he tries; Someone who seems to understand—and so can sympathize; Someone who when he's far away, still wonders how he fares; Someone who never can forget—someone who really cares.

It will send a thrill of nature through the framework of the heart; It will stir the inner helm till the fear-drops want to start; For this life is worth the living when someone yet sorrows shares—Live is truly worth the living, when you know that someone cares.

Oh, this world is not all sunshine—Many days dark clouds disclose; There's a cross for every joy-bell, and a thorn for every rose; But the cross is not so grievous, nor the thorn the rosier, when someone really cares—An' the words have a silver lining—when someone really cares.

—James E. Hilkey.

A PREDICTION
The generalship on both sides is too good to expect such a false move on either side as will make possible a decisive battle. But by this time the numbers of the allies ought to be so superior that the general course of the war will be a slow, continuous pushing-back by the Germans. Until well, it seems a long day before England has crushed German militarism. Before that is accomplished there should be a return to approximately normal conditions of trade for the greater part of the trading world. In the United States business ought soon to be not so bad as it has been. —Lexington Sun.

FACTORY ACCIDENTS

Even expert testimony is to be taken with a grain of salt. For example, at the industrial safety congress one speaker said that 60 per cent of the factory accidents were due to broken tools and another declared that 75 per cent were caused by the carelessness of employees. Which, if either, statement was correct may be left to the reader to conjecture. The chances are, however, that both speakers were, unintentionally of course, wrong in their estimates. —Springfield Union.

THE GENTLE RAIN

The weather man certainly has not stunted us on rain. The forest fires are now things of the past, there are no more dusty roads, the new breads and streams raised materially and the ground splendidly stretched. ## BUSINESS OUTLOOK

Those best informed believe that a greater opportunity than ever lies in front of all kinds of manufacturers, makers of shoes among them. This has already been dwelt upon in the past, but it is well to call attention to it again. The new trade started when other sections of the world cannot supply it must endure to the benefit of our country. Those sections that reach out and get it.—Haverhill Record.

FOREIGN ORDERS

The contracts for war materials for Europe are beginning to arrive, which indicates that whatever surplus supplies there may have been in the commissary departments when war broke out have been used up. ## WORKERS WHO DRINK

One strong feature of the movement against the curse of intoxicating drink is the fact that employers are more and more conscientiously endeavoring to in fact the habit of drink is more and more becoming fatal to obtaining employment. The 600 members of the council, representing more than 1,000,000 working men, and covering every line of industrial endeavor, unanimously adopted resolutions against the use of alcohol.—Fall River News.

Simple Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve, and entirely destroy, every single grain and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

HOW TO KILL CHICKENS

Lack of the Knowledge Has Caused Loss of Large Sums, Says Department of Agriculture

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The department of agriculture estimates that many thousands of dollars' worth of meat was lost last winter because of a lack of knowledge on the part of poultry men concerning improved methods of killing chickens. In view of the great loss sustained in 1913, new rules for "killing chickens" have been issued.

The report of the department says that the old way of slaughtering poultry for the market "wrecked many hundreds of poultry, sent tens of thousands of pounds of chickens, turkeys, ducks and geese to the crematory and left the consumers with such a strong aversion to the taste of poultry that reached the market in an 'off' condition that sales have suffered ever since."

The following advice is given poultry dressers by the department experts:

"Birds should be kept in coops with only a few other birds before killing, so that they will have an abundance of food. For 24 hours before killing they should be given only water. Killing should be done by cutting the veins of the neck from inside the mouth while the bird is suspended by the feet. Birds should be dry-picked, not scalded, and the animal heat must be removed by refrigeration at from 30 to 35 degrees for 24 hours."

MRS. SPLAINE'S MOTHER DEAD

LOCAL HORSEMEN DISCUSS PLANS FOR WINTER SPORT—WILL ARRANGE FOR ICE RACING

A well attended meeting of the Lowell Driving club was held last evening in its headquarters in the Wameest building, corner Thorndike and Middlesex streets. As the meeting was the first held this season reports of racing and equities were received with considerable interest. After a discussion of winter horse racing it was agreed that a duplication of last winter's activities on the ice path should be in order, and with this in view it was voted to hold another meeting in two weeks. It was announced after a general discussion relative to summer racing, that Michael F. Sinead had the most successful season.

On Face. So Bad at Night Could Hardly Sleep. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In Two Weeks Trouble Gone.

88 Gooding St., Pawtucket, R. I.—"My face broke out in eczema blotches which itched severely. They were deep red and I could not keep from scratching it at night. It seemed as if I would scratch my face to pieces and they looked so at night I could hardly sleep. I tried different creams and ointments but instead of getting better it seemed worse. After a month I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The itching was so much relieved that I kept on and after two weeks the trouble was gone." (Signed) Miss Ellen S. Whitaker, Jan. 31, 1914.

ROBBERY CLUE THE ADVENTIST CHURCH

Eight Year Old Gives Police Tip on Theatre Robbery

Police Sergeant David Petrie added another feather to his cap last night by rounding up the boys responsible for the recent robbery at Keith's theatre when money and valuables, the property of actors and actresses, were stolen from a dressing room.

Eight-year-old Henry Plant was spending money with the reckless abandon of a sailor after a long cruise and this very fact gave the officer his first clue. He connected with little Henry and the boy gave him the story, implicating his pal, Leonel Gaulin, 14, of 331 Pawtucket street. The boys did not start in with any worse intention than to see the show for nothing, but they colluded with a temptation that was too great for them.

Sergeant Petrie located the Gaulin boy in the very playhouse where the misdemeanor had been committed. He had been talking in the show and was as much surprised when told that he was wanted in the rear of the house as though he had been called before the footlights. As he approached the rear of the house he was nabbed by Serg. Petrie who took him to the police station.

On the night that the robbery occurred, Gaulin said he and the Plant boy went to the rear of the theatre and climbed the fire escape with the idea of seeing the show through a window. On reaching the window they discovered the valuables lying in plain sight. The temptation was too strong and they made away with it. The lion's share of the spoils was appropriated by Gaulin while the Plant boy got only $4 of the plunder.

Since that time Gaulin has been having good things to eat, but has been sleeping in all sorts of places. He owned up to having stolen a plush robe from a parked motor car. This, he said, was sufficient to keep him comfortably warm at night.

It was further disclosed from the boy's statements, that there were a number of English coins among the stolen valuables. These, he claims, he threw away, not considering them negotiable.

The boy's father admits his inability to control him, so it is very probable that he will be remanded to some institution. The Plant boy, on account of his extreme youth, was released.

The money which has been recovered from Gaulin will be forwarded by the police to the owners, who are now giving a theatrical engagement in Montreal.

DRUGLESS HEALING

The Hyomel Catarrah Remedy is Nature's Own Method

You would not take a pill to heal a bad cold, nor should you think of trying to cure catarrh, or head colds by dosing the stomach.

The sensible way is to medicate the air you breathe with Hyomel. This treatment goes at once to the sore and congested membrane lining the nose, and throat, and makes a rapid and lasting relief of distressing catarrh, and similar ailments.

Hyomel is nature's true method of treating all diseases affecting the air passages—what you breathe it. The Hyomel complete outfit consists of a neat hard rubber inhaler, easily carried in the pocket, and a bottle of Hyomel. This is usually sufficient for the ordinary case. Chronic and deep-seated trouble may require a little more of the liquid, in which case you can get an extra bottle of Hyomel at a trifling cost.

Hyomel is sold by druggists everywhere, and Booth's Hyomel Co., of Buffalo, authorize them to return the money to any dissatisfied customer. If it cures the treatment is free—no charge. If you are not benefited it costs absolutely nothing.

ATHLETES AND ATHLETICS

Battling Levinsky put it to Fireman Flynn last night in each of the ten rounds that the men fought. Levinsky had the better of the fighting and also outboxed Flynn.

H. H. Wilder of this city has been mentioned as the next Massachusetts representative to the National Golf association. He is a member of the Vesper Country club and is one of the best known links specialists in New England.

The Princeton and Dartmouth squads are putting in a hard week in preparation for their game Saturday at the Tigers oval. No matter which eleven wins it will be some game. The seats for the contest have already been sold out.

"Ham" Barnes, the former high school player who later went to Dartmouth, is at Textile school this week. Barnes should have little difficulty in holding down a line position in the game to come.

The Michigan team is making great preparations for its invasion of the stadium a week from Saturday. The players under "Hurricane" Yost would rather defeat the Crimson eleven than win the supremacy of the west. Harvard is worried over the outcome of the game.

Lowell High will line up against the English High eleven of Boston next Saturday at Spalding park. The Hub school has not sent a football team to Lowell in several seasons. The last time that the locals entertained English High here Harold Janviro, now playing the pivot bag for the Red Sox, provided several features for the Boston boys by his speed at end running.

Textile will probably not play on Saturday. The schedule has undergone several changes and the Freshman-Sophomore game will probably be pulled off on the Textile campus instead of an inter-school contest. The squad is putting in some hard work this week as the absence of O'Brien and Coleman from the lineup has caused a general shift in the team.

Joe Egan gave Young Jasper a boxing lesson in the semi-final windup at the Atlas A. A. last night. Jasper is an aggressive welterweight and packs a healthy punch but he couldn't seem to locate the South Boston boy last night. Egan, as well as being shifty, can hit as he demonstrated more than once. It was Egan's bout beyond a doubt.

"Gunboat" Smith was a sorry looking white hope after Langford got through with him last night. Ho-Ho's smashes to various portions of the gunner's anatomy left their mark. He began with Smith thought he was beaten when he entered the ring or at least gave every appearance of it. He didn't look much, if any, better against Langford than did Colin Bell, the Australian, two weeks ago.

Charley Dooin, for several years manager of the Phillies, will probably take a flying leap into the lap of the Federal league this week. Since his release in favor of Moran the Feds have held out flattering offers to Dooin which it is almost certain he will accept. The outlaws have proven a great boon to discharged players and managers.

The Federal league holds its annual meeting this week on Friday and Saturday in New York. Organized baseball will have nothing on the outlaws when it comes to meetings and powwows. The heads of the Feds state that they are willing to meet O. E. B. in an effort for peace, but that the half way mark is just as far as they will travel. At present it looks like war.

The only league in the country which has not completed its schedule is the Pacific coast organization. They are the first to open in the spring and the last to close down. And at the same time this league is the most independent minor league in the country and will take no back talk from their big brothers unless their views happen to coincide.

GUNBOAT SINKS 317 FOR MARTIN

Smith Put Away in the Third Round by Sam Langford

"Gunboat" Smith never had a chance with Sam Langford last night when the two heavyweights met in Boston in the most important battle of big men which the country has seen this year. Smith was knocked out in the third round of a scheduled 12-round bout after being floored hard in the first and second rounds. The bell saved the gunner in the second session.

Boston's Tar Baby was in better form than he has shown in several years. From the tap of the gang Ho-Ho went at his white opponent in whirlwind fashion, forcing the fighting and never letting up a moment until Smith lay before him unable to get to his feet.

The largest gathering of fans that ever took in a fight in Boston was present last night when Smith and Langford climbed through the ropes. Smith's showing against the Boston man was a big disappointment.

Langford used his usual style of aggressive fighting. With both hands held at the ready Ho-Ho walked into Smith in every round. Smith's left jab, which won him a decision over Langford a year ago, proved ineffective last night inasmuch as Sambo allowed it to slip off his countenance with no symptoms of slowing him up.

Smith appeared nervous from the first. He apparently realized that at last Langford was in condition. His punches did not carry the snap and force that they possessed a year ago. A net delegation of Lowell fans attended the bout.

MORAN SUCCEEDS DOOIN

VETERAN CONTACTED TO MANAGE PHILADELPHIA NATIONALS—BANQUET FOR STALLINGS

FITCHBURG, Oct. 21.—Patrick J. Moran, who has been acting as coach for the Philadelphia National league baseball team, yesterday was elected manager of the club to succeed Charles S. Dooin, according to a telegram which Moran received from Pres. William F. Baker of the Philadelphia club last night.

Shortly afterward Moran received a telegram from Hans Lohr, third baseman of the Philadelphia team, who was a candidate for the position, congratulating him on his selection.

Moran has been a catcher in professional baseball for 20 years. He played with the Lyons club of the New York state league, and subsequently played with the Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia Nationals. He was with the old Chicago Cubs when they won two world championships. He is 31 years old.

It is reported that Moran's contract as manager will be for one year. The salary was not made public. Moran has been with the Philadelphia club since 1910, acting as utility catcher and coach for the pitchers.

It is understood that Dooin will remain with the team as a catcher.

BANQUET FOR STALLINGS—BOSTON, Oct. 21.—The Winter league banquet is to be given for George T. Stallings upon his return to Boston early in December promises to have a big array of baseball men present. The dinner will be similar to the one given last winter and will consist of a turkey menu, the turkeys to be sent from Dr. Stallings' plantation at Hadley, Ga.

It is the intention of the Winter league to have present Gov. Walsh, Mayor Curley, Pres. John K. Tener of the National league, Pres. Ban Johnson of the American league, Pres. Lannan of the Red Sox and Pres. Gaffney of the Braves.

Those connected with the Braves who have given their word they will be present are Capt. John J. Evers, Water Manville, Leslie Mann, Fred Mitchell, Tom McCarthy, George Tyler and Joe Connolly. All the managers and owners of the New England league clubs have signed their intention to be present. Committees are now being formed to insure an affair that will collapse. If possible, anything of the kind ever given in Boston.

KONETCHY SAYS DOES A FED LACROSSE, WIS., Oct. 21.—Ed Konetchy, Pirate first baseman, who has been fishing near here since the close of the season, not only confessed yesterday that he had jumped to the Pittsburgh Federal, but declared that a large number of other National leaguers have signed contracts to play with the Federal. "Konetchy" would not give any names.

"HEINIE" WAGNER IN BOSTON—BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Charley Wagner of the Red Sox returned to Boston yesterday from Camp Carigan in Maine and left in the afternoon for his home in New Rochelle, N. Y. Wagner was delighted with his visit down east, and said he felt confident that he will be in shape to start practice work next March at Hot Springs, Ark.

NINES AND TENS

Also Spares and Strikes Pulled Off by Local Leagues Last Night

Several of the local bowling leagues held forth last night on their various alley selections and the bowling quarters resounded to the shouts of the rollers and their friends as the strikes and spares were reeled off.

The Baraca league opened up in good style last night with two games. The bowlers in this league hit em hard and often and good scores were in order. The Highland M. E. Five put it on to the Immanuel Baptist Quintet, while the First Swedish church rolled off a victory over the First Primitive Methodist.

Harison, Marshall and Hargreave put up good scores. The Lamson league produced a couple of hotly contested alley arguments although no remarkable scores were set up. The Pneumatics went down before the Blittrics by a seven pin margin, while the Sweepstix swept down the Prefers five by a close score. J. Steward and Brunello showed the best form.

Team Two of the Lawrence company showed to better advantage than Team one, and had little trouble in winning. In this contest Scott was the class. In the Y. M. C. A. league two games were played off, the Iroquois winning from the Samosets and the Merrimacks taking their rock from the Merrimacks. The rolling of Kirby and Groves was the best of the evening.

In the Mercantile league, Macartney's quintet put it on to the Tuske and Parker crew by an appreciable score, while the D. L. Page rollers swamped the C. B. Coburn combination. Huntley and Lawn proved the best rollers in this league.

The Manufacturers league also staged a pair of games. The team from Field and Lumbert Co. won handily over the Hamilton aggregation, and the Merrimacks captured their match with the Car Shop squad. Paul, White and Chandler put up the best totals. The Concord league managers resulted in victories for the Arlington and Washington over the Cubs and Invincibles. Allen and Hinkle scored the highest totals. The scores:

STALLINGS WINS

Campaign May Revolutionize Baseball

Now that the Braves are world's champions, it's quite likely that many of the big league managers will adopt the Stallings method of varying the attack according to what sort of a pitcher is working for the opposition. Stallings has five regular outfielders, Cather, Whitted, Connolly, Moran and Mann. And yet, only one of the five can be counted as a regular. That's Whitted. He's the regular center-fielder and he's down the job no matter whether the opposition plays a left-handed or a right-handed pitcher.

If the other side uses a right-handed twirler Stallings uses Moran, Connolly and Whitted. If a southpaw goes against the Braves, Stallings makes an immediate shift, replacing Connolly and Moran, who are left-handed hitters, with Mann and Cather, who bat from the other side of the plate.

Managers Laugh at Plan

When Stallings first introduced the plan other managers scoffed at it. During the early part of the season it didn't seem to work out to great advantage. Some thought it was because the idea was at fault, but it wasn't. It was because Stallings didn't have exactly the right kind of out-fielders to use in the scheme. When he secured Cather and Whitted from St. Louis and later got Moran from Cincinnati, he had the right combination.

Stallings' success since then attracted the attention of all the other big league managers. Those who were prone to scoff at first changed their attitude. They studied the results of the Stallings mode of attack and they discovered the results very beneficial to the Braves.

Uses Three Pitchers

It is probable, too, that some of the managers will adopt the other Stallings innovation—that of using only three regular pitchers, instead of four, as was the universal custom for many years until Stallings came along and established the precedent.

Stallings, when putting his every third-day pitching scheme into operation, said that he was sure that it wouldn't harm the pitchers. He said that working a pitcher every third day would keep his arm in better shape than working him only every fourth day. Other managers scoffed at the plan. They said it would wreck the pitcher's arm.

WAR HELPS THE PACKERS

PUT ON 3000 EXTRA MEN FOR MEAT CANNING—WORKING NIGHT AND DAY IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—For the first time in 16 years the meat packers at Chicago stockyards are working day and night in the canned meat and hide departments in order to fill orders.

The unusual activity has been caused by the large orders received as a result of the European war. In the canning departments of the big packers some 3000 extra men have been put to work within a week in order to operate the plants at their fullest capacity.

The visible domestic supply of canning beef was depleted several weeks ago and the packers began sending to foreign fields for cattle suitable for this purpose. As a result, Canada, Mexico and southern states which never before shipped livestock to this market, have been sending their cattle here, receiving a good price for their product.

The packers announce that their entire stock of hides on hand has been contracted for and that orders have been received which will exhaust the normal supply for November and December.

Until recently the normal trade in hides in Chicago has averaged from 40,000 to 75,000 hides a week. Last week 150,000 hides were sold on the local market.

NO DECISION ON SALEM

CONGRESSMAN GARDNER KEEPING THE IRONS HOT AND BELIEVES CITY WILL GET $200,000

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 21.—No decision has yet been reached by the war department in reference to paying over to the relief committee the $200,000 appropriated by congress for the stricken city of Salem soon after the fire. Congressman Gardner visited the department several days ago with a committee from Salem, who urged an immediate payment of the money.

The congressman has sent an additional brief to the department in which he recalls the use of the word "Rehabilitation" which occurred in President Wilson's special message when he urged congress to make the appropriation. The congressman is confident that the money will be sent to Salem.

Case Resumed

To judge by this week's police court list Lowell is ripe for a war. No less than six local young men have been haled to Market street for mauling one another. Today John Aspiro and Charles E. Saucier pleaded guilty to drunkenness and disturbing the peace.

The latest pair of amateur scrappers mixed it up down town last night just before midnight. Officers Coleman and Bergan performed the pinch blanc, a couple of Chelmsford gentry, rambled into the waiting room out in that town yesterday afternoon while in their cups and attempted to confiscate the places and occupants to their own convenience and ends, said the constable whose stern hand placed them under arrest.

One of them pleaded guilty while the other wanted to argue it out with the court. He might just as well have saved his breath for the evidence was

The case of Albert W. Stevens, charged with the larceny of $175 from the local branch of the Bricklayers' union, came up on continuance today and went to trial just before noon. The case was not finished when the morning session was adjourned. William Regan and John J. Devine appeared for the defence while Edward J. Tierney handled the prosecution. Several lively tilts occurred between the lawyers at the opening of the case.

Abraham Singer said that he did not steal a pair of pantaloon from George F. Pendergast. The complaint said that he did.

The defendant was the proprietor of a tailor shop on East McCormack street and the pantaloon in the case were made at his place. He said that he was to be cleansed. A fire broke out in the tailor shop and put the defendant out of business. Aforementioned pantaloon have not since been heard from.

The complainant and his father testified that they saw the pantaloon in the shop after the fire. Defendant said that he had not seen them. In view of the fact that the defendant did not have exclusive opportunity to take the pantaloon, Judge Enright

TO RELOCATE TRACKS

KNYERS VISITED FIRST STREET TODAY

This afternoon Commissioner Morse, City Engineer Kearney and the engineer of the Bay State Street Railway company visited First street and inspected the road with a view to relocating the tracks so as to give a wider roadway. It was decided at the end of the conference that the tracks will be relocated and the roadway surfaced with cinders and oil to be rolled down and to give a fairly hard coating. This may serve as a temporary arrangement until the boulevard is completed from the car barn to Read street.

HOW PEANUTS HELPED A BOY

Once upon a time a little boy was given a party. When they went home each of his little friends were given a small package. "To do with just as you want," said the little host.

One of the children was a little boy from the South and as he had to go home the next day he forgot in his excitement the package that his little friend had given him. A few days after he remembered it and went to see where it was. When he opened it he was very much disappointed to find only a bag of peanuts and a slip of paper asking him to come to a party the next year at the same time and bring all he got out of the bag.

Now what did that mean? As he didn't know, he went to his mother and asked her to help him.

"Well," she said, "I would plant them and see how much you could bring. Perhaps the peanut crop will be very good this year."

I am not going to tell you how he planted or cared for the peanuts or how often he gave up his time from school to see that they were all right or how long it took for him to pull them from the ground and free them from the dirt, or the many backaches he had to get them ready to take north with him.

I shall only tell you that the next year he went to the party and took with him so many delicious peanuts that the children spent most of the time in the kitchen roasting them, and that he took the prize for bringing the best results from the bags given out.

Besides all the peanuts that he took to the party he sold enough to pay his fare from his home and back again.

Do you know that this boy has raised so many peanuts that he is called "The Peanut Millionaire."

THE CITY STREETS

Great Danger Lurks in Some of Lowell's Thoroughfares

The condition of the streets is one of the principal topics of conversation about town these days and what is being said about the streets and sidewalks is not of a nature to make the commissioner of streets and sidewalks or any other member of the municipal council swell with pride. There are dangerous spots in the streets that might be easily remedied and unless something is done the city may have to pay well for injuries to persons and property. The combination of leaves and oil in some of the streets strikes terror into the heart of the autoist and motorcyclist. The leaves ought not to be allowed to accumulate in the street, especially in streets recently oiled.

Another practice complained of by autoists and motorcyclists is the watering of unclean streets. The watering of a street that has not been cleaned and the condition often obtains even in Merrimack and Central streets, tends to form an oily soup that renders an automobile or motorcycle almost unmanageable. A man and woman were thrown from a motorcycle opposite the M. C. A. building in Merrimack street about a week or ten days ago and in Central street, near Market street, five motorcycles were thrown in one afternoon and one of them was a police officer. None of the motorists were seriously injured. The upsets, however, were due to the so-called oily soup, a water and dirt combination that ought not to be tolerated.

Mayor Murphy, Commissioner Morse and City Engineer Kearney made a tour of the streets yesterday afternoon, but they did not pay any attention to the conditions above described. They simply went out to view the work that has been done and that is underway and, as usual, brought back a report of progress.

The places visited by the city officials included the Pawtucketville sewer, including West Meadow road, Mill-chell avenue, Woodward avenue and Hayes avenue. The main trunk sewer which starts at Woodward avenue and continues to a point off Hayes avenue, the work is pretty well along, but in West Meadow road considerable granite was encountered and the work has been delayed. This is the sewer that is said to have the sanction of less than half of the citizens of Pawtucketville.

The official investigators had their attention called by Mr. Morse to an elm tree in the middle of Asawan street at its junction with Moore street. It was decided to remove the tree as it is believed to be a menace to traffic in the vicinity.

Other places visited included Lawrence street, Wiggsville, where the Pay State Street Railway company is relocating its tracks; Bell street, where a sewer has been petitioned for; Westford street, Boylston and Fairmount streets and Clark road.

$5000 JOB THROUGH 'AD'

MAYOR MITCHELL OF NEW YORK APPOINTS A MAN OBTAINED BY THE 'HELP WANTED' COLUMN

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Mayor Mitchell appointed to a $5000 job yesterday a man whose services he obtained through an advertisement in the newspapers. The office is that of Third Deputy Commissioner of Charities and the new incumbent was preferred above a dozen applicants who had been seeking the place. George G. Thompson, named for the position, answered the advertisement in the "Help Wanted" column, which was as follows: "WANTED—Business man, 35 to 45 years of age, able to superintend large force of employees, direct extensive construction work and organize and direct purchasing and distribution of enormous quantity of supplies. Only men of marked executive ability and good character need apply. Salary $5000 a year. Highest references required." Three hundred replies were received. None of the applicants knew that Mayor Mitchell was the advertiser.

SEEKS TO BREAK WILL SAYS RAID WAS ILLEGAL

CASE INVOLVES ESTATE OF MORE THAN $1,500,000—CLAIMS SERVANT HAD INFLUENCE

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Whether a household servant of Louis Cabot of Milton influenced the latter in the disposition of his estate valued at more than $1,500,000 in one of the issues to be determined in the contest over the will of Mr. Cabot, which was before Judge Hammond in the supreme court yesterday on a question of framing issues for a jury.

Judge Elliot of the Norfolk county probate court allowed the will and three codicils, but certified that the case was proper for a jury trial.

Mary C. Briggs, wife of Dr. L. Vernon Briggs, and the daughter of Mr. Cabot, has appealed to the supreme court from the decree of the probate court, allowing the will. She seeks to break the will on the grounds of unsoundness of mind and undue influence.

Sherman L. Whipple, counsel for the contestant, and Charles F. Choate, for the executors, were before Judge Hammond yesterday, discussing the issues upon which the contest is to be tried. Both would prefer, if possible, to have the case heard by a judge in the supreme court at the sitting in Norfolk county in February, instead of trying it before a jury in the superior court.

The questions to be determined are whether the will and codicils were duly executed according to law, whether the testator was of sound mind when he executed them, whether they were procured by undue influence of his daughter, Mrs. Charlotte H. Bartol; her husband, Dr. John W. Bartol; Edward E. Woodward and George E. Cabot, or any of them.

Mr. Cabot died Feb. 3, 1914. His will was drawn by Prof. John C. Gray. It provided that his grandchildren should receive the income of his property during their lives, and that 21 years after the death of the last grandchild the principal sum should be distributed among the heirs of the testator. The will named Mrs. Briggs, the contestant, as one child, and Mrs. Bartol, the other daughter of Mr. Cabot, six children.

Mr. Whipple claimed that Edwin F. Woodward, for 25 years a servant in the household of Mr. Cabot, practically had charge of all the household affairs, and while he did not dominate Mr. Cabot he exercised an insidious influence that operated in the disposition by Mr. Cabot of his property.

Trouble occurred between Dr. Briggs and Woodward before the will was made and it is alleged Woodward prejudiced Mr. Cabot against his son-in-law.

It is further contended that George E. Cabot, the nephew of the testator, made the necessary arrangements to have the will drawn by Mr. Gray, and was named as one of the executors.

Although Mr. Whipple does not maintain that there is anything to show that George E. Cabot directly influenced his uncle, he contends that there is evidence from which the jury can infer that he did so.

No direct influence is directed against either Dr. Bartol or his wife, but it is contended that they were used by Woodward in a scheme to influence the testator.

JUDGE RUDKIN SO TERMS SEIZURE OF BOOKS BY POSTAL OFFICIALS

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The trial of Jared Flagg, indicted with Ex-United States Treas. Daniel N. Morgan and others on a charge of using the mails to defraud Stock Market investors, was adjourned abruptly yesterday until today, after the United States judge Rudkin expressed the opinion that the postal authorities acted illegally when, three years ago, they raided Flagg's offices and took a wagon load of books and papers which the government has retained since.

Whether this raid was illegal and Flagg's constitutional rights were violated will be decided by the United States supreme court, whose decision is expected in Washington Monday.

Meanwhile, the United States district attorney's office here decided to restore Flagg's records at once and they will be removed tomorrow from the federal court room to Flagg's offices. Flagg's counsel told Judge Rudkin yesterday that, once they were in his client's possession again, he had the right to "engulf" them in the waters of New York Bay.

The motion before the United States supreme court included a plea to compel the district attorney's office to return the books and records to the defendant.

The government attorney's agreement to surrender the books and papers was made with the understanding that Flagg would sign a receipt for every one of them. United States District Attorney Marshall said the government would be able to prove its case without the use of the documents.

Albert L. Miller, son of the late Benjamin F. Miller, a manufacturer of Plymouth, Mass., testified yesterday after seven of the tentative jurors chosen Monday were peremptorily challenged and the jury box again filled. Mr. Miller identified correspondence which, he said, passed between his father and Flagg.

United States Asst. Dist. Atty. Thompson, addressing the jury, said that while Elbridge Sewall, one of the defendants, was the real treasurer in Flagg's business, Ex-United States Treasurer Morgan received 1 per cent. of all money handled for the use of his name, which Mr. Thompson said appeared in literature bearing the line: "Mr. Morgan has watched millions belonging to the United States, why can't he watch yours?"

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Lowell acie, 223, F. O. The charter has also been open since the first of the month and this fact makes an added inducement. At last evening's meeting of the acie plans for increasing the membership were discussed and several communications were read relative to the welfare of the order. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Oct. 27.

Molly Varnum Chapter, D. A. R. The first fall meeting of Molly Varnum chapter, D. A. R., was held yesterday afternoon in the Spaulding house on Pawtucket street with Regent Hove presiding. An interesting talk on "The Future of America" was given by Rev. S. A. Jackson. Considerable important business was transacted.

THE USE OF PERFUMES

"Do you like perfume?" gurgled Marjorie to Marie as she sniffed the delicious odors in her aunt's boudoir.

"Yes, if used in good taste," answered Marie. "Flowers and scents are a physical benefit to many women and are equally beneficial to the busy man, clerk, stenographer, student, or anyone deeply engrossed in thought. The artist finds them valuable, not alone for their scent but for the inspiration gained from color."

"Fresh cut flowers are not always to be had and at certain times of the year the price is almost prohibitive but one need not be deprived of one's favorite scents. Sachet powders in most any color desired can be secured at a nominal cost and when properly distributed will give out fragrance in such a mild and pleasing manner that one will almost imagine that the breeze is wafting the odor from beautiful flowers nearby."

"Then, too, there are dainty bags that may be filled with dried perfumes and hung about the rooms, secreted, if you like. But a dainty and pleasing manner of disposing of them is to attach them to the window curtains and allow the wind to carry the scent through the house. To hang them on portieres gives one a pleasing sensation on entering the room."

There is a genuine delicacy about sachet powders that is impossible to get in any other form; for this reason I prefer them rather than liquid perfume; their effect is generally more pleasing. "Little sachets may be cleverly accreted about one's clothing, for instance in the flowers, bow or lining of a hat. A small sachet bag the same color as the hair may be so placed that it will not be visible and will scent the hair long after its removal. The petals of flowers, used to ornament the corset or a corsage bouquet, may be filled with scent. Also the lovely ribbon flowers used for bows, necklaces and trimming may be treated in like manner. However, one should be guarded and never place these sachets near the skin, for this destroys their mild fragrance."

"The handkerchief is an accessory that no woman's toilet is complete without, and there are but few women who prefer them unscented."

"In using a wet perfume one must be careful not to use too much; in fact, it is a difficult matter to apply wet perfume and secure a pleasing fragrance without allowing it to air for awhile. This is so because the alcohol which is used in the preparation of the perfume predominates until evaporation takes place."

"To avoid this and at all times have a scented handkerchief, I would suggest keeping the handkerchiefs in a scented case. A case made by covering a sheet of cotton padding with sachet powder, placing another sheet on top of this and then covering with silk or closely woven mullin."

"A fancy cover may be secured to this to keep the pad clean. The case is not formed into a bag but is simply folded over the handkerchiefs."

GIRL IN MAD LEAP FROM THIRD STORY WINDOW

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Trapped in a position which branded her as a burglar, and rather than face the disgrace of arrest, Miss Gertrude F. Fernandes, a mere girl, took the chance of death in a mad leap from freedom from the third story window of the apartment of George E. Kinsman at 30 Arcadia street, Dorchester, yesterday afternoon.

The daring risk she took when Mrs. Kinsman, coming home unexpectedly, caught her in the apartment, ended in her being terribly hurt. After trying to barricade herself in the bathroom, this girl Raffles, as the police and Mrs. Kinsman claim her to be, made a break through the rooms for liberty.

Dodging her discoverer, she raced through the hall and into a bedroom, and plunged headlong through a window, sweeping the screen out with her.

Her left leg crumpled under her, with both bones broken, as she struck the ground 30 feet below, and she fell unconscious at the feet of Mrs. Kinsman as the latter rushed out of the house to call the police.

Helpless to make further effort, she was taken in a police ambulance summoned by neighbors to the city hospital, where she was placed under arrest on the charge of breaking and entering.

Mrs. Kinsman declared last night that she is unwilling to prosecute the young woman, believing that she has already suffered enough.

Mrs. Kinsman returned home after a visit to her husband yesterday afternoon, earlier than usual on such occasions, and when she approached the entrance door to her apartment she found it open and a key in the lock.

She entered the apartment, thinking that perhaps her husband had returned home, called his name aloud. On receiving no reply, Mrs. Kinsman boldly began a systematic review of the rooms.

When she arrived in front of the bath room she noticed it slightly ajar. As she was about to enter it, the door was suddenly forced open and she found the trespasser on the inner side was stronger than she.

"Open the door or I shall lock you in," she called out to the intruder. Receiving no response, Mrs. Kinsman tried to turn the key in the lock, when the door was suddenly forced open and to her astonishment, for she thought she had a male burglar cornered, a young girl dashed by her. Emboldened by this discovery she gave chase and brought her to the door of the bathroom, where the young woman, without a moment's hesitation, made the dive through the window.

"She has jumped out of the window," was the startling outcry Mrs. Kinsman heard as she reached the street in front of her home. A neighbor had seen the girl leap from the window and had given the alarm.

An uncle and aunt of the girl, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Dowd, live on the second floor of the apartment house, under that of Mrs. Kinsman. The girl has been the habit of visiting her relatives during the summer and autumn.

Mrs. Kinsman told the police that on several occasions during the summer she and her husband had missed clothing and small jewelry from their flat. This loss Mrs. Kinsman placed at about $100. Because of this series of losses, Mrs. Kinsman said she was nervous and planned not to remain in the apartment, and chose rather to visit her mother when she could.

She said she returned to her home earlier than usual yesterday and evidently surprised the girl, who she thought to have become acquainted with Mrs. Kinsman's custom. Mrs. Kinsman said that she found her bed covered yesterday afternoon with furs and winter clothing which evidently was to be taken away.

NAVAL BATTLE IN BALTIC SEA, NEAR RUGEN ISLAND

CAPT. JOHNSON TELLS OF SINKING OF BRITISH STEAMER BY GERMANS

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Captain Johnson and 15 men of the crew of the British steamer Giltara, sunk by a German submarine, have arrived in Slangerup, Norway, from Skidnes, according to a despatch to the Reuters Telegram company. In telling of his experience Captain Johnson said:

"The Giltara left Grangemouth, Scotland, Sunday night with coal and coke for Slangerup. Monday afternoon the German submarine N 17 popped out of the water to the starboard and stopped us. The place was about nine miles southwest of Skidnes.

"The submarine sent a boat aboard with five men, with revolvers in hand they ordered the English flag taken down, threatening to shoot me if I did not obey. Furthermore, they notified me to make haste and they allowed me to move the lifeboats and take off the crew of the ship.

"I took down the flag, whereupon the German officer tore it out of my hands and trampled it under foot. I was forced to take the ship's papers back when I attempted to take them off, and none of the crew was allowed to take any of their belongings.

"The crew went to the lifeboats which the submarine quickly towed five hundred yards from the Giltara. Three Germans remained aboard for a few minutes searching the ship thoroughly and rapidly and one of them evidently opened the bottom valves because the rear of the ship began to sink. Then in a short time the Giltara disappeared quietly beneath the waves.

"We in the lifeboats were ordered to row to the shore. When we reached Norway our first duty was to get a small pilot boat which towed us until a Norwegian torpedo boat took us aboard."

VENICE REPORTS PROGRESS FOR AUSTRIANS—CAPTURE RUSSIAN GENERAL

LONDON, Oct. 21.—An official communication issued in Vienna at noon Tuesday is given in a despatch from Amsterdam to the Reuters Telegram Co. It says:

"The battle in Central Galicia has increased in force, especially north of the Sirviza river, where our attacks are progressing.

"The attempts of the Russians to regain the Magiera heights have been repulsed. In the course of this fighting many Russians were captured, including one general. Several machine guns also were taken.

"The Austrians have occupied Stry (42 miles southwest of Lemberg), Kocossinow and Serth after strong Russian resistance."

GREAT ANXIETY MANIFESTED IN GERMANY OVER WAR SITUATION

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 21.—The military correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt hints that there is a certain amount of anxiety about the situation manifesting itself in Germany. He explains, though, that a decision is likely to come "like a thief in the night" and that it will more probably be on the east front rather than in the west.

"While fresh masses of troops can be brought without hindrance over sea," he says, "they constitute an awkward adversary. Although the unity of their forces—if they invaded Germany—is to be doubted, Germany has still a somewhat hard task which must not be forgotten in waiting for the decision."

Chancellor Bethmann-Hollweg, according to the Tageblatt, is being attacked in certain influential circles as responsible for the war.

OFFICIAL GERMAN REPORT OF BLOWING UP OF JAPANESE CRUISER

PEKING, Oct. 21.—An official German report on the blowing up of the Japanese cruiser Takachio on the night of Oct. 17 sets forth that the German torpedo boat S-90 went to sea with the intention of attacking a larger cruiser. Failing in this, she had to content herself with the Takachio.

As soon as this vessel had been disposed of the S-90 attempted to escape. It was found, however, that this movement could not be carried out successfully and she was run on the beach, after which the crew escaped ashore.

"The Japanese legation here says that the work of mounting the siege guns against the first degree was completed and that the bombardment of Tientsin probably will be delayed for several weeks.

20,000 BELGIAN REFUGEES ON WAY HOME—CARDINAL MERCIER RETURNS

THE HAGUE, Oct. 21.—Cardinal Mercier, archbishop of Malines, who took refuge in Holland several weeks ago, has now returned to his native city. He had advised all Catholic refugees to follow his example.

The New Rotterdam Courant declares that 20,000 Belgian refugees passed through Rotterdam on their way home during the past two days.

It has been rumored that Namur has been recaptured by the allies, but this report is entirely without confirmation and is not believed here to be probable.

PETROGRAD DENIES THAT RUSSIANS LOST 40,000 AT PRIZHISL

PETROGRAD, Oct. 21.—The Russian war office today gave out the following statement:

"The German official communications have adopted a policy of grossly exaggerating the Russian losses. It is known that the Russian announcement that the Russian losses in Przemsyl were about 40,000 exceeds the real losses one hundred times.

FRENCH OFFICIAL REPORTS SAY GERMANS REPULSED ALL ALONG LINE

PARIS, Oct. 21.—The French official communication given out this afternoon says that the attacks on Neuport, Dixmude and La Bassée by the Germans all were repulsed by the allies.

The text of the communication follows: "During the day of yesterday the attacks of the enemy were particularly violent at Neuport, Dixmude and La Bassée. They all were repulsed by the allied armies with great energy.

"At all other points the situation is without any notable change."

men wounded had been removed from Bruges.

The Daily Mail's Rotterdam correspondent, under date of Tuesday night, says that according to a German message a fierce battle is still raging between Furnes and Dunkirk.

He continues: "On the march on Dunkirk, the Germans met a large and unexpected body of troops, which attacked them horse, foot and artillery, while the British warships cooperated with the land forces. The Germans are reported as falling back in confusion on Ostend and troops from all over the west of Belgium have been hurried to Neuport."

TAX BILLBOARDS

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—At the hearing held in Boston yesterday by the commission to inquire into the subject of regulating and taxing signs, Secretary S. F. Sherman of the chamber of commerce took the position that electrical signs and poster advertising had vested rights, being located on private property and were entitled to the protection of the law the same as any property rights, and by reason thereby should be subject to be taxed on the basis of their value, the same as other property, and if made to pay a tax, the enforced payment thereof might work to eliminate some of the worst features of this class of advertising.

That there was a demand for such advertising methods was evidenced by the large amount invested in the business, it being disclosed in a suit filed in the United States court that one company alone had expended over five million of dollars for advertising, most of it being for this class of work.

The commission will hold another hearing at a later date.

600 INDIANS JOIN MATTORENA GUAYMAS, Mex., Oct. 21.—(By wireless to San Francisco.) All west coast ports were reported quiet today.

FURIOUS BATTLE IN THE NORTH CONTINUES

French Say Germans are Fighting to the Limit of Their Energy—Desperate Fighting Around Lille—Barbed Wire Halts Allies

PARIS, Oct. 21.—The outcome of the battle in the north, according to the judgment of observers in Paris, still remained undecided this morning. The furious contest in this part of Belgium and France is regarded here as now having reached its height. The Germans who at first apparently yielded to the offensive of the allies are now forcing to the maximum the lines of the French and English. In this they have been assisted by reinforcements drawn from Belgium.

The attacks of the allies, which have been accompanied by progress at various points, have been followed always by spirited counter attacks on the part of the Germans who in the opinion of the French are fighting to the limit of their energy. Around Lille and in the thickly populated districts where the fighting has been from house to house the operations are difficult and progress has been slow, especially in the face of the barbed wire defenses put up by the Germans.

The allies, however, apparently are fighting with the greatest order and determination to take the important city of Lille in spite of the extraordinary obstacles the enemy. The barbed wire obstructions have proved a serious obstacle to the allied advance and numerous means of surmounting them have been considered. It is realized here that it may be necessary to make sacrifices to this end, and it has been suggested that the men selected for the task be armed, among other things with bucklers such as were used successfully in attacking the notorious automobile bandits of Paris in their refuge in the suburbs of the city.

SEIZE POLICE RECORDS

TWO TRANSFERS IN CHICAGO DETECTIVE BUREAU, TO AID INQUIRIES

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Capt. John J. Halpin, chief of the detective bureau, and Lieut. John H. Tobin, second in command, were removed from this branch of police work yesterday by Mayor Harrison and sent to outlying police stations.

The transfer, Mayor Harrison said, was temporary and in order to facilitate investigation into charges of illegal relations between members of the detective force and certain criminals.

The transfer followed shortly after Macley Hoyne, state attorney, raided the office of the detective bureau and took away two trunk loads of records. Many of these records were secrets of the department it was said.

Notes of prisoners who had not been booked, but released on police order, were expected to show collusion between thieves and certain detectives. Other notes were expected to show that influential citizens who reported robberies were given little encouragement by the department to press their claims.

Capt. William P. O'Brien, from an outlying station, and Lieut. Charles Tarkin, who has been detailed at the office of the state attorney, will take the places of Halpin and Tobin.

The deposed lieutenant was named in a warrant obtained Friday by C. P. (Barney) Bertsche as accessory in the plot to assault and kill him.

Delavan's, Which is 145,000,000 Miles From the Earth, is Visible Near "Big Dipper"

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—The Delavan comet is nearly at its brightest and can easily be seen with the naked eye low down in the northwestern heavens about 10 degrees below the "Big Dipper" handle. The time to look for it is about 6 p. m. or as soon after dusk as the stars become bright. The comet is moving in a westerly direction toward the bright star Antares, which, it is reported, it will pass Oct. 26. Its tail, approximately three degrees in extent, is traceable in a northerly direction.

According to recent computation, Delavan's comet is 145,000,000 miles from the earth and is traveling about 1200 miles a minute. Astronomers say that it differs from other comets in that it is different in character from the Halley comet and that it approached the earth as closely it would dominate the heavens with a splendor far greater than Halley's a few years ago.

The comet takes its name from Paul T. Delavan, who was the first to observe it on its return in September, 1913, at the Naval observatory at La Plata, Argentina. It was identified as the "Comet Westphal 1892 IV," the records of which show an estimated period of 61.5 years. This comet is one of seven that have been under observation during 1914.
